Operators Call For Coal Talks

Owners, Lewis Remain Divided On Dixie Issue

UMW Boss Deplores Talk Of New Strike

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Soft coal operators urged tonight that wage contract talks be reopened, but they and John L. Lewis appeared firmly split on the issue of admitting a southern group of operators.

The negotiations broke up at their outset on this issue yesterday. Lewis opposed letting the Southern Coal Producers Association in, saying that in the past that group had attempted to veto contract agreements.

Tonight, all the operator groups wrote Lewis:

"The position taken by the mine workers to exclude from the conference the Southern Coal Producers Association, which represents a large part of the tonnage of the industry, was a mistake and should not have been insisted upon to the point of breaking up the conference."

As for the veto point, the letter said "no single group on the operators' side has veto power." It said there is no unit rule on matters of policy.

Lewis had said that the operators had always used the unit rules by which one negotiator could block a contract settlement.

Expression Of Solidarity

Joseph E. Moody, president of the southern association, said that tonight's letter merely expressed management solidarity and that it pointed out that the unit rule was abandoned 18 months ago.

The United Mine Workers also got out a statement tonight. It said the southern operators wrecked the conference, that it "died a-borning because of the action of a minority of the operators."

"These operators malignantly refused to abide by past practice and the 1947 contract," it added.

Lewis said earlier today he deplored talk of a new coal strike July 1. He singled out three leading operators as having the key to "peace or war in the coal industry."

One of those he listed, President James D. Francis, of the Island Creek Coal Company in West Virginia, disputed Lewis' statement as "not correct."

"I am greatly interested and anxious that a fair contract be made," Francis said at Huntington, W. Va., "but I have no responsibility for negotiating such a contract."

Francis said the southern association represents his firm but Lewis "tried to ignore Moody."

Lewis' Statement Significant

Lewis' deploring of the strike talk may have some significance.

Ordinarily the members of Lewis' United Mine Workers do not work without a contract and their present one is due to expire July 1. But Lewis told reporters:

"We deplore the suggestions that are being published that an end of the contract is in itself a suggestion of a stoppage of work."

The power to bring about peaceful settlement of issues, Lewis said, rests with these men: President Benjamin Fairless, of United States

"Age Of Opportunity" Here, Truman Declares

1,300 Fatherless Boys Hear President

PHILADELPHIA, May 20. (AP)—President Truman said today the world is living "in the greatest age in history"—an "age of opportunity."

And in a speech before 1,300 fatherless boys, students at Girard College, the chief executive of the United States expressed a nostalgic "wish that I could be 18 again, to live through this age with you."

"It is the endeavor and effort of the government of the United States to have that age accomplished for the welfare and peace of the world, and not its destruction," Mr. Truman said.

"You boys can consumate that effort if you can just carry on with the opportunity around you.

"Don't let anyone tell you there is no opportunity. It is there, better and greater than ever. This country has only started on its career. Again I wish I had the same opportunity that you have.

Extemporaneous Speech

The brief extemporaneous speech climaxed a six hour "non-political" visit to Philadelphia to attend the centennial celebration of Girard College, unique educational institution founded by Stephen Girard, pioneer American financier.

The school, in accordance with Girard's will, provides food, shelter and education for fatherless white boys between the ages of six and 18. It now has some 1,700 students, and has graduated 15,000 boys, many of whom President Truman said, "are the leaders of America."

During the trip and his visit to the cool, tree-shaded campus almost in the heart of the city, the President attended a reception and luncheon in his honor, received from a student a small statue of Stephen Girard, and inspected the college cadet corps.

And at one point, as he toured the campus, Mr. Truman smilingly remarked "I'm knee deep in boys"

"Give that young fellow a chance," he admonished news photographers as one small student camera fan sought to squeeze in for a close-up.

And on the trip, too, the President sampled the school's traditional "hummuds"—circular eight-inch ginger bread cookies served on special occasions.

School Situation "Disgraceful"

Mr. Truman took the occasion of his speech at a private school financed entirely by the founder's endowment, to assail the financial status of public education.

He recalled that Stephen Girard founded the college with a bequest of nearly $7,000,000 that has since grown to "many times that amount."

"When he encouraged boys and young men to thirst for an education he was doing something really

Vote Of Workers To Decide If Meat Strike Continues

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP)—Some 100,000 striking CIO packinghouse workers voted at mass meetings today and tonight on whether to end their nine weeks old work stoppage—on company terms.

"The workers will decide whether or not to accept the latest offer of the packers," said a company spokesman at the union's national headquarters.

The spokesman said the results will be known tomorrow and that the strike will be called off if the rank and file favor such a step.

Throughout the 66-day-old strike the big four packers—Swift, Armour, Wilson, and Cudahy—have stood on their original offer for a nine cents an hour wage boost. The union rejected that offer before the walkout, demanding 29 cents.

Russia Protests Publications Ban

BERLIN, Friday, May 21 (AP)—The Russian military administration today protested as illegal an American action banning Russian-sponsored publications from the United States zone of Germany and demanded its immediate revocation.

The Americans announced their embargo Wednesday and said it would remain in force until the Russians guaranteed to stop interfering with the circulation of American-sponsored newspapers and other publications in the Soviet occupation zone.

The United States military government charged that hundreds of thousands of such publications had been confiscated in Russian orders in violation of four-power agreements for a free exchange of information throughout Germany. Repeated protests proved fruitless, United States officials said.

The Russian protest, distributed by the official Soviet news bureau, alleged that the American action was a violation of four-power agreements. The Russians claimed they

Cost Of Living Reached New Peak During April

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Living costs as measured by the Bureau of Labor statistics rose to the highest point yet during April.

In another government report, the Federal Reserve Board said today that inflationary pressure will be stronger in the last half of the year than in the first half. It said price increases will be hard to forestall.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said a spurt in prices during April "more than offset the decline that occurred from January to March."

Austrian Peace Talks Collapse

4-Power Discussions Began Two Years Ago

LONDON, May 20 (AP)—Official United States sources said tonight that the four-power talks on an Austrian peace treaty will be called off indefinitely.

The breakdown, which follows a temporary suspension two weeks ago, came after nearly two years of futile efforts to resolve the differences between Russia on one side and the United States, Britain and France on the other.

The sources said the indefinite suspension came yesterday when Samuel Reber, chief of the American delegation, met privately with M. P. Kotimov, head of the Soviet delegation, to talk over changes of reaching an Austrian accord.

Kotimov, an American informant said, told Reber he had received instructions from Moscow to stand firm in his support of Yugoslavia's territorial claims and reparations demands against Austria.

Yugoslavia has claimed approximately 800 square miles of Austrian territory in two southern provinces —mineral rich Carinthia and scenic Tyria—both of which have large numbers of Slavic residents.

It was this issue which two weeks ago caused temporary suspension of the Austrian peace talks among the four powers. The talks have been in progress nearly two years in Moscow, Vienna, Paris, New York and London.

When the talks last were suspended, Reber said the United States would insist on two basic principles in any Austrian peace settlement:

1. That Austria's frontiers remain as they were before Adolf Hitler's anschluss in 1938.

2. That Austria pay no reparations.

Reber said at that time that the United States would await "new proposals" on a possible settlement. American diplomatic officials said this depended upon action by the Soviet Union.

In the course of the London talks, the Foreign Ministers' deputies agreed on only one major point—the limitation on the size of Austria's armed forces to 53,000.

American sources reported that Reber since yesterday has talked with Britain and France on Russia's position and has received their unqualified support.

Teacher Facing Mann Act Charge

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 20 (AP)—A 44-year-old Elwood, Ind., high school teacher, father of four children, today faced a Mann Act charge which the Federal Bureau of Investigation said stemmed from an escapade with one of his girl pupils.

Donald R. Brown, an English teacher, and 18-year-old Verna Jean Parrill, also of Elwood, were arrested yesterday at nearby Ithaca by FBI agents.

Brown, who had taught in Elwood 13 years, pleaded innocent to the charge when arraigned before a United States commissioner here. He was held in default of $5,000 bail.

The FBI said he was accused specifically of transporting the girl across state lines for immoral purposes.

Miss Parrill, member of a prominent family and a senior in Elwood High School, was held as a material witness in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Arthur Cornelius, Jr., special FBI agent, said the couple had been living together as Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parrill in Ithaca. The teacher had obtained employment in a department store, he said.

SIX VIRGINIA MINERS KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Barkley, Rayburn Chosen To Direct Demo Convention

Dixie Appeasement Denied By McGrath

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (AP)—Two borderline southerners were chosen today to direct the Democratic national convention.

But Sen. J. Howard McGrath, the party's national chairman, insisted the selections were not designed to appease Dixie Democrats revolting against President Truman's civil rights program.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky)

The 16-member executive committee of the Democratic National Committee chose Sen. Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, as keynoter or temporary chairman and Rep. Sam Rayburn, of Texas, for the permanent chairmanship.

A short time later, Barkley said in Washington "I appreciate the honor, which comes to me wholly unexpected. I'll do the best job I can."

Rayburn said he considers it "a high honor, and I shall accept the post."

McGrath termed Barkley and Rayburn "very liberal men who supported in every way the program of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Recognition is due both for long and valiant service to the Democratic party."

Barkley has taken no stand on the controversial civic rights program but in his capacity as minority leader in the Senate has been a staunch supporter of the administration.

Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex)

He was keynoter of the 1932 and 1936 conventions, served as permanent chairman of the 1940 conclave and in 1944 placed President Roosevelt's name in nomination.

Rayburn, former Speaker of the House and now minority leader of that body, has come out against the civil rights program but has not been vigorous in his objections. He has had no previous high convention post.

McGrath came from the two-hour meeting to speak with newsmen. He said Mr. Truman's election prospects were not discussed at the

Count Bernadotte Named U. N. Palestine Mediator

Right Of O'Conor To Senate Seat Finally Upheld

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—A republican-dominated Senate finally gave its approval today to the right of Democrat Herbert O'Conor, of Maryland, to the seat he has been occupying for nearly 18 months.

O'Conor, former Governor of Maryland, won the seat on the face of official tabulations in November of 1946. But his trailing Republican opponent, D. John Markey, asked the Senate one month later to deny O'Conor the seat because of election "errors and irregularities."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of a Rules Committee which since has been investigating the election, moved today for Senate approval. The resolution passed with a voice vote.

The Senate Rules Committee dismissed Markey's charges after statewide recount of the ballots and investigation of irregularities.

Soviet Ukraine Links Britain With Arabs

LAKE SUCCESS, May 20—(AP)—Count Folk Bernadotte, of Sweden, was chosen tonight as United Nations mediator for Palestine.

Count Bernadotte, vice president of the Swedish Red Cross, was picked by the five great powers after he had accepted a proffer of the assignment.

His selection came after the United Nations Security Council wrangled in two sessions today over whether to use strong measures against warring Arabs and Jews in Palestine or adopt peaceful mediation.

The council adjourned until tomorrow without a decision.

Count Bernadotte, 53, will go to Palestine as United Nations mediator backed by the authority of the 58-nation General Assembly.

Nephew of King Gustav

The Assembly approved last Friday the appointment of a mediator to work to obtain a peaceful adjustment in Palestine.

The Swedish count, nephew of King Gustav, acted as intermediatory between Heinrich Himmler and the Allied authorities in the closing days of World War II.

He will receive $26,000 annually, tax free, with traveling expenses.

If the Security Council finally decides to resort to mediation, as asked by Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Britain, that assignment likely will be entrusted to Count Bernadotte.

The United Nations Assembly also decided that a neutral mayor should attempt to preserve the holy places of Jerusalem and administer the city until a peaceful solution is obtained.

The United Nations chose Harold Evans, presiding clerk of the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends, for that post.

Britain Called Belligerent

In the Security Council today, the Soviet Ukraine charged that the British are attacking Israel through the Arab Legion of Trans-Jordan.

The Soviet view was given by Vassily A. Tarasenko, Ukrainian delegate, who declared Britain is a belligerent in the Palestine war.

Tarasenko said the British-trained Arab Legion of King Abdullah is in reality an armed force of the British. He said the Legion nominally belongs to Trans-Jordan but has a British command and British officers and is financed by Britain.

The British contribute $8,000,000

Arabs Take Jews Off American Ship

HAIFA, Israel, May 20 (AP)—Jewish officials made official representations to the United States consulate tonight after 69 Jews, including 41 Americans, were taken by force from the American steamship Marine Carp at the Arab port of Beirut.

Fifty-one other Jewish passengers —women and children and several old men—were permitted to continue the trip to Haifa.

(A communique issued by the Lebanon government in Beirut said that those detained were sent to a concentration camp. It added that the 69 were arrested because they were able to bear arms.)

An American consular official in Haifa said about 100 armed Arabs, mostly in the uniform of the Lebanese army, boarded the ship. This official said that the troops, after searching the luggage of all passengers, lined up all Jews of military age.

"Apparently officials of the American legation in Beirut advised the Jews to leave the ship at the command of the Lebanese in order to avoid bloodshed," the consular official said.

(In Washington the State Department said the removal was carried out over the objections of the American minister in Lebanon. Department officials said, however, that additional information is being awaited before a decision is made on a formal protest to the Lebanese government.

(A message received by the Associated Press in New York said all American and Palestinian men aboard the ship were detained at gunpoint. All baggage was searched and the women were mistreated, the message said.)

Holland Regains Gems

MUNICH, Germany, May 20 (AP)—Fifty million dollars worth of diamonds looted from Holland by the Nazis have been recovered and will be returned to the Netherlands.

United States Property Control announced the transaction today. The diamonds, weighing more than 9,000 carats, were found in a Bavarian bank.

Jewish Forces All But Shoved From Old City

Escape Route Cut; Jew Planes Emerge

CAIRO, Egypt, May 20 (AP)—Trans-Jordan Arab Legion claimed possession or access to 80 per cent of Jerusalem's old city tonight and advanced steadily against retreating Jewish fighters in the new city.

AP Correspondent Daniel De Luce reported from the old city that Legionaires captured Tiferet Israel Synagogue, Jerusalem's tallest building, today. He said Haganah and Irgun Zvai Leumi's Jewish fighters had withdrawn into another old city landmark, Beit Yaacov Synagogue, for a last ditch stand.

The end of the three-day battle for the old city appeared to be in sight. An unofficial report said the Arab Legion had possession of Zion Gate, possibly the best escape route for Jewish fighters if the Arabs finally drive them out of the old city.

In the new city, Legion gunners forced back Jewish detachments from the northern edge of the Meah Shearim quarter and carried them into position for a raging battle to clear the Jews from Allenby Square. Arabs also bombarded Senbedriya, a Jewish quarter northwest of Jerusalem which temporarily is menacing the right flank of the Arabs' southward sweep.

Haganah was reported to have evacuated its stronghold in the government printing building in Southwestern Jerusalem, but still held the railway station.

Jewish Air Fighters Emerge

The Jewish and Arab air forces swapped blows during the day in aerial activity featured by the emergence of the Jewish air fighters. The Jews took to the air in an effort to check the initial phase of an Arab drive to cut off Zionist settlements in Northeast Palestine from Israel's main strength in the Coastal Plain.

The first Jewish air raid, announced today, was aimed Wednesday at Samakh, at the southern end of the Sea of Galilee, on a main Arab route into the northeast region.

An Egyptian Defense Ministry communique said Egyptian planes bombed oil stores, factories and power stations south of Tel Aviv today, making "direct hits which caused many heavy explosions." The objectives were left ablaze, the communique said.

Syrian planes, a communique said, bombed Jewish convoys at Kfar Kema, south of the Sea of Galilee, and raided the Jewish settlements of Kinnereth and Yavniel. Planes also attacked the settlements of Ramot Naphtali, Nabi Yusha and Mishmar Hayarden in the same area.

The Egyptian Defense Ministry announced that Egyptian mobile forces occupied Beersheba, southernmost limit of the Holy Land in biblical times, and captured two strong Jewish positions on the Palestine coast beyond Gaza. To capture Beersheba the Egyptians had to cross a belt of territory allotted to the Jewish state by the United Nations partition scheme.

Randolph Holds 3-2 Lead In ITU Election

[By The Associated Press]

Woodruff Randolph, seeking re-election as president of the AFL International Typographical Union, tonight held a 3-2 lead over his opponent, John R. Evans, on the basis of incomplete, unofficial returns.

Returns from 31 locals gave Randolph 14,096 votes and Evans 9,118.

The figures for this tabulation came mostly from ITU local officers in the various cities. In many cases local voting returns were posted on newspaper bulletin boards.

The bulk of the returns came from big cities. Evans had claimed major strength for his independent party among the smaller locals.

House Won't Consider Draft Bill Until June

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Rules Committee Chairman Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.) said today the House will not consider the draft bill until after June 1.

This new timetable, disclosed to reporters after a closed meeting of the Rules Committee, is about a week later than the one set several days ago by Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) Martin said the bill would reach the House floor some time next week.

U. S. Notches Up Advances In Long-Range Air Power

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Two striking advances in long-range air power were notched up today by United States fighting arms as Russo-American "peace exchanges" locked on dead center.

The Navy disclosed that one of its P2V Neptunes—the plane that holds the 11,235-mile world distance record—has been launched successfully from a 45,000-ton carrier.

The Air Force reported that a huge six-engine B-36 bomber had made what is probably the longest flight in history with a payload. It shuttled 8,000 miles between Texas and California, carrying a "sizeable, useful load of dummy bombs" which were dropped about midway of the flight.

The new strides in American warplane operations were announced just as some United States diplomats appeared about ready to write off recent Soviet peace feelers as so much humbug. The implications of today's announcements certainly were not lost on Russia's air marshals or the Kremlin's strategists.

The Navy's Neptune, a swift two-engine patrol bomber, normally is land-based. But a Navy official who declined to permit the use of his name disclosed that it took off, with the assistance of jets, from the flight deck of the U.S.S. Coral Sea off the Virginia Capes last month, and flew to a landing on shore.

It was a Neptune which in 1946 flew the 11,235 miles non-stop from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio.

Schoolboys, Running Town For Day, Attempt Cleanup

ZANESVILLE, O., May 20 (AP)—It goes on in a thousand cities every year, this letting high school seniors play at running the town for a day, but here the boys played it hard and straight.

They put the pinch on some gambling, added $25 and costs to the city coffers, and confiscated enough punch boards and "cookie jars" to open a casino.

The duly elected and appointed adult city officials picked up the pieces today after a "laboratory experiment" in civics that was a dinger.

The boys were "Mayor" Aubrey Sibbring, "City Solicitor" Frank Schurtz, Jr., and "Police Chief" Jack Harper, all 17-year-old seniors of Lash High School. They were elected by fellow students last week to take up Mayor William S. Watson's annual invitation to "run the city" yesterday and do the things they read about in civics classes. These three put on a series of raids, with the aid of one patrolman who never knew what was next. When Police Chief (real) Clifford Courtney caught up and took away Police Chief (pro tem) Harper's gun and badge, they were planning secretly to knock off a house of prostitution.

Meanwhile "Fire Chief" Charles Cooper, "City Auditor" Henry Abele, and "Safety Director" John Montgomery tried to keep a campaign promise to let school out early. They set about having the overcrowded building declared a firetrap. That fizzled.

Russia Protests Publications Ban

BERLIN, Friday, May 21 (AP)—The Russian military administration today protested as illegal an American action banning Russian-sponsored publications from the United States zone of Germany and demanded its immediate revocation.

The Americans announced their embargo Wednesday and said it would remain in force until the Russians guaranteed to stop interfering with the circulation of American-sponsored newspapers and other publications in the Soviet occupation zone.

The United States military government charged that hundreds of thousands of such publications had been confiscated in Russian orders in violation of four-power agreements for a free exchange of information throughout Germany. Repeated protests proved fruitless, United States officials said.

The Russian protest, distributed by the official Soviet news bureau, alleged that the American action was a violation of four-power agreements. The Russians claimed they

Austrian Peace Talks Collapse

4-Power Discussions Began Two Years Ago

LONDON, May 20 (AP)—Official United States sources said tonight that the four-power talks on an Austrian peace treaty will be called off indefinitely.

The breakdown, which follows a temporary suspension two weeks ago, came after nearly two years of futile efforts to resolve the differences between Russia on one side and the United States, Britain and France on the other.

The sources said the indefinite suspension came yesterday when Samuel Reber, chief of the American delegation, met privately with M. P. Kotimov, head of the Soviet delegation, to talk over changes of reaching an Austrian accord.

Kotimov, an American informant said, told Reber he had received instructions from Moscow to stand firm in his support of Yugoslavia's territorial claims and reparations demands against Austria.

Yugoslavia has claimed approximately 800 square miles of Austrian territory in two southern provinces —mineral rich Carinthia and scenic Tyria—both of which have large numbers of Slavic residents.

It was this issue which two weeks ago caused temporary suspension of the Austrian peace talks among the four powers. The talks have been in progress nearly two years in Moscow, Vienna, Paris, New York and London.

When the talks last were suspended, Reber said the United States would insist on two basic principles in any Austrian peace settlement:

1. That Austria's frontiers remain as they were before Adolf Hitler's anschluss in 1938.

2. That Austria pay no reparations.

Reber said at that time that the United States would await "new proposals" on a possible settlement. American diplomatic officials said this depended upon action by the Soviet Union.

In the course of the London talks, the Foreign Ministers' deputies agreed on only one major point—the limitation on the size of Austria's armed forces to 53,000.

American sources reported that Reber since yesterday has talked with Britain and France on Russia's position and has received their unqualified support.

Teacher Facing Mann Act Charge

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 20 (AP)—A 44-year-old Elwood, Ind., high school teacher, father of four children, today faced a Mann Act charge which the Federal Bureau of Investigation said stemmed from an escapade with one of his girl pupils.

Donald R. Brown, an English teacher, and 18-year-old Verna Jean Parrill, also of Elwood, were arrested yesterday at nearby Ithaca by FBI agents.

Brown, who had taught in Elwood 13 years, pleaded innocent to the charge when arraigned before a United States commissioner here. He was held in default of $5,000 bail.

The FBI said he was accused specifically of transporting the girl across state lines for immoral purposes.

Miss Parrill, member of a prominent family and a senior in Elwood High School, was held as a material witness in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Arthur Cornelius, Jr., special FBI agent, said the couple had been living together as Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parrill in Ithaca. The teacher had obtained employment in a department store, he said.

SIX VIRGINIA MINERS KILLED IN EXPLOSION

House Won't Consider Draft Bill Until June

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP) — Rules Committee Chairman Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.) said today the House will not consider the draft bill until after June 1.

This new timetable, disclosed to reporters after a closed meeting of the Rules Committee, is about a week later than the one set several days ago by Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) Martin said the bill would reach the House floor some time next week.

Barkley, Rayburn Chosen To Direct Demo Convention

Dixie Appeasement Denied By McGrath

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (AP)—Two borderline southerners were chosen today to direct the Democratic national convention.

But Sen. J. Howard McGrath, the party's national chairman, insisted the selections were not designed to appease Dixie Democrats revolting against President Truman's civil rights program.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky)

The 16-member executive committee of the Democratic National Committee chose Sen. Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, as keynoter or temporary chairman and Rep. Sam Rayburn, of Texas, for the permanent chairmanship.

A short time later, Barkley said in Washington "I appreciate the honor, which comes to me wholly unexpected. I'll do the best job I can."

Rayburn said he considers it "a high honor, and I shall accept the post."

McGrath termed Barkley and Rayburn "very liberal men who supported in every way the program of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Recognition is due both for long and valiant service to the Democratic party."

Barkley has taken no stand on the controversial civic rights program but in his capacity as minority leader in the Senate has been a staunch supporter of the administration.

He was keynoter of the 1932 and 1936 conventions, served as permanent chairman of the 1940 conclave and in 1944 placed President Roosevelt's name in nomination.

Rep. Rayburn (D-Tex)

Rayburn, former Speaker of the House and now minority leader of that body, has come out against the civil rights program but has not been vigorous in his objections. He has had no previous high convention post.

McGrath came from the two-hour meeting to speak with newsmen. He said Mr. Truman's election prospects were not discussed at the

Right Of O'Conor To Senate Seat Finally Upheld

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—A republican-dominated Senate finally gave its approval today to the right of Democrat Herbert O'Conor, of Maryland, to the seat he has been occupying for nearly 18 months.

O'Conor, former Governor of Maryland, won the seat on the face of official tabulations in November of 1946. But his trailing Republican opponent, D. John Markey, asked the Senate one month later to deny O'Conor the seat because of election "errors and irregularities."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of a Rules Committee which since has been investigating the election, moved today for Senate approval. The resolution passed with a voice vote.

The Senate Rules Committee dismissed Markey's charges after statewide recount of the ballots and investigation of irregularities.

Soviet Ukraine Links Britain With Arabs

LAKE SUCCESS, May 20—(AP)—Count Folk Bernadotte, of Sweden, was chosen tonight as United Nations mediator for Palestine.

Count Bernadotte, vice president of the Swedish Red Cross, was picked by the five great powers after he had accepted a proffer of the assignment.

His selection came after the United Nations Security Council wrangled in two sessions today over whether to use strong measures against warring Arabs and Jews in Palestine or adopt peaceful mediation.

The council adjourned until tomorrow without a decision.

Count Bernadotte, 53, will go to Palestine as United Nations mediator backed by the authority of the 58-nation General Assembly.

Nephew of King Gustav

The Assembly approved last Friday the appointment of a mediator to work to obtain a peaceful adjustment in Palestine.

The Swedish count, nephew of King Gustav, acted as intermediatory between Heinrich Himmler and the Allied authorities in the closing days of World War II.

He will receive $26,000 annually, tax free, with traveling expenses.

If the Security Council finally decides to resort to mediation, as asked by Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Britain, that assignment likely will be entrusted to Count Bernadotte.

The United Nations Assembly also decided that a neutral mayor should attempt to preserve the holy places of Jerusalem and administer the city until a peaceful solution is obtained.

The United Nations chose Harold Evans, presiding clerk of the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends, for that post.

Britain Called Belligerent

In the Security Council today, the Soviet Ukraine charged that the British are attacking Israel through the Arab Legion of Trans-Jordan.

The Soviet view was given by Vassily A. Tarasenko, Ukrainian delegate, who declared Britain is a belligerent in the Palestine war.

Tarasenko said the British-trained Arab Legion of King Abdullah is in reality an armed force of the British. He said the Legion nominally belongs to Trans-Jordan but has a British command and British officers and is financed by Britain.

The British contribute $8,000,000

Arabs Take Jews Off American Ship

HAIFA, Israel, May 20 (AP)—Jewish officials made official representations to the United States consulate tonight after 69 Jews, including 41 Americans, were taken by force from the American steamship Marine Carp at the Arab port of Beirut.

Fifty-one other Jewish passengers —women and children and several old men—were permitted to continue the trip to Haifa.

(A communique issued by the Lebanon government in Beirut said that those detained were sent to a concentration camp. It added that the 69 were arrested because they were able to bear arms.)

An American consular official in Haifa said about 100 armed Arabs, mostly in the uniform of the Lebanese army, boarded the ship. This official said that the troops, after searching the luggage of all passengers, lined up all Jews of military age.

"Apparently officials of the American legation in Beirut advised the Jews to leave the ship at the command of the Lebanese in order to avoid bloodshed," the consular official said.

(In Washington the State Department said the removal was carried out over the objections of the American minister in Lebanon. Department officials said, however, that additional information is being awaited before a decision is made on a formal protest to the Lebanese government.

(A message received by the Associated Press in New York said all American and Palestinian men aboard the ship were detained at gunpoint. All baggage was searched and the women were mistreated, the message said.)

Holland Regains Gems

MUNICH, Germany, May 20 (AP)—Fifty million dollars worth of diamonds looted from Holland by the Nazis have been recovered and will be returned to the Netherlands.

United States Property Control announced the transaction today. The diamonds, weighing more than 9,000 carats, were found in a Bavarian bank.

Escape Route Cut; Jew Planes Emerge

CAIRO, Egypt, May 20 (AP) — Trans-Jordan Arab Legion claimed possession or access to 80 per cent of Jerusalem's old city tonight and advanced steadily against retreating Jewish fighters in the new city.

AP Correspondent Daniel De Luce reported from the old city that Legionaires captured Tiferet Israel Synagogue, Jerusalem's tallest building, today. He said Haganah and Irgun Zvai Leumi's Jewish fighters had withdrawn into another old city landmark, Beit Yaacov Synagogue, for a last ditch stand.

The end of the three-day battle for the old city appeared to be in sight. An unofficial report said the Arab Legion had possession of Zion Gate, possibly the best escape route for Jewish fighters if the Arabs finally drive them out of the old city.

In the new city, Legion gunners forced back Jewish detachments from the northern edge of the Meah Shearim quarter and carried them into position for a raging battle to clear the Jews from Allenby Square. Arabs also bombarded Senbedriya, a Jewish quarter northwest of Jerusalem which temporarily is menacing the right flank of the Arabs' southward sweep.

Haganah was reported to have evacuated its stronghold in the government printing building in Southwestern Jerusalem, but still held the railway station.

Jewish Air Fighters Emerge

The Jewish and Arab air forces swapped blows during the day in aerial activity featured by the emergence of the Jewish air fighters. The Jews took to the air in an effort to check the initial phase of an Arab drive to cut off Zionist settlements in Northeast Palestine from Israel's main strength in the Coastal Plain.

The first Jewish air raid, announced today, was aimed Wednesday at Samakh, at the southern end of the Sea of Galilee, on a main Arab route into the northeast region.

An Egyptian Defense Ministry communique said Egyptian planes bombed oil stores, factories and power stations south of Tel Aviv today, making "direct hits which caused many heavy explosions." The objectives were left ablaze, the communique said.

Syrian planes, a communique said, bombed Jewish convoys at Kfar Kema, south of the Sea of Galilee, and raided the Jewish settlements of Kinnereth and Yavniel. Planes also attacked the settlements of Ramot Naphtali, Nabi Yusha and Mishmar Hayarden in the same area.

The Egyptian Defense Ministry announced that Egyptian mobile forces occupied Beersheba, southernmost limit of the Holy Land in biblical times, and captured two strong Jewish positions on the Palestine coast beyond Gaza. To capture Beersheba the Egyptians had to cross a belt of territory allotted to the Jewish state by the United Nations partition scheme.

Jewish military headquarters in Tel Aviv announced that Jewish troops carried out a successful raid across the Upper Jordan and blew

Randolph Holds 3-2 Lead In ITU Election

[By The Associated Press]

Woodruff Randolph, seeking re-election as president of the AFL International Typographical Union, tonight held a 3-2 lead over his opponent, John R. Evans, on the basis of incomplete, unofficial returns.

Returns from 31 locals gave Randolph 14,096 votes and Evans 9,118.

The figures for this tabulation came mostly from ITU local officers in the various cities. In many cases local voting returns were posted on newspaper bulletin boards.

The bulk of the returns came from big cities. Evans had claimed major strength for his independent party among the smaller locals.

U. S. Notches Up Advances In Long-Range Air Power

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—Two striking advances in long-range air power were notched up today by United States fighting arms as Russo-American "peace exchanges" locked on dead center.

The Navy disclosed that one of its P2V Neptunes—the plane that holds the 11,235-mile world distance record—has been launched successfully from a 45,000-ton carrier.

The Air Force reported that a huge six-engine B-36 bomber had made what is probably the longest flight in history with a payload. It shuttled 8,000 miles between Texas and California, carrying a "sizeable, useful load of dummy bombs" which were dropped about midway of the flight.

The new strides in American warplane operations were announced just as some United States diplomats appeared about ready to write off recent Soviet peace feelers as so much humbug. The implications of today's announcements certainly were not lost on Russia's air marshals or the Kremlin's strategists.

The Navy's Neptune, a swift two-engine patrol bomber, normally is land-based. But a Navy official who declined to permit the use of his name disclosed that it took off, with the assistance of jets, from the flight deck of the U.S.S. Coral Sea off the Virginia Capes last month, and flew to a landing on shore.

It was a Neptune which in 1946 flew the 11,235 miles non-stop from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, Ohio.

Schoolboys, Running Town For Day, Attempt Cleanup

ZANESVILLE, O., May 20 (AP)—It goes on in a thousand cities every year, this letting high school seniors play at running the town for a day, but here the boys played it hard and straight.

They put the pinch on some gambling, added $25 and costs to the city coffers, and confiscated enough punch boards and "cookie jars" to open a casino.

The duly elected and appointed adult city officials picked up the pieces today after a "laboratory experiment" in civics that was a dinger.

The boys were "Mayor" Aubrey Sibbring, "City Solicitor" Frank Schurtz, Jr., and "Police Chief" Jack Harper, all 17-year-old seniors of Lash High School. They were elected by fellow students last week to take up Mayor William S. Watson's annual invitation to "run the city" yesterday and do the things they read about in civics classes. These three put on a series of raids, with the aid of one patrolman who never knew what was next. When Police Chief (real) Clifford Courtney caught up and took away Police Chief (pro tem) Harper's gun and badge, they were planning secretly to knock off a house of prostitution.

Meanwhile "Fire Chief" Charles Cooper, "City Auditor" Henry Abele, and "Safety Director" John Montgomery tried to keep a campaign promise to let school out early. They set about having the overcrowded building declared a firetrap. That fizzled.

Truman Comes Full Circle In Palestine

By his prompt recognition of the independent Jewish state of Israel, President Truman has come full circle in his Palestine policy.

Last fall Mr. Truman sponsored the partition plan and forced it upon a reluctant United Nations. Then he unceremoniously abandoned partition and came forth with a U. N. trusteeship plan, which got nowhere. Now he recognizes Israel, which roughly includes the areas assigned the Jews under the partition plan. No wonder the capitals of Europe and a good many people in the United States are bewildered by this "zig-zag policy!"

Look at the matter from the standpoint of domestic American politics, however, and the zig-zag policy seems logical. Mr. Truman originally sponsored partition in an effort to secure the New York vote in the 1948 presidential election. He abandoned the plan when our military and foreign service convinced him that partition in unruly Palestine would require an international police force, which would introduce Red Army troops and a Soviet propaganda corps into the strategically important Middle East. Mr. Truman thought he was being patriotic, but his reversal of policy cost him millions of votes and brought dispair to his political advisers.

But then the Jewish army took a hand. Through military prowess, aided by political division in the Arab camp, Haganah seized and may be able to hold the territories originally granted the Jews under partition. Here was a sudden opportunity for the White House to reverse its policy, with political advantage at home. Our diplomatic recognition of Israel, which may be followed by lifting of the U. S. arms embargo and perhaps by U. S. leadership of a U. N. ban against the Arab invasion, should aid the Zionists enormously in holding what they have taken.

Truman's lightning-quick recognition of Israel also stole a march on the Kremlin. Of course, it has left the world's diplomats—including our own—gasping for breath and wondering what comes next. And it may have delivered the coup de grace to any U. N. hopes of a truce between Jews and Arabs. It leaves Warren Austin for example, in a ludicrous position. But in domestic politics it may have been a very clever move. In the cockeyed world of today, who knows?

State Department Blundered On Russia

It is pretty generally agreed now in Washington that the State Department blundered in making a confidential statement to Russia on U. S. foreign policy without informing our ambassadors in London and Paris, without consulting our Division of Russian Affairs and without guarding against the kind of propaganda distortion that should have been expected from Molotov. It is also plain that Secretary Marshall was responsible for the mishandling of the diplomatic exchange between Ambassador Smith and the Russians. Unfortunately, this is not the first time that Marshall has caused unnecessary trouble by doing a diplomatic job in the manner of a general.

This is not said to attack the Administration. Everything that was actually stated in the message to Molotov was right and proper. So were the extended remarks by President Truman and Secretary Marshall. Moreover, a prolonged domestic dispute about the incident could benefit only Stalin's Russia and its leading American admirer, Henry Wallace. But the lesson of this incident should be taken to heart by the head of our State Department.

The affair of the unhappy diplomatic exchange will blow over and no lasting harm will have been done. But it must be emphasized again that conducting diplomacy with a tricky customer like Soviet Russia in the fearfully complex world of the present is not the same thing as planning tactics the night before a battle in G. H. Q.

Queen Wilhelmina

In fact if not in name the people of The Netherlands acquired a new sovereign when Princess Juliana took the oath as regent at The Hague. Queen Wilhelmina has made it clear that she will not again take up the affairs of state she has transferred to her daughter's hands.

The regency will continue until August 30, when Queen Wilhelmina will return to the throne. But she will stay only long enough for the festivities marking her sixty-eighth birthday on August 31, and even more elaborate festivities under preparation for the fiftieth anniversary of her "inauguration" as ruler of the kingdom, which will begin on September 6. Then she will abdicate and Juliana will be crowned queen.

These celebrations will be tinged with sadness. The Dutch love their queen and the thought of her abdication will be in their minds as they pay her homage. Yet they will be as ready as she is to face realities—it is a habit they have learned from their long struggle with the sea—and, as she has asked, go forward "shoulder to shoulder with Juliana."

It is not merely sentiment that makes the Dutch people loyal to the House of Orange. Queen Wilhelmina, in peace and war, won their respect and trust by her loyalty to them. The reign of Princess Juliana, now beginning, rests on a sure foundation.

Czechs U. S. "Liberated"

Czechoslovakia has adopted a new constitution modelled after that of Soviet Russia's. Communist Premier Gottwald said it wasn't by accident that the day was chosen because "Three years ago today the armies of the Soviet Union completed their conquest of Hitler Germany."

And it wasn't by accident that some Czechs remembered it differently. Last week the people of Pilsen broke out American flags in a spontaneous, unofficial celebration of the third anniversary of their liberation by the U. S. Third Army. They got up before dawn to bring flowers to heap on the site of a monument they had hoped to build to the American Army. Many, it was reported, wept openly. Their liberation had not lasted quite three years.

When a family has no motor car the children are deprived of certain inalienable rights, declares a psychologist. Junior may not understand what the word means, but he's for it.

Alcohol Cannot Replace Food

Dr. Van Dellen

Three million individuals in the United States, it is estimated, are using alcohol excessively and running the risk of becoming problem drinkers. Without bringing up the moral issue, this is a costly venture. Statistics compiled in 1940 showed that three-quarters of a million dollars were spent, as a result of alcoholism. This included losses in wages and treatment of the ensuing mental and physical diseases, injuries, property damage, crimes as well as the maintenance of alcoholics in hospitals, sanitariums, jails, and prisons.

Some have the idea that alcohol is a food and they are partly right because it is a carbohydrate with caloric values. But, unlike sugar and fat, it cannot be stored and as such replaces nutriment only in energy production. When the toper substitutes this drug for food, deficiencies develop because vitamins are lacking. Moreover, the more calories we consume, the more vitamins we need and if the calories are obtained chiefly from liquor, the available supply of vitamins in the body begins to suffer. Sooner or later, symptoms related to the liver and nervous system are bound to arise.

The liver of a 150 pound man oxidizes alcohol at the rate of 7 to 10 grams per hour. This is equivalent to 0.6 to 0.8 fluid ounces of whisky but since most drinkers are not satisfied with this amount in an hour, they imbide the stuff faster than the liver can break it down. Thus a surplus in the blood is created and the overflow is eliminated in the breath and urine. As a rule, the quantity reaching the circulation is rarely high even in one who is completely soused; 0.7 to 0.9 is probably the limit and the main reason it seldom goes above this percentage is because stupor intervenes and prevents the subject from drinking any more.

On the other hand, concentrations of 0.5 per cent or less have little effect on the drinker but if the blood level goes to 0.15 he has had too much to be considered a safe driver, for example. In the circumstances, he is 55 times more likely to be involved in an auto accident than one who has abstained.

All these factors have obvious legal implications and many authorities believe that a law should be passed making 0.05 per cent in the blood the maximum for those who attempt to drive. Since the concentration in the vital fluid bears a fixed ratio to that in the breath, tests along this line have also been devised to try to ascertain how much has been taken. Greenberg has devised an "alcoholometer" which can be used by any intelligent police officer. The inebriated person blows into the machine and the percentage in the breath is recorded; from this, the proportion in the blood can be computed. Bars an dhostesses giving cocktail parties would do their guests a favor if they had a machine of this type installed.

Jellinek has shown that three ounces of whisky usually impairs efficiency. An illustration is the young man who practiced marksmanship alone. Without alcohol, his score is 10, but after drinking it goes down to 4. Concersely, when competition is added, he will score only 4 if he does not take a "shot" but will make 7 if he does because the chemical inhibits nervousness and he does not become rattled. But he will never attain 10, as he is capable of doing when sober and solo.

SUMMER IS COMING

W.M. writes: My two daughters, 16 and 17, decided they wanted their own hot water bottles. One girl rarely uses hers but the other likes it so much she takes it to bed with her from September to June. Is this harmful?

Reply

To my knowledge, the only harm done is that it encourages a habit that may be difficult to break in later years.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Next Sunday, May 23, is the day for the Frank Borzage golf tournament at the California Country Club and it will be quite an affair.

All the actors play in the tournament and it is a sight to see Charles Boyer on a golf course. He does not tee off . . . he just bends down and whispers to the ball "come weeth me to the ninth hole."

But the actors proved themselves to be skilled golfers last year. Even Mickey Rooney got a hole in one . . . he fell in the cup.

Crosby was there and it was the first time I ever saw a ham with a slice.

Naturally, I went around the course in 74 . . . It was much easier in those days. Frank Borzage himself presented me with one of those new portable golf bag carriers on wheels. After three hours I found out what is really was . . . What a sneaky way to get the lawns mowed.

It wasn't easy to play with the English colony present . . . I yelled "fore" and C. Aubrey Smith filled all the cups with tea. I didn't get my ball wet once all day.

You could tell they were actors . . . the sun came out and they all took bows. Gary Cooper wanted to do some trick shot, and hit a golf ball of my nose . . . but he wasn't tall enough. All money went to charity and it was a big success . . . I didn't win but I got top billing on the score card.

Long's Brother Sends Big Campaign Contributor To Senate; Monroney Never Mentioned Secretary's Job; Lewis Has "Captive" Senator

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 20—It will be interesting to see what the Senate does about the seating of William Feazel, appointed to the vacancy left by the late Senator Overton of Louisiana by Governor Earl Long.

Two aspects of Mr. Feazel's career are interesting. One is the large amount of cash he contributed to Governor Long's campaign. Second is a grand jury proceeding held by Assistant Attorney General John Rogge in 1939 showing that Feazel was involved in a big gas deal with Governor Dick Leche, who served a jail term in connection with another matter.

Louisiana politicos say that Mr. Feazel was by all odds the largest contributor to Gov. Long's campaign—donated over $200,000. Louisiana, incidentally, isn't bothered about limits to state campaign contributions.

In the past, the Senate has been cranky about amounts of money influencing Senatorial elections. Senator Smith of Illinois was denied a seat when his campaign contributions went over $100,000. Senator Lorimer of Illinois was not seated for the same reason. Senator Newberry of Michigan finally resigned from the Senate while his colleagues were probing his large campaign gifts, and Senator Vare of Pennsylvania was denied his seat when his gifts ran around $200,000.

All these were Republicans. Now comes a Democrat who was not running for office but helped handsomely to put a governor in office. Then that governor turns around and puts his chief monetary benefactor in the Senate. A Republican Senate may want to think this over.

On top of this is the fact that when the Justice Department was probing the Louisiana scandals, John Rogge unearthed the fact that $125,000 had been paid Corp., an Electric Bond and Share subsidiary, to Tom Hill, a big New Orleans gambler, who in turn passed part of the money on to Governor Dick Leche, part to Louisiana's new Senator, William Feazel, and kept part for himself.

Reason for this unusually large payment by a big corporation to three interesting Louisiana figures never was revealed. For about that time Roosevelt threw cold water on the Louisiana probe. However, the present Republican Senate may want to continue the unfinished story of Louisiana where the Justice Department left off.

Note—Governor Long would like to appoint his nephew Russell Long, eldest son of the late Huey Long, to the Senate. But Russell is only 29, and under the law a U. S. Senator must be thirty. Therefore it's reported that Feazel will make way for Russell later.

Modest Like Monroney

It was like Congressman Mike Monroney of Oklahoma never to breathe a word about the fact that President Truman offered him the job of Secretary of Agriculture. However, he did—just after Clinton Anderson resigned.

It was also like Monroney that he turned the offer down. His refusal was on the very simple ground that he didn't know enough about agriculture or the farmers' point of view.

"All my life," he told Truman, "I have spent defending the consumer and thinking about his point of view. Therefore, I just wouldn't be a good man to champion the farmers."

So, without saying a word to anyone, Monroney, one of the most respected men in Congress, has gone back to the job of battling for his constituents.

Note—Monroney comes from Oklahoma City, where oil wells almost sprout from city streets. Yet during the war he had the courage to fight the oil lobby's clamor for increased prices. Came elections, and the oil lobby tried to get revenge, but the people of Oklahoma City voted for Monroney's courage even though they didn't all agree with him.

—DEAD MAN'S STORY—

Dead men tell no tales. But before George Polk, the American news commentator, was murdered in Greece, he wrote Drew Pearson some dynamite-laden letters which may touch the fuse to the long-smouldering situation in Greece. Read another installment of a dead newspaperman's story in Drew Pearson's column tomorrow.

Lewis's Captive Senator

John L. Lewis has sometimes berated the big steel companies for having "captive" coal mines, but it looks as if John now had a "captive" Senator — namely, Eugene Millikin of Colorado.

For months Millikin has been blocking Senate confirmation of Dr. James Boyd as chief of the Bureau of Mines, due to the fact that John L. Lewis is opposed. Boyd was former dean of the Colorado School of Mines and cleared with Millikin before his appointment. The Interior Department phoned Millikin, asked if he objected to Boyd—they come from the same state—and Millikin said O. K.

That, however, was before the Colorado Republican knew John L. Lewis was opposed. Lewis named the last director of the Bureau of Mines, Dr. R. R. Sayers, also had his own brother planted inside the Bureau at a juicy salary until Secretary of the Interior Krug cleaned them both out. But now with Senator Millikin's help Lewis wants his control back again.

Note—Dr. Boyd, who has several children, has been patriotically serving the Government without pay since last summer. Lewis hopes he will soon be starved out.

Tydings' Brother-In-Law

When Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, rose on the Senate floor to oppose the confirmation of Oklahoma's Jess Larson for the thankless job of War Assets Administrator, he claimed he had absolutely no personal interest in the matter. Among other things, Tydings supposedly had no interest in American Potash, the company which Larson ruled against when it sought to buy the Government's Kalunite plant in Utah.

However, here is what Tydings did not tell his fellow Senators:

Tydings' brother-in-law, former Brig. Gen. John M. Eager, happens to represent the Heyden Chemical Corporation, a large stockholder of American Potash. Furthermore, it was Eager who actually signed the letters on behalf of American Potash protesting the fact it did not ge the Kalunite plant.

Yet Tydings said he had no personal interest in the matter.

Perhaps in Maryland a brother-in-law isn't considered personal.

Lewis's Tactics Relative To New Contract Parley Baffling

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 20 — The law of the land for everybody, including the miners' union and John L. Lewis, reads as follows:

"It shall be an unfair labor practice for a labor organization or its agents to restrain or coerce an employer in the selection of his representatives for the purpose of collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances."

Yet in the face of this explicit wording of the Taft-Hartley Act, Mr. Lewis as the head of the miners' union has broken up a conference of coal operators and union representatives and has refused to continue in any collective bargaining unless he is given the privilege of vetoing the list of members of the operators' group who wish to do the negotiating.

It would be equally illogical if the operators had said that they would not negotiate with Mr. Lewis and that in his place some other representative of his union should attend the sessions.

Mandate Of The Law

The mandate of the law is that collective bargaining must be pursued by both sides on the same basis. The employer has no right to tell the union who shall be on their negotiating boards and the union has no right to select the personnel for the employers.

In the face of this clear phrasing of the law, what then could be the purpose of Mr. Lewis in walking out of the conference because he didn't approve of the employer negotiators? It could be that he believed that between now and June 30th, when the present coal contract expires, the time of the National Labor Relations Board would be taken up getting an injunction in the courts and that a strike could be called and negotiations resumed afterward. It could be also that Mr. Lewis is merely testing the willingness of the government to pursue an unfair labor practice charge against him in the wake of the two injunctions secured on other grounds.

The Department of Justice is on record as having asked this week that the injunction be vacated which was issued on connection with the dispute over pensions. This particular order of the court, even if continued, could not affect the new controversy.

It may also be that Mr. Lewis is dramatizing his opposition to the Taft-Hartley Act and trying to make the other labor leaders seem weak by comparison.

The technicality under which Mr. Lewis is conducting his veto of the presence of Joseph E. Moody of the Southern Producers Association is that the latter did not sign the original contract. Actually Mr. Lewis has been bargaining on an industry-wide basis because he has a "closed shop" in virtually all the coal mines for which he is endeavoring to negotiate a contract. If the employers wish to call in any outsiders, they may do so. There is no requirement in the law that only signatories of a previous contract can negotiate. Mr. Moody can be selected to represent the northern operators even if he didn't act for the southern operators.

But the Southern Producers Association has joined formally with the northern groups to negotiate a nation-wide contract. As long as industry-wide bargaining is permitted by law, it is the right of the employers who have signed industry-wide contract in previous years to seek to expend sectional contracts by the same process. The question of how many or what mines or sections of the country shall be included in a contract is one that is itself subject to collective bargaining when the negotiations begin. The law safeguards the process itself. Hence the right of the employers to be represented by representatives of their own choosing is as inviolate as the right of the unions to select their own representatives.

Already the coal operators have filed with the general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board a petition asking that an injunction be issued.

This phase will take some time and meanwhile, unless Mr. Lewis changes his mind, there will be no negotiations. Instead, the nation will face the threat of another nation-wide coal strike. How Congress can spend its time worrying about extra laws to punish a few thousand Communists who might possibly try some day to overthrow the government if the existing enforcement agencies are asleep and yet fail to pass laws to prevent any man or organization from overthrowing the nation's economic system by paralyzing or withholding its fuel supply is something that needs explanation.

Important Britishers Object To Receiving Marshall Funds

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

As a policy, the Marshall Plan has been approved. The money has been authorized to be appropriated. But the actual appropriations are still to be made. That will be up to Congress each year the Plan is continued.

It may seem incredible to those who favored the Marshall Plan that important Britishers object to receiving the money.

The London, England "EXPRESS" is the most widely read newspaper in the world. It says:

"The belief must be reiterated that the loan (the previous loan of $3,750,000,000) did nothing but injury to Britain and the Empire, and the Marshall Plan will have the same effect."

Last January, the same newspaper said: "It therefore becomes the urgent and manifest duty of Britain—her duty to herself, her people and her future—to declare that the American proposals are utterly unacceptable. The British people are not prepared to sell their financial independence for the cigarettes, prunes and dried eggs of the Marshall Plan. Stand on your own two feet!"

U. S. Aid Helps Attlee Regime

We should recognize that there are Britishers who oppose Socialism and realize that the Marshall money helps to keep the socialistic Attlee government in power, just like subsidies from Washington to the boss of any political machine in America.

Britain exported only one million tons of coal last year. But in 1935 she exported thirty-five million tons There was a day when Britain paid for her wheat with her coal. Britain is now stepping up her coal exports, but with the help of the slave labor of prisoners of war who should long ago have been sent back to their homes under every rule of international law.

In England, "The Society of Individualists" is trying to stop the march of the Socialist politicians to complete ownership of the industry of Britain. I quote from one of their bulletins entitled, "A MESSAGE TO THE NATION":

"We, of the business community, claim:

"That without our work mankind would still be in a state of primitive barbarism.

"That recent experience has proved the inability of governments to perform our functions and satisfy the economic needs of the people.

"That supplies of the means of life, whether from at home or from abroad, are steadily and rapidly diminishing, because governments are not subject to those economic forces which govern and control the work of individual enterprise.

"We claim the right to shoulder responsibility.

"We have worked for profit on the terms that we paid the losses, and have thus ensured to the whole of Society the maximum of economy.

"Our traditional freedom acted as a spur to effort. Controls shackle all endeavour. Considered in terms of the work and produce of millions of individuals, the difference between freedom and control is more than sufficient to balance our national deficit.

"We claim that the economic freedom upon which our national supremacy was founded, offers the only way out of our present distress.

"We recognize that a return to freedom and competition, must mean, for a time, hardship, confusion and inequalities. It is for the nation to choose between these temporary troubles and permanent destruction by political methods."

These Curious Prizes

Collier's Magazine each year gives a prize to a member of the United States Senate and a member of the House of Representatives "For Distinguished Congressional Service." Along with the citation, a gift of $10,000 is given to each winner to be given to public purposes designated by the winner. This year the prizes went to Alben W. Barkley, Senator from Kentucky, and Christian A. Herter, Representative from Massachusetts. Both are able men, Senator Barkley having led his party for many years; Congressman Herter having made a masterly investigation of conditions in Europe in connection with ERP. Barkeley is a Democrat; Herter a Republican.

The setup surrounding this prize-giving is complex. Collier's keeps out of it, except for a representative in Washington, James C. Derieux, who acts as liaison between the publishers and a committee which makes the final selections. This year the Committee was headed by Eric A. Johnston and consisted of 20 members.

In order to be adequately advised, the Committee is provided with considerable data, including two polls. According to the setup, the Committee forms its own conclusions and it may ignore all the polls and all the data provided.

Why Collier's bothers busy men to make decisions which may be, and this year were, ignored, it is difficult to understand. Perhaps, if the pollees knew that their votes did not count, they would save themselves the effort. The polls are kept confidential so that usually the candidates for the prizes as well as the public assume that the final decision of Collier's Committee in some way reflects the polls.

For instance, 28 Washington newswriters, editors, broadcasters and columnists were polled this year in an "advisory poll." They were asked to make first, second and third choices. Twenty candidates for the Senatorial prize appeared and the top five for first choice were as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Taft | 12 |
| Barkley | 3 |
| Flanders | 3 |
| Ives | 3 |
| Tobey | 2 |

An advisory nationwide poll of Daily Newspaper Editors for the Senatorial prize shows for the top five as first choice:

| | |
|---|---|
| Taft | 113 |
| Vandenberg | 45 |
| Byrd | 21 |
| Morse | 9 |
| Barkley | 6 |

For the House of Representatives, the first five for first choice among the Washington newswriters, etc. shows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Herter | 16 |
| Eaton | 3 |
| Halleck | 2 |
| Joe Martin | 2 |
| Dirksen | 1 |

The nationwide poll of Daily Newspaper Editors for the first five for first choice shows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Joe Martin | 47 |
| Hartley | 42 |
| Herter | 31 |
| Knutson | 14 |
| Halleck | 12 |

Regarding the Senatorial prize, the winner on the basis of both these polls would have been Senator Robert A. Taft; for the Congressional prize, it would lie between Christian Herter and Joe Martin. In spite of Taft's preference in both polls, the Committee chose Barkley, who was second in one poll and fifth in the other.

There is much to be gleaned from these polls as to national interest and popularity, and as to that, there will be further reference in this column.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Friends Long Gone

All through life we are meeting those who become our friends—those upon whom we depend for inspiration and companionship. They travel along with us, see the things that we see, and react to most of the things we do, though in a different way.

Here and there, as we wend our way through life, we lose a friend now and then; but it is not until later in life, when they seem to disappear more rapidly, that we begin to miss those who have gone before. Then it is that the memories accumulate, and we begin to feel the loss of so many who meant so much to us.

I was talking today to a noted surgeon, now retired, and we spoke about these vanished friends. Many of his friends were mine, as well, and it was good to hear about them one by one, again. But somehow the loss grows more poignant with the years. The genuine, lasting ones—a list so very small, comparatively—cling to one anew, their fine qualities blending to the best in each one of us, giving us a happier assurance and re-enforcing our faith.

In our maturer years we evaluate our friends, and much of their substance of character we daily, unconsciously, carry about with us—so that, in a measure, we live their lives along with our own. That's what friends do to one.

You may recall how Charles Lamb lost one of his dearest friends, who always called him "Charlie," and how Lamb sadly remarked after his friend had gone that there was no one who remained to call him thus! One can imagine the void that the death of Dr. Johnson left in the life of Boswell, his famous biographer. Johnson died at the age of 74—but Boswell followed him a short time afterward—in his early fifties.

Friends long gone leave an aura of beauty about one, forever hovering close. And often not until they have departed do we come to realize how deeply they have planted themselves within us. I often think of the incident of the meeting of Wendell Phillips and Nora Perry, the poetess, one day upon the streets of Boston. Phillips asked her where she was going, and she said, "To meet a friend." Phillips said: "Oh, please take me with you. I want to meet one!"

Truman Comes Full Circle In Palestine

By his prompt recognition of the independent Jewish state of Israel, President Truman has come full circle in his Palestine policy.

Last fall Mr. Truman sponsored the partition plan and forced it upon a reluctant United Nations. Then he unceremoniously abandoned partition and came forth with a U. N. trusteeship plan, which got nowhere. Now he recognizes Israel, which roughly includes the areas assigned the Jews under the partition plan. No wonder the capitals of Europe and a good many people in the United States are bewildered by this "zig-zag policy!"

Look at the matter from the standpoint of domestic American politics, however, and the zig-zag policy seems logical. Mr. Truman originally sponsored partition in an effort to secure the New York vote in the 1948 presidential election. He abandoned the plan when our military and foreign service convinced him that partition in unruly Palestine would require an international police force, which would introduce Red Army troops and a Soviet propaganda corps into the strategically important Middle East. Mr. Truman thought he was being patriotic, but his reversal of policy cost him millions of votes and brought dispair to his political advisers.

But then the Jewish army took a hand. Through military prowess, aided by political division in the Arab camp, Haganah seized and may be able to hold the territories originally granted the Jews under partition. Here was a sudden opportunity for the White House to reverse its policy, with political advantage at home. Our diplomatic recognition of Israel, which may be followed by lifting of the U. S. arms embargo and perhaps by U. S. leadership of a U. N. ban against the Arab invasion, should aid the Zionists enormously in holding what they have taken.

Truman's lightning-quick recognition of Israel also stole a march on the Kremlin. Of course, it has left the world's diplomats—including our own—gasping for breath and wondering what comes next. And it may have delivered the coup de grace to any U. N. hopes of a truce between Jews and Arabs. It leaves Warren Austin for example, in a ludicrous position. But in domestic politics it may have been a very clever move. In the cockeyed world of today, who knows?

State Department Blundered On Russia

It is pretty generally agreed now in Washington that the State Department blundered in making a confidential statement to Russia on U. S. foreign policy without informing our ambassadors in London and Paris, without consulting our Division of Russian Affairs and without guarding against the kind of propaganda distortion that should have been expected from Molotov. It is also plain that Secretary Marshall was responsible for the mishandling of the diplomatic exchange between Ambassador Smith and the Russians. Unfortunately, this is not the first time that Marshall has caused unnecessary trouble by doing a diplomatic job in the manner of a general.

This is not said to attack the Administration. Everything that was actually stated in the message to Molotov was right and proper. So were the extended remarks by President Truman and Secretary Marshall. Moreover, a prolonged domestic dispute about the incident could benefit only Stalin's Russia and its leading American admirer, Henry Wallace. But the lesson of this incident should be taken to heart by the head of our State Department.

The affair of the unhappy diplomatic exchange will blow over and no lasting harm will have been done. But it must be emphasized again that conducting diplomacy with a tricky customer like Soviet Russia in the fearfully complex world of the present is not the same thing as planning tactics the night before a battle in G. H. Q.

Queen Wilhelmina

In fact if not in name the people of The Netherlands acquired a new sovereign when Princess Juliana took the oath as regent at The Hague. Queen Wilhelmina has made it clear that she will not again take up the affairs of state she has transferred to her daughter's hands.

The regency will continue until August 30, when Queen Wilhelmina will return to the throne. But she will stay only long enough for the festivities marking her sixty-eighth birthday on August 31, and even more elaborate festivities under preparation for the fiftieth anniversary of her "inauguration" as ruler of the kingdom, which will begin on September 6. Then she will abdicate and Juliana will be crowned queen.

These celebrations will be tinged with sadness. The Dutch love their queen and the thought of her abdication will be in their minds as they pay her homage. Yet they will be as ready as she is to face realities—it is a habit they have learned from their long struggle with the sea—and, as she has asked, go forward "shoulder to shoulder with Juliana."

It is not merely sentiment that makes the Dutch people loyal to the House of Orange. Queen Wilhelmina, in peace and war, won their respect and trust by her loyalty to them. The reign of Princess Juliana, now beginning, rests on a sure foundation.

Czechs U. S. "Liberated"

Czechoslovakia has adopted a new constitution modelled after that of Soviet Russia's. Communist Premier Gottwald said it wasn't by accident that the day was chosen because "Three years ago today the armies of the Soviet Union completed their conquest of Hitler Germany."

And it wasn't by accident that some Czechs remembered it differently. Last week the people of Pilsen broke out American flags in a spontaneous, unofficial celebration of the third anniversary of their liberation by the U. S. Third Army. They got up before dawn to bring flowers to heap on the site of a monument they had hoped to build to the American Army. Many, it was reported, wept openly. Their liberation had not lasted quite three years.

When a family has no motor car the children are deprived of certain inalienable rights, declares a psychologist. Junior may not understand what the word means, but he's for it.

Alcohol Cannot Replace Food

Three million individuals in the United States, it is estimated, are using alcohol excessively and running the risk of becoming problem drinkers. Without bringing up the moral issue, this is a costly venture. Statistics compiled in 1940 showed that three-quarters of a million dollars were spent, as a result of alcoholism. This included losses in wages and treatment of the ensuing mental and physical diseases, injuries, property damage, crimes as well as the maintenance of alcoholics in hospitals, sanitariums, jails, and prisons.

Some have the idea that alcohol is a food and they are partly right because it is a carbohydrate with caloric values. But, unlike sugar and fat, it cannot be stored and as such replaces nutriment only in energy production. When the toper substitutes this drug for food, deficiencies develop because vitamins are lacking. Moreover, the more calories we consume, the more vitamins we need and if the calories are obtained chiefly from liquor, the available supply of vitamins in the body begins to suffer. Sooner or later, symptoms related to the liver and nervous system are bound to arise.

The liver of a 150 pound man oxidizes alcohol at the rate of 7 to 10 grams per hour. This is equivalent to 0.6 to 0.8 fluid ounces of whisky but since most drinkers are not satisfied with this amount in an hour, they imbide the stuff faster than the liver can break it down. Thus a surplus in the blood is created and the overflow is eliminated in the breath and urine. As a rule, the quantity reaching the circulation is rarely high even in one who is completely soused; 0.7 to 0.9 is probably the limit and the main reason it seldom goes above this percentage is because stupor intervenes and prevents the subject from drinking any more.

On the other hand, concentrations of 0.5 per cent or less have little effect on the drinker but if the blood level goes to 0.15 he has had too much to be considered a safe driver, for example. In the circumstances, he is 55 times more likely to be involved in an auto accident than one who has abstained.

All these factors have obvious legal implications and many authorities believe that a law should be passed making 0.05 per cent in the blood the maximum for those who attempt to drive. Since the concentration in the vital fluid bears a fixed ratio to that in the breath, tests along this line have also been devised to try to ascertain how much has been taken. Greenberg has devised an "alcoholometer" which can be used by any intelligent police officer. The inebriated person blows into the machine and the percentage in the breath is recorded; from this, the proportion in the blood can be computed. Bars an dhostesses giving cocktail parties would do their guests a favor if they had a machine of this type installed.

Jellinek has shown that three ounces of whisky usually impairs efficiency. An illustration is the young man who practiced marksmanship alone. Without alcohol, his score is 10, but after drinking it goes down to 4. Concersely, when competition is added, he will score only 4 if he does not take a "shot" but will make 7 if he does because the chemical inhibits nervousness and he does not become rattled. But he will never attain 10, as he is capable of doing when sober and solo.

SUMMER IS COMING

W.M. writes: My two daughters, 16 and 17, decided they wanted their own hot water bottles. One girl rarely uses hers but the other likes it so much she takes it to bed with her from September to June. Is this harmful?

Reply

To my knowledge, the only harm done is that it encourages a habit that may be difficult to break in later years.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Next Sunday, May 23, is the day for the Frank Borzage golf tournament at the California Country Club and it will be quite an affair.

All the actors play in the tournament and it is a sight to see Charles Boyer on a golf course. He does not tee off . . . he just bends down and whispers to the ball "come weeth me to the ninth hole."

But the actors proved themselves to be skilled golfers last year. Even Mickey Rooney got a hole in one . . . he fell in the cup.

Crosby was there and it was the first time I ever saw a ham with a slice.

Naturally, I went around the course in 74 . . . It was much easier in those days. Frank Borzage himself presented me with one of those new portable golf bag carriers on wheels. After three hours I found out what is really was . . . What a sneaky way to get the lawns mowed.

It wasn't easy to play with the English colony present . . . I yelled "fore" and C. Aubrey Smith filled all the cups with tea. I didn't get my ball wet once all day.

You could tell they were actors . . . the sun came out and they all took bows. Gary Cooper wanted to do some trick shot, and hit a golf ball of my nose . . . but he wasn't tall enough. All money went to charity and it was a big success . . . I didn't win but I got top billing on the score card.

Long's Brother Sends Big Campaign Contributor To Senate; Monroney Never Mentioned Secretary's Job; Lewis Has "Captive" Senator

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 20—It will be interesting to see what the Senate does about the seating of William Feazel, appointed to the vacancy left by the late Senator Overton of Louisiana by Governor Earl Long.

Two aspects of Mr. Feazel's career are interesting. One is the large amount of cash he contributed to Governor Long's campaign. Second is a grand jury proceeding held by Assistant Attorney General John Rogge in 1939 showing that Feazel was involved in a big gas deal with Governor Dick Leche, who served a jail term in connection with another matter.

Louisiana politicos say that Mr. Feazel was by all odds the largest contributor to Gov. Long's campaign—donated over $200,000. Louisiana, incidentally, isn't bothered about limits to state campaign contributions.

In the past, the Senate has been cranky about amounts of money influencing Senatorial elections. Senator Smith of Illinois was denied a seat when his campaign contributions went over $100,000. Senator Lorimer of Illinois was not seated for the same reason. Senator Newberry of Michigan finally resigned from the Senate while his colleagues were probing his large campaign gifts, and Senator Vare of Pennsylvania was denied his seat when his gifts ran around $200,000.

All these were Republicans. Now comes a Democrat who was not running for office but helped handsomely to put a governor in office. Then that governor turns around and puts his chief monetary benefactor in the Senate. A Republican Senate may want to think this over.

On top of this is the fact that when the Justice Department was probing the Louisiana scandals, John Rogge unearthed the fact that $125,000 had been paid Corp., an Electric Bond and Share subsidiary, to Tom Hill, a big New Orleans gambler, who in turn passed part of the money on to Governor Dick Leche, part to Louisiana's new Senator, William Feazel, and kept part for himself.

Reason for this unusually large payment by a big corporation to three interesting Louisiana figures never was revealed. For about that time Roosevelt threw cold water on the Louisiana probe. However, the present Republican Senate may want to continue the unfinished story of Louisiana where the Justice Department left off.

Note—Governor Long would like to appoint his nephew Russell Long, eldest son of the late Huey Long, to the Senate. But Russell is only 29, and under the law a U. S. Senator must be thirty. Therefore it's reported that Feazel will make way for Russell later.

Modest Like Monroney

It was like Congressman Mike Monroney of Oklahoma never to breathe a word about the fact that President Truman offered him the job of Secretary of Agriculture. However, he did—just after Clinton Anderson resigned.

It was also like Monroney that he turned the offer down. His refusal was on the very simple ground that he didn't know enough about agriculture or the farmers' point of view.

"All my life," he told Truman, "I have spent defending the consumer and thinking about his point of view. Therefore, I just wouldn't be a good man to champion the farmers."

So, without saying a word to anyone, Monroney, one of the most respected men in Congress, has gone back to the job of battling for his constituents.

Note—Monroney comes from Oklahoma City, where oil wells almost sprout from city streets. Yet during the war he had the courage to fight the oil lobby's clamor for increased prices. Came elections, and the oil lobby tried to get revenge, but the people of Oklahoma City voted for Monroney's courage even though they didn't all agree with him.

—DEAD MAN'S STORY—

Dead men tell no tales. But before George Polk, the American news commentator, was murdered in Greece, he wrote Drew Pearson some dynamite-laden letters which may touch the fuse to the long-smouldering situation in Greece. Read another installment of a dead newspaperman's story in Drew Pearson's column tomorrow.

Lewis's Captive Senator

John L. Lewis has sometimes berated the big steel companies for having "captive" coal mines, but it looks as if John now had a "captive" Senator — namely, Eugene Millikin of Colorado.

For months Millikin has been blocking Senate confirmation of Dr. James Boyd as chief of the Bureau of Mines, due to the fact that John L. Lewis is opposed. Boyd was former dean of the Colorado School of Mines and cleared with Millikin before his appointment. The Interior Department phoned Millikin, asked if he objected to Boyd—they come from the same state—and Millikin said O. K.

That, however, was before the Colorado Republican knew John L. Lewis was opposed. Lewis named the last director of the Bureau of Mines, Dr. R. R. Sayers, also had his own brother planted inside the Bureau at a juicy salary until Secretary of the Interior Krug cleaned them both out. But now with Senator Millikin's help Lewis wants his control back again.

Note—Dr. Boyd, who has several children, has been patriotically serving the Government without pay since last summer. Lewis hopes he will soon be starved out.

Tydings' Brother-In-Law

When Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, rose on the Senate floor to oppose the confirmation of Oklahoma's Jess Larson for the thankless job of War Assets Administrator, he claimed he had absolutely no personal interest in the matter. Among other things, Tydings supposedly had no interest in American Potash, the company which Larson ruled against when it sought to buy the Government's Kalunite plant in Utah.

However, here is what Tydings did not tell his fellow Senators:

Tydings' brother-in-law, former Brig. Gen. John M. Eager, happens to represent the Heyden Chemical Corporation, a large stockholder of American Potash. Furthermore, it was Eager who actually signed the letters on behalf of American Potash protesting the fact it did not ge the Kalunite plant.

Yet Tydings said he had no personal interest in the matter.

Perhaps in Maryland a brother-in-law isn't considered personal.

Lewis's Tactics Relative To New Contract Parley Baffling

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 20 — The law of the land for everybody, including the miners' union and John L. Lewis, reads as follows:

"It shall be an unfair labor practice for a labor organization or its agents to restrain or coerce an employer in the selection of his representatives for the purpose of collective bargaining or the adjustment of grievances."

Yet in the face of this explicit wording of the Taft-Hartley Act, Mr. Lewis as the head of the miners' union has broken up a conference of coal operators and union representatives and has refused to continue in any collective bargaining unless he is given the privilege of vetoing the list of members of the operators' group who wish to do the negotiating.

It would be equally illogical if the operators had said that they would not negotiate with Mr. Lewis and that in his place some other representative of his union should attend the sessions.

Mandate Of The Law

The mandate of the law is that collective bargaining must be pursued by both sides on the same basis. The employer has no right to tell the union who shall be on their negotiating boards and the union has no right to select the personnel for the employers.

In the face of this clear phrasing of the law, what then could be the purpose of Mr. Lewis in walking out of the conference because he didn't approve of the employer negotiators? It could be that he believed that between now and June 30th, when the present coal contract expires, the time of the National Labor Relations Board would be taken up getting an injunction in the courts and that a strike could be called and negotiations resumed afterward. It could be also that Mr. Lewis is merely testing the willingness of the government to pursue an unfair labor practice charge against him in the wake of the two injunctions secured on other grounds.

The Department of Justice is on record as having asked this week that the injunction be vacated which was issued on connection with the dispute over pensions. This particular order of the court, even if continued, could not affect the new controversy.

It may also be that Mr. Lewis is dramatizing his opposition to the Taft-Hartley Act and trying to make the other labor leaders seem weak by comparison.

The technicality under which Mr. Lewis is conducting his veto of the presence of Joseph E. Moody of the Southern Producers Association is that the latter did not sign the original contract. Actually Mr. Lewis has been bargaining on an industry-wide basis because he has a "closed shop" in virtually all the coal mines for which he is endeavoring to negotiate a contract. If the employers wish to call in any outsiders, they may do so. There is no requirement in the law that only signatories of a previous contract can negotiate. Mr. Moody can be selected to represent the northern operators even if he didn't act for the southern operators.

But the Southern Producers Association has joined formally with the northern groups to negotiate a nation-wide contract. As long as industry-wide bargaining is permitted by law, it is the right of the employers who have signed industry-wide contract in previous years to seek to expend sectional contracts by the same process. The question of how many or what mines or sections of the country shall be included in a contract is one that is itself subject to collective bargaining when the negotiations begin. The law safeguards the process itself. Hence the right of the employers to be represented by representatives of their own choosing is as inviolate as the right of the unions to select their own representatives.

Already the coal operators have filed with the general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board a petition asking that an injunction be issued.

This phase will take some time and meanwhile, unless Mr. Lewis changes his mind, there will be no negotiations. Instead, the nation will face the threat of another nation-wide coal strike. How Congress can spend its time worrying about extra laws to punish a few thousand Communists who might possibly try some day to overthrow the government if the existing enforcement agencies are asleep and yet fail to pass laws to prevent any man or organization from overthrowing the nation's economic system by paralyzing or withholding its fuel supply is something that needs explanation.

Important Britishers Object To Receiving Marshall Funds

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

As a policy, the Marshall Plan has been approved. The money has been authorized to be appropriated. But the actual appropriations are still to be made. That will be up to Congress each year the Plan is continued.

It may seem incredible to those who favored the Marshall Plan that important Britishers object to receiving the money.

The London, England "EXPRESS" is the most widely read newspaper in the world. It says:

"The belief must be reiterated that the loan (the previous loan of $3,750,000,000) did nothing but injury to Britain and the Empire, and the Marshall Plan will have the same effect."

Last January, the same newspaper said: "It therefore becomes the urgent and manifest duty of Britain—her duty to herself, her people and her future—to declare that the American proposals are utterly unacceptable. The British people are not prepared to sell their financial independence for the cigarettes, prunes and dried eggs of the Marshall Plan. Stand on your own two feet!"

U. S. Aid Helps Attlee Regime

We should recognize that there are Britishers who oppose Socialism and realize that the Marshall money helps to keep the socialistic Attlee government in power, just like subsidies from Washington to the boss of any political machine in America.

Britain exported only one million tons of coal last year. But in 1935 she exported thirty-five million tons There was a day when Britain paid for her wheat with her coal. Britain is now stepping up her coal exports, but with the help of the slave labor of prisoners of war who should long ago have been sent back to their homes under every rule of international law.

In England, "The Society of Individualists" is trying to stop the march of the Socialist politicians to complete ownership of the industry of Britain. I quote from one of their bulletins entitled, "A MESSAGE TO THE NATION":

"We, of the business community, claim:

"That without our work mankind would still be in a state of primitive barbarism.

"That recent experience has proved the inability of governments to perform our functions and satisfy the economic needs of the people.

"That supplies of the means of life, whether from at home or from abroad, are steadily and rapidly diminishing, because governments are not subject to those economic forces which govern and control the work of individual enterprise.

"We claim the right to shoulder responsibility.

"We have worked for profit on the terms that we paid the losses, and have thus ensured to the whole of Society the maximum of economy.

"Our traditional freedom acted as a spur to effort. Controls shackle all endeavour. Considered in terms of the work and produce of millions of individuals, the difference between freedom and control is more than sufficient to balance our national deficit.

"We claim that the economic freedom upon which our national supremacy was founded, offers the only way out of our present distress.

"We recognize that a return to freedom and competition, must mean, for a time, hardship, confusion and inequalities. It is for the nation to choose between these temporary troubles and permanent destruction by political methods."

These Curious Prizes

Collier's Magazine each year gives a prize to a member of the United States Senate and a member of the House of Representatives "For Distinguished Congressional Service." Along with the citation, a gift of $10,000 is given to each winner to be given to public purposes designated by the winner. This year the prizes went to Alben W. Barkley, Senator from Kentucky, and Christian A. Herter, Representative from Massachusetts. Both are able men, Senator Barkley having led his party for many years; Congressman Herter having made a masterly investigation of conditions in Europe in connection with ERP. Barkeley is a Democrat; Herter a Republican.

The setup surrounding this prize-giving is complex. Collier's keeps out of it, except for a representative in Washington, James C. Derieux, who acts as liaison between the publishers and a committee which makes the final selections. This year the Committee was headed by Eric A. Johnston and consisted of 20 members.

In order to be adequately advised, the Committee is provided with considerable data, including two polls. According to the setup, the Committee forms its own conclusions and it may ignore all the polls and all the data provided.

Why Collier's bothers busy men to make decisions which may be, and this year were, ignored, it is difficult to understand. Perhaps, if the pollees knew that their votes did not count, they would save themselves the effort. The polls are kept confidential so that usually the candidates for the prizes as well as the public assume that the final decision of Collier's Committee in some way reflects the polls.

For instance, 28 Washington newswriters, editors, broadcasters and columnists were polled this year in an "advisory poll." They were asked to make first, second and third choices. Twenty candidates for the Senatorial prize appeared and the top five for first choice were as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Taft | 12 |
| Barkley | 3 |
| Flanders | 3 |
| Ives | 3 |
| Tobey | 2 |

An advisory nationwide poll of Daily Newspaper Editors for the Senatorial prize shows for the top five as first choice:

| | |
|---|---|
| Taft | 113 |
| Vandenberg | 45 |
| Byrd | 21 |
| Morse | 9 |
| Barkley | 6 |

For the House of Representatives, the first five for first choice among the Washington newswriters, etc. shows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Herter | 16 |
| Eaton | 3 |
| Halleck | 2 |
| Joe Martin | 2 |
| Dirksen | 1 |

The nationwide poll of Daily Newspaper Editors for the first five for first choice shows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Joe Martin | 47 |
| Hartley | 42 |
| Herter | 31 |
| Knutson | 14 |
| Halleck | 12 |

Regarding the Senatorial prize, the winner on the basis of both these polls would have been Senator Robert A. Taft; for the Congressional prize, it would lie between Christian Herter and Joe Martin. In spite of Taft's preference in both polls, the Committee chose Barkley, who was second in one poll and fifth in the other.

There is much to be gleaned from these polls as to national interest and popularity, and as to that, there will be further reference in this column.

Today's Talk

Friends Long Gone

All through life we are meeting those who become our friends—those upon whom we depend for inspiration and companionship. They travel along with us, see the things that we see, and react to most of the things we do, though in a different way.

Here and there, as we wend our way through life, we lose a friend now and then; but it is not until later in life, when they seem to disappear more rapidly, that we begin to miss those who have gone before. Then it is that the memories accumulate, and we begin to feel the loss of so many who meant so much to us.

I was talking today to a noted surgeon, now retired, and we spoke about these vanished friends. Many of his friends were mine, as well, and it was good to hear about them one by one, again. But somehow the loss grows more poignant with the years. The genuine, lasting ones—a list so very small, comparatively—cling to one anew, their fine qualities blending to the best in each one of us, giving us a happier assurance and re-enforcing our faith.

In our maturer years we evaluate our friends, and much of their substance of character we daily, unconsciously, carry about with us—so that, in a measure, we live their lives along with our own. That's what friends do to one.

You may recall how Charles Lamb lost one of his dearest friends, who always called him "Charlie," and how Lamb sadly remarked after his friend had gone that there was no one who remained to call him thus! One can imagine the void that the death of Dr. Johnson left in the life of Boswell, his famous biographer. Johnson died at the age of 74—but Boswell followed him a short time afterward—in his early fifties.

Friends long gone leave an aura of beauty about one, forever hovering close. And often not until they have departed do we come to realize how deeply they have planted themselves within us. I often think of the incident of the meeting of Wendell Phillips and Nora Perry, the poetess, one day upon the streets of Boston. Phillips asked her where she was going, and she said, "To meet a friend." Phillips said: "Oh, please take me with you. I want to meet one!"

Guardsmen Keep Order After Riot

WATERLOO, Ia., May 20 (AP)—National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets, armored cars and jeeps were in full control of strike-tension areas in this city tonight.

Nearly 1,000 guardsmen moved in without resistance during the night and today. They were summoned when rioting broke out last night after a CIO-UPWA picket was shot to death at the Rath packing plant entrance. A woman picket was wounded.

The guardsmen, sent "in aid of civil authority" without proclamation of martial law, maintained road blocks in the area around the Rath plant and were under orders "to prevent further bloodshed."

As at "big four" packing plants, the 66-day-old strike against the independent Rath company grew out of the union's rejection of a nine-cent-an-hour wage boost offered by the company. The company, for its part, refused to meet the union request for a 29-cent-an-hour raise.

The strike, marked by several relatively minor disorders since a back-to-work movement was launched by Rath's last month, erupted late yesterday when the company obtained a court order increasing restrictions on strikers.

Gov. Robert D. Blue tonight pledged that the state government would protect "the rights of the public."

In a brief radio address to the people of the state, the governor related some of the incidents leading to last night's ordering out of troops.

"The inalienable right of men to work for their daily bread must be protected," he said, adding:

"For this purpose, the whole power of government vested by the people in their government will be used. x x x"

Both Jews and Arabs claimed successes in the fighting immediately south of the Sea of Galilee near the juncture of the borders of Palestine, Syria and Trans-Jordan.

In that region the Jewish Air Force made its first announced strike since the termination of the British mandate early Saturday.

Jewish planes bombed Arab positions in Samakh, at the southern end of the Sea of Galilee, and returned safely to their bases, a Tel Aviv announcement said. Earlier a Jewish informant in Haifa said counterattacking Jewish ground forces stabbed into Arab positions and partly reoccupied Samakh. The Syrian army had moved into the town Tuesday.

Tel Aviv itself was subjected to four air raids during the day. In the last one the attacking planes zoomed down to within a few hundred feet of the housetops. Two persons were injured when Egyptian planes made their first run over the city this morning. Some casualties also were reported in an outlying business district. Tel Aviv dispatches said shipping had been scared out of the harbor.

Capitol Hill Buzzes As Republicans, Democrats Prep For Baseball Clash

WASHINGTON, May 20 — (AP)—Capitol Hill buzzed with talk all day . . . Secret huddles in Congressional cloak rooms . . . Last minute conferences, hastily hatched plans.

Outwardly both Republicans and Democrats made a great show of remaining calm . . . Outwardly each side said it was certain of victory.

What fateful decision is about to be reached?

Tomorrow night, folks, the Republicans and the Democrats square off in what some optimist thinks will be a baseball game.

The Republicans say they are favored, and they are right. For they won last year, 16 to 13.

The Democrats say that was a fluke, and they are right. For Rep. Glenn R. Davis (R-Wis) drove in the winning score with a home run, a home run that travelled approximately 150 feet.

Here's how it went:

Rep. Cooley (D-NC) was in centerfield. Ever alert, he was off at the crack of Davis' bat.

In he came—like the wind. Out went the ball—like the wind.

They passed each other like total strangers back of second base, and the ball fell about where Cooley was in the first place.

"It never touched me," Cooley said proudly.

Since that time Cooley has been informed of the baseball facts of life, and Democratic manager, Rep. James P. Richards (S.C.), says all hands have been instructed to catch outfield flies.

Richards brags that he's got a young club.

"We average about 55 years old," he guessed. "Most of our fellows wear 44-inch belts. That's about Citation's girth, and look what Citation's done."

Hope Bill Draws Blandford's Fire

BRANDYWINE, Md. May 20 (AP)—Writing as a private farm owner rather than in his official capacity as a federal farm administrator, Josepn H. Blanford today warned Maryland farmers against concentrating control over agriculture programs in the federal government.

Blanford is chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration Committee and its active head. As such, he is a federal employe. In his letter he opposed recommendations which have been made to Congress by the Department of Agriculture.

Blanford acknowledged he might lose his job because of the stand he took. The letter was dated at his Meadow Grove farm near here instead of from his office in College Park.

It is all a part of a lively fight which has been going on in agriculture circles for weeks.

Former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson recommended to Congress several changes in the administration of soil conservation, price support and other farm programs.

Maryland leaders contended these changes would remove some of the powers now held by local committees of farmers and turn them over to the federal administrators.

Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the Maryland University College of Agriculture and director of its farm extension service, has spoken against the changes almost every time he has appeared before any farm group.

The Maryland Farm Bureau Federation and the Maryland Grange, among other farm organizations, have endorsed his stand. By his letter, Blandford now joins them.

Some of the new Department of Agriculture recommendations are embodied in the Hope bill now before Congress.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 20 (AP)—A record Republican vote is in prospect for tomorrow's primary election on which Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen are staking much of their presidential hopes.

A good 65 to 70 per cent of Oregon's record registration of 322,490 GOP voters are expected to ballot, and election interest reached an unprecedented pitch today in the closing hours of the slam-bang primary campaign.

In most qualified quarters, the Dewey-Stassen tussle for Oregon's Republican presidential preference and its 12 GOP convention votes was rated about even. What odds were in evidence—and they were few— ran to 6-5 and take your choice.

Changes In Md. Appelate Court Rules Are Urged

BALTIMORE, May 20 — (AP) — Sweeping changes in procedures in the trial of criminal cases in Maryland are recommended in the report of a Court of Appeals committee, it was disclosed today.

The committee, headed by Judge Levin C. Bailey, will seek adoption of the new rules by the Appelate Court.

The most important of the proposed rules are:

1—That judges in criminal cases be given the right to instruct juries as to the law and to sum up the facts in the case.

2—That depositions may be taken from witnesses unable to attend trial, or witnesses being held for trial.

3—That courts may require the state to permit defendants or defense counsel to inspect papers, books or documents obtained by authorities from defendants and to inspect written statements taken from defendants.

4—That Baltimore City court rules dealing with contempt of court by publication, radio broadcast or television, be made statewide.

Guardsmen Keep Order After Riot

WATERLOO, Ia., May 20 (AP)—National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets, armored cars and jeeps were in full control of strike-tension areas in this city tonight.

Nearly 1,000 guardsmen moved in without resistance during the night and today. They were summoned when rioting broke out last night after a CIO-UPWA picket was shot to death at the Rath packing plant entrance. A woman picket was wounded.

The guardsmen, sent "in aid of civil authority" without proclamation of martial law, maintained road blocks in the area around the Rath plant and were under orders "to prevent further bloodshed."

As at "big four" packing plants, the 66-day-old strike against the independent Rath company grew out of the union's rejection of a nine-cent-an-hour wage boost offered by the company. The company, for its part, refused to meet the union request for a 29-cent-an-hour raise.

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 20 (AP) — United States Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel announced tonight that he would not seek re-election this year.

Changes In Md. Appelate Court Rules Are Urged

BALTIMORE, May 20 — (AP) — Sweeping changes in procedures in the trial of criminal cases in Maryland are recommended in the report of a Court of Appeals committee, it was disclosed today.

The committee, headed by Judge Levin C. Bailey, will seek adoption of the new rules by the Appelate Court.

The most important of the proposed rules are:

1—That judges in criminal cases be given the right to instruct juries as to the law and to sum up the facts in the case.

2—That depositions may be taken from witnesses unable to attend trial, or witnesses being held for trial.

3—That courts may require the state to permit defendants or defense counsel to inspect papers, books or documents obtained by authorities from defendants and to inspect written statements taken from defendants.

4—That Baltimore City court rules dealing with contempt of court by publication, radio broadcast or television, be made statewide.

Czech Reds End Tobacco Ration

PRAGUE—(AP)—On July 1 all Czechoslovak tobacco will come off the ration, including pipe tobacco and cigars. The announcement was made by the government tobacco monopoly.

The advent of the new Communist controlled government saw an immediate betterment in the distribution of cigarets of an American type but very costly—the equivalent of 80 cents for 20. Without any announcement they were taken off the ration and were freely bought.

But the cheap Partisan cigaret which sold for half the price remained on ration. Another cigaret, Morava, has always sold for three cents a cigaret. Smokers wisecracked that they reminded one of the new mown hay from the fields of Moravia, but they smoked the things because they were never on ration. Now Partisans, with a strong southern European type of tobacco, are to be on free sale with tobacco stocks from Bulgaria and Yugoslavia expected to insure ample supplies.

ANA Urges Use Of Men In Army, Navy Nurse Corps

There'll be one group of Army and Navy nurses that won't attract any wolf-calls from the boys in sick bay if the American Nurses' Association has its way.

For the ANA, largest professional nurse group in the nation, today issued a statement urging the inclusion of men nurses in the Army and Navy Nurse corps on a commissioned-officer basis.

"It's high time we had equality of the sexes in nursing," Miss Ella Best, executive secretary declared.

"If we are to overcome the national nursing crisis, we shall have to utilize all of our nation's nursing resources. This means employing qualified men nurses as well as women."

Miss Best urged all nurses to write to their congressmen requesting an amendment to the Army-Navy Nurse Corps Act of 1947 which would include men nurses.

Hawaii Doesn't Believe In Signs

HONOLULU—(AP)—There isn't a billboard in all Hawaii. And there hasn't been since 1926 when a handful of militant women ripped the last one from the roadsides. No vandalism was involved. The ladies, who called themselves the Outdoor Circle, had paid $150 apiece for the sign-ripping privilege.

A dozen women opened the struggle when they formed an art league back in 1912. Billboards irked them. A large pickle sign on the road to Waikiki made them downright mad. The ladies tried protests. Then they boycotted products advertised on billboards.

After 14 years members of the circle struck a bargain with the owner of the islands' last outdoor advertising company in 1926. Subscribing $150 apiece, they bought him out for $4,000. Then they moved out onto the roads and tore down the billboards.

Colorado Rocks To Rocks Dispute

DENVER, Colo.—(AP)—Colorado folks are very fond of their rock formations, a fact that sometimes proves distressing to highway department blasting crews. Says maintenance engineer John Donovan: "The people have names for every lump of rock between here and Wyoming, and they raise the devil sometimes with our dynamite men. Not long ago we were getting ready to blast a bunch of boulders for a new roadway and I received a call from a Denver ladies' club: 'You can't dynamite those rocks, the club chairman screamed. Don't you know they form the Sitting Elephant? Don't you know that's one of the very dearest landmarks in this region?'"

Donovan got on another phone and called his dynamite man.

"You know those rocks on the new roadway?" he told the dynamiter.

"How can I forget them?" the dynamiter said.

"Well, I hope you haven't blasted them," Donovan said. "Because I just learned they are the Sitting Elephant." Silence from the other end of the line.

"Well, have you blasted the Elephant?" Donovan asked, this time nervously.

"Not yet," the dynamiter said wearily. "We just finished boring the beast a navel, but I haven't put the charge in it."

Reds Take Parlous Views Of Music

MOSCOW—(AP)—Over 600 operas have been written during the 30 years of the Soviet regime but only a few are still being regularly presented. This was one of the facts which came out in a recent conference of musicians under the auspices of the Central Committee of the Communist Party.

One speaker said he had been told by a layman that some present day Soviet music should be listened to under chloroform. K. K. Ivanov gave the names of three critics. When he referred to them as "famous" critics there were shouts from the floor "What are they famous for?"

Woman's Civic Club Elects Mrs. William Douglas Head

President's Pin Given Mrs. Bright

The annual meeting of the Woman's Civic Club was held in the form of a luncheon yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club, with Mrs. Arthur C. Bright presiding. Officers were elected and reports given.

The growth of the club from 133 members in 1946 to 287 today was given in a combined report of the Membership chairman and financial secretary, Mrs. Henry C. Swearingen and Mrs. James W. Kirk. The total membership in the senior club is 215 with an additional 72 in the Junior club, which was organized in the fall of 1946 with 21 members. Mrs. J. Glenn Beall, Mrs. James W Morris, Mrs. Charles R. Nuzum and Mrs. Howard M. Smith were admitted at yesterday's meeting.

Mrs. William A. Douglas was elected president for a two-year term. Her staff includes Mrs. Swearingen, first vice president; Mrs. Earl F Gower, Jr., second vice president; Mrs. William Torkington, financial secretary; Mrs. Douglas Smith, recording secretary, and Mrs. S. Hodge Smith, treasurer.

Stressing how Mrs. Bright had "exerted herself far beyond the call of duty," Mrs. A. N. Golladay presented a president's pin to Mrs Bright, on behalf of the club.

It was announced in the reports by Mrs. Gower that the Community Service Group had raised over $500 towards its Nurses Scholarship fund during the year, hemmed 12 dozen surgical towels, 19 and one-half dozen tea towels and made one dozen kitchen aprons for use at Memorial Hospital, as well as giving 21 days in clinic work. Boxes are sent through CARE to a widow and her two children in Holland by personal contributions from the members.

Reports also were given of the establishment of the Dr. Joseph P. Franklin Memorial Eye Glass Fund, suppiying shades for the lecture room of the Public Library, of the two year's planting this year in the five-year Landscaping program for the Public Library grounds.

Mrs. Bright read several poems written by Mrs. Edith H. Shank, Frederick, district Poetry chairman, and placed her club scrapbook on display. Mrs. Raymond T. Bete read a resolution of appreciation from the Public Library board for the work the club has done for the library. Mrs. Miles G. Thompson, Hospitality chairman, presented a silk flag with stand to the club for use at meetings. Mrs. Bright also urged members to volunteer their services to the state Savings Bond office for their county chairmen. She also distributed saving bond material to each member. Reports of each officer and chairman was also made.

Mrs. Thomas Lohr Richards conducted a Memorial Service for Mrs. Hixon T. Bowersox and Mrs. Robert R. Henderson. She gave a history of the activities of each, read the poem, "The Reaper," and a Scripture selection. After a minute of silence a prayer was offered.

Announcement was made of the meeting of the American Home Group at 2 o'clock on May 27 at the home of Mrs. Bright. The Dingle. Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum will be the speaker and her topic will be "The Art of Entertaining." Mrs. Harold W. Smith, Maryland Mother of 1948, will be honor guest at the tea concluding the meeting.

Members were reminded of the tour to Garrett County, May 25, which will begin here at 10 a. m. and include lunch at Pickwick Inn, Oakland; at 1 a conducted tour including Swallow Falls, the state forest and the lake. Reservations should be made with Mrs. William J. Edwards, phone 2819, by Monday.

Concluding the meeting an exhibit was held by the 12 active members of the Creative Art group. It included a knight in armor on his horse; several figures, the head of Washington, a tiny picture of a man with a large hat, wall plaques, small trays and coasters, different size boxes and a pair of candlesticks.

Floors Of Oak Harmonize With All Furnishings

Of the various elements that are fused to create room attractiveness one of the most essential is high quality flooring. Fundamental to the structural soundness of a house, it also is a basic part of the decorative plan. The more adaptable it is to periodic and seasonal changes in furnishings, the more flexible can be the homemakers' decorative plans.

That is a feature which merits serious consideration when the prospective home owner sets out to select flooring, according to specialists in interior decoration. They point out that since flooring is relatively permanent, compared with furnishings, the style-conscious homemaker prefers a type of flooring which adjusts readily to style changes. This explains, at least in part, the widespread use of oak and other hardwood flooring.

Whether you plan to cover your floors completely or partially, oak is ideal, the experts advise. For complete covering it provides a strong, smooth, firm base of lasting quality. When the covering becomes worn or outmoded, or if you simply tire of it, the oak floors can be exposed with their original gleaming beauty undimmed.

The trend in many well appointed homes, of course, is toward covering oak floors only by a few strategically placed rugs, allowing the inimitable natural beauty of the wood to complement the furnishings. The matchless patterns effected by grain and color variations in oak lend charm and atmosphere to any room, no matter how elaborately or how modestly appointed.

In its natural coloring, oak blends easily with any color plan or decorative treatment. It might well be termed "neutral" in that respect, although its beauty definitely is on the positive side. For those who prefer floors with more pronounced color commitments, numerous shades of stain and wood filler are available to give oak the exact tone desired.

An important point of economy associated with oak flooring, incidentally, is the fact that after many years of severe wear and even neglect it can be restored to its original splendor by re-sanding and refinishing. Under ordinary circumstances an oak floor reasonably can be expected to last the life of a house. There are numerous instances, in fact, in which oak floors have been salvaged form old homes and installed in new dwellings for another lifetime of service.

Easy to keep glistening with a daily sweeping and an occasional waxing and polishing, oak flooring is available in four distinct types or styles—strip, plank, parquet and block. The strip type is by far the most widely used, one of the reasons being its exceptional versatility. Not only does it fulfill the requirements of adaptability to changes in furnishings, but it harmonizes with any style of architecture.

Nehru Says "Jail Better Than Prime Ministry"

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Twenty months as head of the Indian administration were far more difficult than 10 years in gaol, Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru says. Though within four walls of a cell, Nehru says he had greater freedom and life was fairly easy during those 10 years.

Nehru says he is now bound down, his movements restricted, his work more taxing, with armed guard following him wherever he goes and officials advising him in whatever he does. Since the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi, greatest precautions have been taken to guard Nehru.

Chinese Hard Hit In Indochina

HANOI (AP)—Sixty-seven Chinese have been killed and Chinese-owned property valued at about $14,800,000 has been destroyed during the past 15 months of fighting in northern Indochina, the Chinese consul-general at Honoi, Kiang Si Ling, says These figures do not include losses in Haiphong, where the large Chinese population suffered heavily during fighting last winter.

Wanted: Car To Fit 1948 Radiator Cap

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP) — When Thieves stripped Dean Niemann's 1948 model automobile (driven only 2,000 miles), they left little more than the chassis. Listed as missing were: five wheels, five tires, front and rear bumpers, sun visors, windshield wipers, radio, aerial, seat covers, headlights, battery, generator, carburetor, spark plugs and coils.

Homes For Filipinos

MANILA (AP)—Work has begun on $1,000,000 government project which will provide 700 homes for laborers and low salaried government employees. The house-construction project is part of a plan to improve the lot of low wage earners. Each house will cost approximately $2,000.

Americans spent an average of about $12.3 billions annually for housing between 1921 and 1941.

No Bail For Germans

FRANKFORT (AP)—Few Germans go free on bail while awaiting trial these days. Most are kept in jail until their turn in court. "They'll jump bail if you turn them loose," a German prosecutor explained. "This money we have here now has so little value and there's so much of it in circulation that even a big amount of bail does no good." "Besides," he added, "So many of our criminals belong to the big floating population of homeless wanderers left by the war."

There is no habeas corpus proceedings in Germany. German law permits refusal of bail in any case where there is danger that a prisoner might flee or that he might destroy evidence. That gives a judge a lot of leeway.

However, German law does require that a prisoner can compel a hearing every two months to decide whether his continued imprisonment is justified. Besides that, American military government keeps a close check on the dockets to see if there are abuses.

Under normal conditions, the average person's heart beats over 100,000 times every 24 hours.

British Plan To Raise Oysters

LONDON—The Ministry of agriculture has opened a research station to study the problem of restoring Britain's once productive oyster beds. In addition, the government has granted licenses for the importation of more than 11 million seed oysters this year.

"It is hoped," said Agriculture Minister Tom Williams, "that as a result of these measures the supplies of oysters will improve and again become available to the public at reasonable prices." Oysters now retail at London seafood bars for 20 cents each.

Floors Of Oak Harmonize With All Furnishings

Of the various elements that are fused to create room attractiveness one of the most essential is high quality flooring. Fundamental to the structural soundness of a house, it also is a basic part of the decorative plan. The more adaptable it is to periodic and seasonal changes in furnishings, the more flexible can be the homemakers' decorative plans.

That is a feature which merits serious consideration when the prospective home owner sets out to select flooring, according to specialists in interior decoration. They point out that since flooring is relatively permanent, compared with furnishings, the style-conscious homemaker prefers a type of flooring which adjusts readily to style changes. This explains, at least in part, the widespread use of oak and other hardwood flooring.

Whether you plan to cover your floors completely or partially, oak is ideal, the experts advise. For complete covering it provides a strong, smooth, firm base of lasting quality. When the covering becomes worn or outmoded, or if you simply tire of it, the oak floors can be exposed with their original gleaming beauty undimmed.

The trend in many well appointed homes, of course, is toward covering oak floors only by a few strategically placed rugs, allowing the inimitable natural beauty of the wood to complement the furnishings. The matchless patterns effected by grain and color variations in oak lend charm and atmosphere to any room, no matter how elaborately or how modestly appointed.

In its natural coloring, oak blends easily with any color plan or decorative treatment. It might well be termed "neutral" in that respect, although its beauty definitely is on the positive side. For those who prefer floors with more pronounced color commitments, numerous shades of stain and wood filler are available to give oak the exact tone desired.

An important point of economy associated with oak flooring, incidentally, is the fact that after many years of severe wear and even neglect it can be restored to its original splendor by re-sanding and refinishing. Under ordinary circumstances an oak floor reasonably can be expected to last the life of a house. There are numerous instances, in fact, in which oak floors have been salvaged form old homes and installed in new dwellings for another lifetime of service.

Easy to keep glistening with a daily sweeping and an occasional waxing and polishing, oak flooring is available in four distinct types or styles—strip, plank, parquet and block. The strip type is by far the most widely used, one of the reasons being its exceptional versatility. Not only does it fulfill the requirements of adaptability to changes in furnishings, but it harmonizes with any style of architecture.

Nehru Says "Jail Better Than Prime Ministry"

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Twenty months as head of the Indian administration were far more difficult than 10 years in gaol, Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru says. Though within four walls of a cell, Nehru says he had greater freedom and life was fairly easy during those 10 years.

Nehru says he is now bound down, his movements restricted, his work more taxing, with armed guard following him wherever he goes and officials advising him in whatever he does. Since the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi, greatest precautions have been taken to guard Nehru.

Chinese Hard Hit In Indochina

HANOI (AP)—Sixty-seven Chinese have been killed and Chinese-owned property valued at about $14,800,000 has been destroyed during the past 15 months of fighting in northern Indochina, the Chinese consul-general at Honoi, Kiang Si Ling, says These figures do not include losses in Haiphong, where the large Chinese population suffered heavily during fighting last winter.

Wanted: Car To Fit 1948 Radiator Cap

Homes For Filipinos

MANILA (AP)—Work has begun on $1,000,000 government project which will provide 700 homes for laborers and low salaried government employees. The house-construction project is part of a plan to improve the lot of low wage earners. Each house will cost approximately $2,000.

Americans spent an average of about $12.3 billions annually for housing between 1921 and 1941.

No Bail For Germans

FRANKFORT (AP)—Few Germans go free on bail while awaiting trial these days. Most are kept in jail until their turn in court. "They'll jump bail if you turn them loose," a German prosecutor explained. "This money we have here now has so little value and there's so much of it in circulation that even a big amount of bail does no good." "Besides," he added, "So many of our criminals belong to the big floating population of homeless wanderers left by the war."

There is no habeas corpus proceedings in Germany. German law permits refusal of bail in any case where there is danger that a prisoner might flee or that he might destroy evidence. That gives a judge a lot of leeway.

However, German law does require that a prisoner can compel a hearing every two months to decide whether his continued imprisonment is justified. Besides that, American military government keeps a close check on the dockets to see if there are abuses.

Under normal conditions, the average person's heart beats over 100,000 times every 24 hours.

British Plan To Raise Oysters

LONDON—The Ministry of agriculture has opened a research station to study the problem of restoring Britain's once productive oyster beds. In addition, the government has granted licenses for the importation of more than 11 million seed oysters this year.

"It is hoped," said Agriculture Minister Tom Williams, "that as a result of these measures the supplies of oysters will improve and again become available to the public at reasonable prices." Oysters now retail at London seafood bars for 20 cents each.

Arizona's only battle of the Civil War was fought at Picacho Peak, in the southern part of the state.

An electric shaver is being manufactured which is equipped with two cords and a connecting device that can be easily installed on the dashboard of a car.

Increased production of penicillin from a given batch of mold through the addition of a few hundredths of one per cent of phenylactic acid, was developed in 1947.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—(INS)—I think it is extremely important that the fine work being done at the Lou Costello, Jr. Foundation will be the basis of a movie. But I am going to argue with Bud Abbott and Lou Costello that they are crazy to appear in just one short! They have poured $350,000 of their own money into battling juvenile delinquency and have almost gone broke maintaining the center. Aren't they being a little too modest?

Louella Parsons

Instead, William Bendix will be the star of "10,000 Kids and a Cop" and Bill appears without a cent of salary. Everything is gratis—the Nasser studio space, the music of Jan Garber, the direction of Charles Barton and processing of the film is by Pathe, RCA and Monogram.

Proceeds, of course, will be poured right back into the boys recreational center.

Wonder what happened with Roy Rogers and the "Sons Of the Pioneers" to make them part company? Why, Roy has been as close to the "Sons of the Pioneers" as cheese is to apple pie. He was with them when he was discovered for movies.

They have been in every Rogers picture and in his radio show, as well.

Now Roy has stepped out and Bob Nolan takes over the star spot. Nolan will be on the radio and in the movies with the "Pioneers."

Jimmy Stewart is going to do the "Monty Stratton" picture. You will not hear a word about it, because the movie doesn't start until September, but I know that Jack Cummings who never wanted anyone else but Jimmy, has stuck to his guns and postponed the picture to a time that will be convenient for the popular James.

It was Metro where Jimmy Stewart first became known as a movie actor, and he was there until the time he went to war.

I am not surprised, after catching a sneak preview of "Key Largo" that Jack Warner may sign Claire Trevor. She is so good that you realize again what a swell trouper this gal is, and when given a chance, what a fine actress.

And believe me, it is some competition to go against Humphrey Bogart, who is also slightly terrific in "Key Largo"—and baby is good, too.

I am not supposed to write a review of the picture, but I happened to catch it, and I want to say it is good, good, good!

Chatter in Hollywood: When Deanna Durbin came to have a cup of tea with me one day last week, she said she was going to spend every minute of her vacation with Jessica, her two-year-old daughter.

"I've made so many pictures, and when I am working I have so little time to spend with her," Deanna said. "I want to have her all to myself."

So in spite of the fact that Hugo Fregonese, who is in Buenos Aires making pictures, sent Deanna a fabulous offer for a four weeks' personal appearance tour in the Argentine, I know she will turn it down. She was told she could name her own price and the money would be deposited in an American bank in advance.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Darrylin Zanuck, who has been very sick with a throat affliction, has passed the crisis, and is much better. Poor Darrylin—first a fractured leg and now this illness. She has had more than her share.

Corinne Calvay, who has stayed out of night spots and worked hard, took a day off to go deep sea fishing with John Bromfield, a cousin of Louis.

Jimmie McHugh playing old familiar tunes at Bebe Daniels' and Ben Lyons' party had everyone at the piano singing. My goddaughter, Barbara Bebe, who is turning into a raving beauty, not only sings well, but plays the piano—but beautifully. I am very proud of her.

George Burns gave with a song number that was terrific, and Orry-Kelly joined in on the chorus—so did Gracie Allen.

Anita and Tom May are giving a dinner dance June 3. Sorry I will not be here to wish Tom a happy birthday. We will be on the Atlantic, headed to Ireland, if all goes well.

THE 3 STOOGES COMEDY — FRIGHT NIGHT

CHAPTER 8 OF THE BLACK WIDOW

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y.—An underprivileged willow tree — not even the weeping kind — struggles for survival in an unsuitable corner of my property. It's making such a valiant effort to keep alive I've developed a special, personal affection for it that is only one cut below that for the family pet.

The neighbors probably have the same feeling about the plants that must make way for the progress. They all seem to hate the idea of yanking old friends out of the ground and letting them wither and die. That's where I come in: they offer them to me. I accept.

In the past couple of weeks my gifts include a purple Rose of Sharon tree the size of a California redwood (the selling talk made me expect something the size of a peony bush); a Japanese something which will, I am assured, ultimately produce little red berries that birds love, and an unlabeled assortment of yellowing and unhappy young evergreens which will probably die from unseasonal transplanting.

In addition, I am promised (and have eagerly accepted) all the lily-of-the-valley pips that have spread beyond their beds; a couple of tons of iris, the purple kind which I have already in abundance; all the tulip bulbs people are planning to replace with something else, and heaven knows how many other cast-offs.

It started out as a good deal. Giving me these things salved the consciences of fellow gardeners and, I figured, was saving me lots of money that I needed to put into such items as a post-and-rail fence. Now, however, it is something of a mixed blessing, for my carefully laid plan of development is getting all out of whack, and I keep saying I'll take the orphans because I'm afraid I'll miss something. Now that I have them, I won't dare throw them away if I don't like them because I won't want to (a) hurt the neighbors' feelings or (b) pull out something I've nursed through a transplanting.

In the few minutes I've had to spare from digging holes for new arrivals, I've separated a number of clumps of old chrysanthemums. They get run-down if left undisturbed for a long time, and last fall's showing of blossoms was so meager I'm inclined to believe they haven't been divided since the Redcoats were fighting the rebel colonists in the north 40. They (the plants) should be lifted and divided every two or three years.

Planting of vegetables, now that there's no longer a danger of frost, proceeds as usual, with succession plantings one of the most important activities in the whole garden. Spinach already has made an appearance on the family dinner table.

The other item of new business is dandelion wine. The recipe calls for an initial plucking of several quarts of yellow blossoms. This is easy. There are at least seven quarts within reaching distance of the front door.

Are You Lost--- Without A Roast?

When your budget says "No!" or your meat man hasn't got the kind you want—are you lost without a roast? You needn't be if you know about braising. This is a method of cookery that brings to succulent tenderness the cuts not suitable for roasting. You may choose from a long list of these cuts best cooked by braising — choose large cuts (that carve every bit as conveniently) comparable to a roast in bulk or choose cuts that can be cut into pieces suitable for "stretching" with other ingredients added during the cooking.

About Braising

To braise meat, brown the meat in a skillet or pan that has a tight-fitting lid. The meat may be browned in its own fat, or additional fat added, if necessary. When meat is thoroughly browned, a little bit of liquid usually is added, barely enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Seasonings are added and the cover put on tightly so that the meat steams slowly in its own juices, until savory and tender. Added liquid may be necessary if it dries out during cooking.

With braising in your repertoire of meat cookery methods, you need never be at loss for a delicious cut of meat to serve. Here are cuts of meat to ask for that are all deliciously cooked by braising:

Beef: Neck, fore shank, chuck, brisket, plate, short ribs, flank steak, heel of round, round steak, rump, oxtails, heart, kidney, liver.

Lamb: Breast, neck slices, shank, shoulder, shoulder chops, heart.

Pork: Rib chops, loin chops, shoulder steaks, tenderloin, steaks from leg, heart, liver, kidney.

Veal: Breast, steak, rib chops, loin chops, shoulder chops, shoulder, cuts from leg, heart, kidney.

Chocolate Topped Nut Crunchies

"Mom, how about one of those hot cookies?"

The mother who regularly bakes cookies is the champion—not only to her children, but also to her husband who still likes to raid the cookie jar.

For something different in the way of cookies, try these chocolate topped nut crunchies. Into the top of each crunchy cookie press chocolate frosting and garnish with a whole almond.

These taste delights are good to have around on house-cleaning days when time is at a premium or on days when it's fun to be outdoors and picnics are a spur-of-the-moment entertainment.

CHOCOLATE TOPPED NUT CRUNCHIES

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 egg
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
Chocolate frosting or melted chocolate candy bar thinned with cream

Sift together flour, salt and soda. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add vanilla extract. Add egg, mixing well. Add flour mixture and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets. With spoon make hollows in center of each cookie. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Drop chocolate frosting by teaspoonfuls in hollows. Top with nut if desired. Yield: About five dozen cookies, one and one-half inches.

CEREAL BOWL CLOSE TO AN "IDEAL FOOD"

What is an "ideal food?" It's one that gives you a well-rounded amount of nutrients in a single serving. And what would you say if you could find such an "ideal food" at a cost of but four cents per serving? If you're interested—and who wouldn't be in these days of high prices—do take a new look at a bowl of cereal, milk and sugar!

This simple combination does indeed come cose to being an ideal food. It contributes to the satisfaction of every essential food element except vitamin C. Yet this favorite food combination costs but four cents per serving! No wonder it's recommended as the "main course" in a thrifty and nutritionally adequate breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter.

Best of all, the serving of cereal with milk and sugar may be varied nearly two dozen different ways, for there are that many different kinds of cereals! Do run the range of this thrifty treat, from the "ready-to-eats" right through the "cooked" kinds—and remember, too, the selections of cereals that come ten to a box, packed in individual serving size. These are fun and they furnish a good way to get acquainted with the wide selections among the cereals, and to give everyone at a table a different cereal if they so wish.

Stuffed Green Peppers

Remember stuffed green peppers in your menu planning. They're a popular way of using up a little leftover coked meat with enriched bread in a satisfying dish. One cup of diced cooked meat actually serves six. To fix the peppers, first cut off tops and remove seeds; then parboil five minutes. Brown onions in fat. Add bread cubes, seasonings, tomato pulp and fill peppers with this mixture. Bake in a hot oven.

Icing Mathematics

How much frosting covers how much cake? Icing mathematics is easy when you use these simple rules. Two cups of frosting covers the top and sides of one nine-inch layer. Two cups of frosting covers tops and sides of two eight-inch layers. Four cups of frosting covers tops and sides of two nine-inch layers. Five and one-half to six cups of frosting covers tops and sides of three nine-inch layers.

When Miss Teen Entertains Have Her Help With Lunch

"Hey, mom, can I have a party next week?" If you have a teenage daughter in your home, we're willing to bet you hear this plea very frequently. Miss Teen just naturally loves to entertain her friends, and you are more than willing to encourage her hospitable inclinations even though they mean extra work for you.

And speaking of work, it's a mighty good idea to enlist daughter's help in preparing the party refreshments (You might mention the old saying that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach). Of course, if she's a typical teen-ager, she'll want to do things the quick-easy way.

And that's our cue to bring up the subject of fully-prepared baking mixes. Of course the makers of these handy products probably didn't dream them up with Miss Teen in mind but the mixes certainly are a boon to her baking. Now it's possible for her to turn out luscious home baked goodies with an absolute minimum of motherly supervision, and the kitchen won't look as though a cyclone had hit it when she's through. There's a famous family of just-add-water mixes—Gingerbread Mix, Spice Cake Mix, White Cake Mix, Devil's Food Mix, Waffle Mix, Hot Muffin Mix and Hot Roll Mix—that have made baking a-b-c easy.

If you're giving an all-girl party, you'll probably serve dainty dishes like tiny rolls filled with chicken or sea food salad, gingerbread ribbon sandwiches and little frosted cup cakes. For huskier parties where the ever-hungry male must be considered, you'll want filler-uppers like waffles, big chunks of gingerbread, home made wiener and hamburger buns and big layer cakes with lots of frosting.

Whether you and your daughter are planning a pretty-as-a-picture tea for her club or a more down-to-earth open house for the whole gang, you'll probably be very glad we reminded you of the easy-does-it mixes. And don't be surprised to hear the young lady say nonchalantly to the guests, "Oh, yes, I made them myself,"

Cookies Take Place Of May Basket Flowers

Traditionally May baskets are filled with flowers . . . but this spring be different and pile them high with crisp refrigerator cookies. Plan on getting variety from a single batch. After mixing, divide the dough into thirds. To one-third add melted Chocolate, mixing it in thoroughly. To another third add orange juice and rind, mixing well. Leave the remaining third plain. These cookies will give pleasant variety to lunch box meals, too.

FOOD... through the ages..

Suggestions For Using Strawberries

The all-too-short season for strawberries will soon be over. While this luscious fruit is still in the markets, use it in abundance and in every possible way. Start the day with a big dish of strawberries and cream for breakfast, or top the cereal with big, red berries. Use strawberries, crushed, as a sauce for puddings or over ice cream. A dish of strawberries, with the hulls left on, to pick up in the fingers and dip in powdered sugar, a plate of cookies and a good strawberry drink make a delightful afternoon snack for members of the family or callers.

Refreshing, cooling beverages can be made with strawberries and sparkling water. You might like to serve an ice cream soda, quickly made with the professional look and fine flavor of those made at a soda fountain. In a tall glass combine ⅓ cup mashed, sweetened and chilled strawberries, ¼ cup light cream and a scoop of strawberry or vanilla ice cream. Add a little sparkling water and stir gently. Fill the glass with ice cold sparkling water and you have a soda that is delicious. Be sure the ingredients are well chilled, and keep a bottle or two of sparkling water in your refrigerator so you will be ready to make a cooling drink at any time. Try this refresher made with strawberries.

Are You Lost--- Without A Roast?

When your budget says "No!" or your meat man hasn't got the kind you want—are you lost without a roast? You needn't be if you know about braising. This is a method of cookery that brings to succulent tenderness the cuts not suitable for roasting. You may choose from a long list of these cuts best cooked by braising — choose large cuts (that carve every bit as conveniently) comparable to a roast in bulk or choose cuts that can be cut into pieces suitable for "stretching" with other ingredients added during the cooking.

About Braising

To braise meat, brown the meat in a skillet or pan that has a tight-fitting lid. The meat may be browned in its own fat, or additional fat added, if necessary. When meat is thoroughly browned, a little bit of liquid usually is added, barely enough to cover the bottom of the pan. Seasonings are added and the cover put on tightly so that the meat steams slowly in its own juices, until savory and tender. Added liquid may be necessary if it dries out during cooking.

With braising in your repertoire of meat cookery methods, you need never be at loss for a delicious cut of meat to serve. Here are cuts of meat to ask for that are all deliciously cooked by braising:

Beef: Neck, fore shank, chuck, brisket, plate, short ribs, flank steak, heel of round, round steak, rump, oxtails, heart, kidney, liver.

Lamb: Breast, neck slices, shank, shoulder, shoulder chops, heart.

Pork: Rib chops, loin chops, shoulder steaks, tenderloin, steaks from leg, heart, liver, kidney.

Veal: Breast, steak, rib chops, loin chops, shoulder chops, shoulder, cuts from leg, heart, kidney.

Chocolate Topped Nut Crunchies

"Mom, how about one of those hot cookies?"

The mother who regularly bakes cookies is the champion—not only to her children, but also to her husband who still likes to raid the cookie jar.

For something different in the way of cookies, try these chocolate topped nut crunchies. Into the top of each crunchy cookie press chocolate frosting and garnish with a whole almond.

These taste delights are good to have around on house-cleaning days when time is at a premium or on days when it's fun to be outdoors and picnics are a spur-of-the-moment entertainment.

CHOCOLATE TOPPED NUT CRUNCHIES

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 egg
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts
Chocolate frosting or melted chocolate candy bar thinned with cream

Sift together flour, salt and soda. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add vanilla extract. Add egg, mixing well. Add flour mixture and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets. With spoon make hollows in center of each cookie. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Drop chocolate frosting by teaspoonfuls in hollows. Top with nut if desired. Yield: About five dozen cookies, one and one-half inches.

When Miss Teen Entertains Have Her Help With Lunch

"Hey, mom, can I have a party next week?" If you have a teen-age daughter in your home, we're willing to bet you hear this plea very frequently. Miss Teen just naturally loves to entertain her friends, and you are more than willing to encourage her hospitable inclinations even though they mean extra work for you.

And speaking of work, it's a mighty good idea to enlist daughter's help in preparing the party refreshments (You might mention the old saying that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach). Of course, if she's a typical teen-ager, she'll want to do things the quick-easy way.

And that's our cue to bring up the subject of fully-prepared baking mixes. Of course the makers of these handy products probably didn't dream them up with Miss Teen in mind but the mixes certainly are a boon to her baking. Now it's possible for her to turn out luscious home baked goodies with an absolute minimum of motherly supervision, and the kitchen won't look as though a cyclone had hit it when she's through. There's a famous family of just-add-water mixes—Gingerbread Mix, Spice Cake Mix, White Cake Mix, Devil's Food Mix, Waffle Mix, Hot Muffin Mix and Hot Roll Mix—that have made baking a-b-c easy.

If you're giving an all-girl party, you'll probably serve dainty dishes like tiny rolls filled with chicken or sea food salad, gingerbread ribbon sandwiches and little frosted cup cakes. For huskier parties where the ever-hungry male must be considered, you'll want filler-uppers like waffles, big chunks of gingerbread, home made wiener and hamburger buns and big layer cakes with lots of frosting.

Whether you and your daughter are planning a pretty-as-a-picture tea for her club or a more down-to-earth open house for the whole gang, you'll probably be very glad we reminded you of the easy-does-it mixes. And don't be surprised to hear the young lady say nonchalantly to the guests, "Oh, yes, I made them myself."

FOOD... through the ages..

Suggestions For Using Strawberries

The all-too-short season for strawberries will soon be over. While this luscious fruit is still in the markets, use it in abundance and in every possible way. Start the day with a big dish of strawberries and cream for breakfast, or top the cereal with big, red berries. Use strawberries, crushed, as a sauce for puddings or over ice cream. A dish of strawberries, with the hulls left on, to pick up in the fingers and dip in powdered sugar, a plate of cookies and a good strawberry drink make a delightful afternoon snack for members of the family or callers.

Refreshing, cooling beverages can be made with strawberries and sparkling water. You might like to serve an ice cream soda, quickly made with the professional look and fine flavor of those made at a soda fountain. In a tall glass combine ⅓ cup mashed, sweetened and chilled strawberries, ¼ cup light cream and a scoop of strawberry or vanilla ice cream. Add a little sparkling water and stir gently. Fill the glass with ice cold sparkling water and you have a soda that is delicious. Be sure the ingredients are well chilled, and keep a bottle or two of sparkling water in your refrigerator so you will be ready to make a cooling drink at any time. Try this refresher made with strawberries.

CEREAL BOWL CLOSE TO AN "IDEAL FOOD"

What is an "ideal food?" It's one that gives you a well-rounded amount of nutrients in a single serving. And what would you say if you could find such an "ideal food" at a cost of but four cents per serving? If you're interested—and who wouldn't be in these days of high prices—do take a new look at a bowl of cereal, milk and sugar!

This simple combination does indeed come cose to being an ideal food. It contributes to the satisfaction of every essential food element except vitamin C. Yet this favorite food combination costs but four cents per serving! No wonder it's recommended as the "main course" in a thrifty and nutritionally adequate breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter.

Best of all, the serving of cereal with milk and sugar may be varied nearly two dozen different ways, for there are that many different kinds of cereals! Do run the range of this thrifty treat, from the "ready-to-eats" right through the "cooked" kinds—and remember, too, the selections of cereals that come ten to a box, packed in individual serving size. These are fun and they furnish a good way to get acquainted with the wide selections among the cereals, and to give everyone at a table a different cereal if they so wish.

Stuffed Green Peppers

Remember stuffed green peppers in your menu planning. They're a popular way of using up a little leftover coked meat with enriched bread in a satisfying dish. One cup of diced cooked meat actually serves six. To fix the peppers, first cut off tops and remove seeds; then parboil five minutes. Brown onions in fat. Add bread cubes, seasonings, tomato pulp and fill peppers with this mixture. Bake in a hot oven.

Icing Mathematics

How much frosting covers how much cake? Icing mathematics is easy when you use these simple rules. Two cups of frosting covers the top and sides of one nine-inch layer. Two cups of frosting covers tops and sides of two eight-inch layers. Four cups of frosting covers tops and sides of two nine-inch layers. Five and one-half to six cups of frosting covers tops and sides of three nine-inch layers.

Cookies Take Place Of May Basket Flowers

Traditionally May baskets are filled with flowers . . . but this spring be different and pile them high with crisp refrigerator cookies. Plan on getting variety from a single batch. After mixing, divide the dough into thirds. To one-third add melted Chocolate, mixing it in thoroughly. To another third add orange juice and rind, mixing well. Leave the remaining third plain. These cookies will give pleasant variety to lunch box meals, too.

Make The Most Of Leftover Meat

One reason I like meat leftovers is because there are an infinite number of good-tasting dishes you can make with them in duoble-quick time. And the price of meat being what it is, leftovers should be used to the last scrap.

Leftover pot roast always makes a hit when it is sliced and heated quickly in its own gravy and served over wide noodles, as shown in the accompanying photograph. But do reheat it quickly, as suggested, or you will toughen and dry out the meat.

I also like to use leftover roast ground in a Canadian Meat Pie with a rich top-and-bottom pastry crust. If you try this kind of pie, accompany it with glazed apple rounds and a huge green salad tossed with French dressing. Make the dessert simple because the pie is rich—serve cheese and crackers for instance.

For a quick supper serve an economical dehydrated thick pea soup and sandwiches of leftover meat. Give the sandwiches a savory touch by adding corn relish to them. Or serve a cold meat salad instead of the sandwiches sometime. Here is a recipe for a particularly good one:

SLICED POT ROAST ON NOODLES . . . Leftover special.

TANGY VEAL SALAD

2 cups diced cooked veal
One 6-ounce can broiled mushrooms quartered
¼ cup well-seasoned French dressing
⅓ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons leftover sweet pickle vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups diagonally sliced celery
½ cup sliced sweet pickle

Marinate veal and mushrooms, which have been drained in French dressing for several hours in refrigerator, turning several times. Combine mayonnaise, vinegar and seasonings. Add to marinated veal and mushrooms with remaining ingredients. Served chilled in lettuce cups. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

When you have leftover smoked tongue you can really give it royal treatment. A supper dish that always goes over well consists of scrambled eggs with small cubes of the tongue added; serve this with new asparagus or artichokes with browned butter. If you like to serve a hot bread and let it double for dessert, as I sometimes do, you'll have a quickly made meal.

If you want other excellent recipes for using leftover meat and fowl, send for a copy of "Money-Saving Main Dishes." Send a postcard with your name and address to the Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., for a free copy. It gives about 150 main dishes that nourish and satisfy and enable homemakers to save money.

Here is a hash recipe from the booklet. I choose this everyday dish because, simple as it is, so few people make it really well.

BROWNED HASH

1½ cups chopped cooked meat
3 cups chopped cooked potatoes
1 onion, finely chopped
Broth or milk
Seasoning to taste

The meat, potatoes, and onion may be chopped by hand or put through the food grinder, depending on the texture desired. Mix meat, potatoes, and onions thoroughly. Moisten with a little broth or milk, if desired, and season to taste. Spread mixture in an even layer in a lightly greased frying pan. Cook slowly until browned on the bottom. If desired, turn and brown on the other side. Turn hash out on a platter and garnish with parsley.

Memorial Day Always Starts Picnic Season

Memorial Day is sort of a weather milestone. Though summer is still officially several weeks away, this holiday marks the real beginning of outdoor activities. The balmy weather lures us outdoors and we begin to think about a trip to the lake, about backyard parties, family fishing trips and, of course picnics.

With all these pleasant thoughts goes the eternal problem of what to feed the family. Sandwiches, of course, are an old standby and a "must" for all these activities. The real question is what kind of sandwiches.

Ham and cheese sandwiches are almost traditional, but we become tired of even traditional foods when they are served too often. So here are some suggestions for other appealing, appetizing sandwiches to round out the picnic basket and supplement those old standbys. You'll find your supply of jam and jelly a valuable ally in preparing them.

Vary The Old Ones

To vary the ham idea, try deviled ham with pineapple preserves. The sweetness of the preserves is a tasty contrast to the tangier deviled ham. For a variation of the cheese sandwich, its simple to concoct a fine sandwich spread with cream cheese and orange marmalade.

If you're finishing the Sunday chicken or turkey at supper out in the back yard, serve it in sandwiches to make it go farther. Of course, nothing points up the flavor of fowl quite as nicely as a touch of jelly. Try a bit of currant jelly with your chicken sandwiches or crabapple jelly with turkey sandwiches.

Back-yard Party Treats

Something a little more on the dainty side will be in order for a back-yard party. Open-face sandwiches should fill this bill perfectly. Nothing is prettier than triangular open-face sandwiches with a frill of cream cheese put through a pastry tube and a center of jewel-bright jelly. For a very special treat serve these open-face sandwiches with cottage cheese and rich guava jelly in the center.

Another dainty morsel can be made with thin slices of whole wheat bread spread with orange marmalade and chopped walnuts. A variation of this which goes well with tea is made by slicing white bread very thin, removing the crusts and cutting the bread in oblong strips for three-decker sandwich strips. Put cream cheese and jelly on the bottom strip, spread the second strip with plum jelly and chopped nuts and top with a third strip of bread.

How To "Boil" Meat

To cook large cuts by "boiling", cover meat with water, so that all of it is cooked at the same temperature. Season with salt and pepper, if required. Spices and herbs or flavor vegetables may be added. Cover and simmer gently until done. Do not boil.

How "Extenders" Can Help You To Make More Of Meat

Blessed is the family whose cook knows the ways of "extenders" to cleverly make more of meat. Now, when despite larger supplies than before the war more meat is wanted than is available, is a good time to know the tricks of "stretching" less meat to look like more; go farther 'round the table. Good aids for "stretching" strategy are bread or cereal crumbs, rice, macaroni, spaghetti, vegetables and a host of other helpful foods.

Some "stretching" comes "just naturally," like stuffing a lamb or veal shoulder roast with savory dressing — that's a "stretching" trick, though, so delicious in its results, you may not think of it as "extending" the meat. The vegetables and potatoes you add to a stew actually go a long way toward "extending" the meat, but the dish is so traditional that we seldom think of it any longer as "stretching." It's smart to include more and more of this type of cooking in your meat meals now to make the most of the meat you buy.

Here are three excellent recipes that will do you proudly for "extending meat right now, and incidentally add three new delicious meat dishes for frequent and thrifty appearances at your table:

Liver Loaf

1½ lbs. beef or pork liver
4 slices bacon
½ onion
2 eggs
2½ cups soft bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped parsley
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Let slices of liver stand in hot water for 10 minutes and then grind with bacon and the onion. Add eggs, crumbs, parsley and seasonings and pack firmly into a loaf pan. Bake 1 hour in moderate oven (350°F.) Yield: 6 servings. May be sliced cold if desired. Serve with creamed potatoes and broccoli.

Beef Biscuit Roll

(Biscuit is Delicious Extender)
1 lb. ground beef chuck
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
Lard or drippings
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Brown the beef, onion and green pepper in lard or drippings in a frying pan. Add the seasonings. Make a regulation biscuit dough and spread dough with meat mixture; roll like a jelly roll. If dough is too soft, chill in refrigerator first, then cut in 1½ inch slices. Place in greased pan, cut side up, brush tops with melted butter. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 20-25 minutes. Serve with brown gravy or cheese sauce. Yield: 6 servings. Serve with green peas and braised celery.

Roast Stuffed Veal Breast

(Thrifty Cut Introduces New and Delicious Roast)

4 lbs. veal breast. Salt
Pepper
Apple Stuffing*

Have breast bone removed from a veal breast and a pocket cut from the end. Season with salt and pepper and fill pocket with Apple Stuffing. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan and roast in a slow oven (325°F.) for about 2½ hours. Yield: 8 servings.

Apple Stuffing

2 cups finely chopped apples
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook apples and parsley in butter for a few minutes. Add crumbs, seasonings and enough water to make a slightly moist dressing.

Surprise Dessert Is Prize Winner

A dessert that is a surprise and a prize winner too, is almost too good to be true. When the recipe is prepared and ready for baking it looks very much like a custard. But when it is baked there is a tender cake on top with a delicious custard below—that is the surprise.

If the dessert is removed from the dish in which it is baked, the custard may be served as the topping by inverting the dish and letting the cake be on the bottom.

This is a prize winning dessert which originated in a home where milk custards are a specialty. The fruit and honey combination gives it a tart-sweet flavor that is particularly appetite-appealing after a hearty meal.

A good dinner menu suggestion:
Escalloped Potatoes and Ham
Buttered Green Beans
Head Lettuce Salad Russian Dressing
Rolls Butter
Honey Orange Puff
Milk Coffee

HONEY ORANGE PUFF

2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons grated orange rind
¼ cup strained honey
1 cup milk

Cream butter until soft and blend in sugar. Add egg yolks and beat until fluffy. Add flour and beat until smooth. Stir in orange and lemon juice, grated rind, honey, and the milk.

Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, and pour into a buttered 5-cup casserole or into 6 large custard cups. Set in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven, 300° F., 1 hour for the casserole, or 45 minutes for the custard cups, or until a sharp knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Serve warm or cold. Serves 6.

Farmers Have Fish With Rice In Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—Collective farmers are harvesting rice and fish from the same fields. A Tass dispatch from the Nikolaev region said the farmers released young carp in the waters covering the ricefields. They discovered that these fields yielded as much as 30 per cent more rice than other fields. They also expect to catch 10,000 pounds of carp from the same fields.

Appeal Made Easy

Here's an easy way to keep spring cold plates and buffet style meals full of appetite appeal. Develop a knack for making tasty enriched breads and rolls. For instance, crescent rolls have interesting shapes and lift a meal into that "special" class. To make them, cut risen yeast dough in pie-shaped pieces, brush with melted butter or margarine and roll up, beginning at the wide end. Curve into crescents on a greased baking sheet. Allow to rise and bake in a moderate oven. These rolls have the right flavor to go with a buffet supper of cold ham, cheese, spring salad, relishes, and hot coffee.

LONDON—(AP)—New gadgets on 4,000 British trains may end delays due to fog and ease strain for engine crews at other times. ## German Meat

ESSEN (AP)—Ruhr Germans with their own transports are running a lucrative business by collecting the ration-cards of as many as 50 fellow-townsmen and driving as far north as Bremen or as far south as Bavaria to purchase meat and bring it back. They stress that their business is not black market and that the meat is legally bought against ration cards which are good for the whole of Bizonia. "There's plenty of meat in other places," they claim. "We're merely helping out the faulty distribution."

Answer Filed In Strip Mining Law Challenge

Attorney General Claims Bill Valid

An answer has been filed in Circuit Court by H. Hall Hammond, attorney general of Maryland, in the bill of complaint action of the Maryland Coal and Realty Company and Tri-State Construction Company against the Maryland Bureau of Mines on the constitutionality of an act regulating strip mining.

Hammond contends in his answer that the law is constitutional and in the interests of the state and general public.

The suit was instituted by the petitioners in Circuit Court here in an effort to have the strip mining act, passed at the last regular session of the General Assembly, declared invalid and unconstitutional. Hammond, as attorney general, was required by the Court to file an answer within a fixed date. The Court will decide the question.

Hammond and Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general, in their answer to the suit state that the conclusions of the plaintiffs as to the constitutionality of the strip mining act are unfounded and ask the court to dismiss the bill of complaint.

In the bill of complaint filed by Walter C. Capper and William S. Jenkins, attorneys for the coal mining firms, it is alleged that the act upon its face purports to be an act applying to the entire state of Maryland with the exception of Garrett county, but the plaintiffs allege there is no merchantable coal in any other counties except Allegany and Garrett counties and thus the act can only be applicable so far as Allegany county is concerned.

Complaints Answered

The attorney general in his answer states that this is immaterial to the proposition.

In other paragraphs of the bill of complaint the plaintiffs allege that the act delegates powers to the director of the Bureau of Mines which are unconstitutional.

The answer states that these paragraphs do not require an answer and that the state denies the conclusions of law drawn by the plaintiffs.

The section of the bill of complaint which alleges that the act purports to be a law exercising police power has no real or substantial relation to the public health, morals, safety or general welfare, is declared argumentative and requires no answer, according to Hammond's answer.

Hammond added that the state, however, most strenuously denies the conclusions of law set forth therein. The complainants also claimed that under the guise of generally improving the use and enjoyment of lands of the state, protecting bird and wildlife, decreasing soil erosion and aiding in the prevention of pollution of rivers and streams and preventing combustion of unmined coal, it is a palpable, clear and arbitrary invasion of the freedom of contract, the right to pursue a lawful calling, rights of property, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The state also denied this allegation.

The law requires back-filling of these cuts from November 10, 1947 thereafter.

Questions Relative To ERP Food To Be Discussed

"While ERP will not create any appreciable change in the food price situation here at home, there are still some important questions relative to ERP and food that call for careful consideration," said Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., upon return last week from a Western trip. Mr. Willis continued, "Under the program as it is now scheduled, shipments of food to Europe will be less in the next year than they have been in the past."

What will be shipped? How much will be raw materials and how much will be canned, packaged and processed foods? Answer to these questions are important to the American homemaker, who stands at one end of the long line of essential processes between food in the field and food on the table. At the other end stands the farmer who is growing the abundant crops that make ERP possible.

The people of many European countries are wearied of the monotony of the diets they have had in recent years. There has been little or no variety, so it seems that with ERP we have the opportunity to provide not only basic raw materials, but some of the processed foods that are nutritious, practical purchases for these countries and yet provide some variety in their diet. The result may mean not only better health, but better morale as well.

"I do not blame the people acting as purchasing agents for the hungry European countries for concentrating on large quantities of staples such as raw wheat. A selling job needs to be done to acquaint them with some of the fine quality of processed foods with which the American people are familiar, and which are equally important in their diets. Some of these are surplus in this country now—and we should share them with these European countries," said Mr. Willis.

Germans Have Vigilantes

STUTTGART, Germany — (AP) — The Germans have organized local vigilante committees to check up on hoarding and black marketing by merchants. "Honorary citizens commissions," they are called. They were created by the economics ministry of the German government of this American zone state of Wuerttemberg-Baden.

Their job is to discover, investigate and report merchants hoarding rationed goods or refusing to sell them without a bribe. U. S. military government officials hailed the vigilante plan and predicted it will help keep greedy merchants in line.

"Too often the bearers of purchase permits are unable to obtain goods unless they offer some other goods—particularly food—as a bribe to the retailer," said George L. Erion, military government economics director. "This will give the consumer a recourse against such practices."

Reds Find Whales Near Kuriles

MOSCOW—(AP)—"Izvestia" has reported the Russian whaling floatilla leaving Vladivostok to hunt whales in Far Eastern waters. Russians have discovered a whale fishery in the vicinity of the Kurile islands. Last year they killed 102 whales in those waters.

The Soviets have built a whale-treating factory in the Kuriles.

Scrambled Correspondents

BERLIN—(AP)—National line-ups sometimes run across sector boundaries in Berlin.

Polish correspondents live in the U. S. sector. It's a hangover from the first international trials at Neurnberg when the Americans billeted them. But their club is in the Soviet sector.

Belgian correspondents live in the French sector, while the British are hosts to the Dutch and Scandinavians. Chinese, Italian, South American and Indian correspondents live in the American sector.

The solitary Czech correspondent is billeted in the Soviet sector, but the Czech military mission is in the U. S. sector. The only Yugoslav lives with the Russians too.

Questions Relative To ERP Food To Be Discussed

"While ERP will not create any appreciable change in the food price situation here at home, there are still some important questions relative to ERP and food that call for careful consideration," said Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc., upon return last week from a Western trip. Mr. Willis continued, "Under the program as it is now scheduled, shipments of food to Europe will be less in the next year than they have been in the past."

What will be shipped? How much will be raw materials and how much will be canned, packaged and processed foods? Answer to these questions are important to the American homemaker, who stands at one end of the long line of essential processes between food in the field and food on the table. At the other end stands the farmer who is growing the abundant crops that make ERP possible.

The people of many European countries are wearied of the monotony of the diets they have had in recent years. There has been little or no variety, so it seems that with ERP we have the opportunity to provide not only basic raw materials, but some of the processed foods that are nutritious, practical purchases for these countries and yet provide some variety in their diet. The result may mean not only better health, but better morale as well.

"I do not blame the people acting as purchasing agents for the hungry European countries for concentrating on large quantities of staples such as raw wheat. A selling job needs to be done to acquaint them with some of the fine quality of processed foods with which the American people are familiar, and which are equally important in their diets. Some of these are surplus in this country now—and we should share them with these European countries," said Mr. Willis.

Germans Have Vigilantes

STUTTGART, Germany — (AP) — The Germans have organized local vigilante committees to check up on hoarding and black marketing by merchants. "Honorary citizens commissions," they are called. They were created by the economics ministry of the German government of this American zone state of Wuerttemberg-Baden.

Their job is to discover, investigate and report merchants hoarding rationed goods or refusing to sell them without a bribe. U. S. military government officials hailed the vigilante plan and predicted it will help keep greedy merchants in line.

"Too often the bearers of purchase permits are unable to obtain goods unless they offer some other goods—particularly food—as a bribe to the retailer," said George L. Erion, military government economics director. "This will give the consumer a recourse against such practices."

Advice To The Lovelorn

Promiscuous Kissing Cheapens Something That Should Be Kept On High Plane

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

On my desk at the moment are numerous letters from teen-agers asking questions about the propriety —or should we say the advisability? —of "necking" and kissing. There is great variety in these questions, which range all the way from asking merely whether necking is right or wrong, to wanting detailed information about how many kinds of kisses there are, what each one of them means, and which ones are permissible among teen-age boys and girls.

Now I know well that it is quite customary today for teen-agers to take kissing very casually. A great deal of this kissing means nothing at all, and does nobody any harm, if it is confined, say, to a brief good-night kiss when a boy leaves a girl at the door of her home after having taken her out for the evening.

Personally, however, I feel that it would be better if kissing were omitted altogether, and there are two reasons why I feel this way. One is because I think promiscuous kissing cheapens something that should be kept on a little more dignified plane. Once a girl has given a boy her first serious kisses, or vice versa, she has robbed herself of the thrill that should be reserved for the moment when a kiss takes on real significance.

Of course, many teen-agers who read this are going to want to tell me that they are really "in love" with the boys they kiss. But any who have been following this column for any length of time will be perfectly aware of my position on that point, which is that only in very rare cases does a teen-age romance have any relation whatever to mature love.

The second reason why I am against casual teen-age kissing is because it can so often carry the young people past the danger point. What may start out as a good-night kiss, intended for no more than that, has many a time ended far beyond where the boys and girls intended it to stop.

So I think that any girls who may be wondering about the business of kissing will be very wise if they keep their kisses until they are sure they mean what they want them to mean. In that way they will be sure to grow up without regrets.

It is undoubtedly true that, as many of my young correspondents tell me, some boys have no use for girls who refuse to let themselves be kissed. If she is attractive to look at—and any girl can be that with a little thought, even though she may not be as beautiful as she would like to be; if she cultivates a wide variety of interests so that she has something to talk about with any boy she meets, whatever his own interests may be; if she is good at sports and dancing and other activities that make up a teen-ager's life, and most of all, if she is fun to be with, so that everyone who comes in contact with her has a good time, she is never going to lack for boy friends even though she is not free with her kisses. Frankly, I believe that when girls and boys spend time "necking," it is because they have too few interests.

As for the questions about different kinds of kissing, this is something about which girls and boys should get information from their parents, or from some other older person in whom they can confide without self-consciousness. When questions about things like this come up in a young person's mind, they should certainly be answered; but it is more helpful to get those answers in a talk with the right person than by trying to find them independently in books, magazines, or newspapers. It is especially foolish to try to find the answers by experimentation.

So to all of the teen-agers who have been asking me questions of this type, my advice is: when in doubt, stick to what you believe is right, and talk it over with some adult you trust at the first opportunity.

German Teachers Study Spitball Techniques

MUNICH—(AP)—German teachers want more spitballs and less of the soldierly idea in classrooms. But that does not mean no spankings.

A project being paid for by the Military Government will involve 350 teachers who will rewrite school courses. Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner says it is the first step in a school reform. An effort will be made to introduce democratic ways.

Among the objectives are new courses in citizenship and social studies and plans for parent-eacher groups.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

This story is guaranteed to start your day off wrong. If I were you, I'd skit it and turn to the funnies.

I first met the late Fred Bissel twenty years ago. He was head box-office man at the theatre which housed one of my early schnitzels. During its brief run, I never once saw him crack a smile.

"What's eating Fred?" I asked his assistant one night.

"He's always been that way," the assistant said. "He's married to a dame who never stops talking and his only son is a bum."

A few years later, I produced a mixture of passion and pachyderms called "Jumbo." Fred Bissel was one of the men in the Hippodrome box-office. Shortly after the show opened, he asked me to give his son, Harry, a job.

"I hear he's bad stuff," I said.

"You haven't heard the half of it," said Fred. "If you don't watch him, he'll walk away with the theatre."

"That's quite a recommendation," I said. "If I hire him, will you keep an eye on him?"

"I'll try," said Bissel, "but it'll be like trying to keep an eye on a three-card monte dealer."

A month after I hired Harry, his father came to my office. 'I'm afraid you'll have to let him out," he said. "He's booking horses in the balcony, and having a thing with one of the lady acrobats."

I let Harry out pronto. From what I had heard around the theatre, it was only a matter of time before his thumbs would be objects d'art to every police photographer in the Union.

A few months ago, I read in Variety that Fred Bissel had died. Yesterday my switchboard operator told me his son was waiting to see me. I put my ring in my pocket and told her to send him down. Harry walked into my office wearing a suit with fifty man-hours of hand-stitching in the lapels alone.

"What can I do for you?" I asked.

"I'm opening a ticket agency," said Harry, "and I was wondering if you'd fix me up with some down-front locations in your theater."

"What makes you think you rate it?" I asked.

"I'm not saying I rate it," said Harry. "I only came around because I know you were fond of my father."

"Leave your dad out of it," I said. "As I remember it, he didn't have much use for you."

"That's what I thought," said Harry, "until the lawyer read his will."

"Give it to me in sequence," I said.

"After my father's funeral," said Harry, "the family gathered to hear the reading of the will. We knew Pop had something like seventy thousand saved up. Box-office men, you know, do pretty well for themselves when there's a hit in the theatre."

"I've heard about such things," I mused.

"It was quite a will," said Harry. "The first paragraph cut off my old lady without a penny. It explained that Pop had hated every minute of his married life—the bum meals, the nagging and the eternal giving-in.

"The second paragraph left every cent to me. All his life, Pop said, he wanted to do the things I'd been doing—dames, dice, horses and booze. Consequently he was leaving his dough to the one person who would blow it in like he had always dreamed of doing. He said he hoped I'd go on a ten-year toot, take out a different gal every night, and drop big bundles at the track. He said he expected me to wind up in the gutter, and regretted he couldn't be there with me."

"Nice third-act curtain," I said. "I didn't know your dad was that much of a showman. How much of the seventy grand have you got left?"

"Practically all of it," sighed Harry. "At first, I went nuts—bought a dozen suits ,a convertible, and called a lot of telephone numbers. Then got to thinking. I realized I wasn't a kid any more, and if I didn't watch out, I'd wind up like my old man said I would. That's why I've latched onto this ticket agency idea."

I walked over to the window and looked down on Sixth Avenue. "Poor Fred Bissel," I thought. "He couldn't even go on a tear by proxy."

A new trend in food retailing is that of packaging foods in individual servings. Canners have been supplying "just enough for two," but first in line for servings for one will be meats, cheese and soups.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

This story is guaranteed to start your day off wrong. If I were you, I'd skit it and turn to the funnies.

I first met the late Fred Bissel twenty years ago. He was head box-office man at the theatre which housed one of my early schnitzels. During its brief run, I never once saw him crack a smile.

"What's eating Fred?" I asked his assistant one night.

"He's always been that way," the assistant said. "He's married to a dame who never stops talking and his only son is a bum."

A few years later, I produced a mixture of passion and pachyderms called "Jumbo." Fred Bissel was one of the men in the Hippodrome box-office. Shortly after the show opened, he asked me to give his son, Harry, a job.

"I hear he's bad stuff," I said.

"You haven't heard the half of it," said Fred. "If you don't watch him, he'll walk away with the theatre."

"That's quite a recommendation," I said. "If I hire him, will you keep an eye on him?"

"I'll try," said Bissel, "but it'll be like trying to keep an eye on a three-card monte dealer."

A month after I hired Harry, his father came to my office. 'I'm afraid you'll have to let him out," he said. "He's booking horses in the balcony, and having a thing with one of the lady acrobats."

I let Harry out pronto. From what I had heard around the theatre, it was only a matter of time before his thumbs would be objects d'art to every police photographer in the Union.

A few months ago, I read in Variety that Fred Bissel had died. Yesterday my switchboard operator told me his son was waiting to see me. I put my ring in my pocket and told her to send him down. Harry walked into my office wearing a suit with fifty man-hours of hand-stitching in the lapels alone.

"What can I do for you?" I asked.

"I'm opening a ticket agency," said Harry, "and I was wondering if you'd fix me up with some down-front locations in your theater."

"What makes you think you rate it?" I asked.

"I'm not saying I rate it," said Harry, "I only came around because I know you were fond of my father."

"Leave your dad out of it," I said. "As I remember it, he didn't have much use for you."

"That's what I thought," said Harry, "until the lawyer read his will."

"Give it to me in sequence," I said.

"After my father's funeral," said Harry, "the family gathered to hear the reading of the will. We knew Pop had something like seventy thousand saved up. Box-office men, you know, do pretty well for themselves when there's a hit in the theatre."

"I've heard about such things," I mused.

"It was quite a will," said Harry. "The first paragraph cut off my old lady without a penny. It explained that Pop had hated every minute of his married life—the bum meals, the nagging and the eternal giving-in.

"The second paragraph left every cent to me. All his life, Pop said, he wanted to do the things I'd been doing—dames, dice, horses and booze. Consequently he was leaving his dough to the one person who would blow it in like he had always dreamed of doing. He said he hoped I'd go on a ten-year toot, take out a different gal every night, and drop big bundles at the track. He said he expected me to wind up in the gutter, and regretted he couldn't be there with me."

"Nice third-act curtain," I said. "I didn't know your dad was that much of a showman. How much of the seventy grand have you got left?"

"Practically all of it," sighed Harry. "At first, I went nuts—bought a dozen suits ,a convertible, and called a lot of telephone numbers. Then got to thinking. I realized I wasn't a kid any more, and if I didn't watch out, I'd wind up like my old man said I would. That's why I've latched onto this ticket agency idea."

I walked over to the window and looked down on Sixth Avenue. "Poor Fred Bissel," I thought. "He couldn't even go on a tear by proxy."

Gallup Poll

Public's Approval Seen For Defense Alliance With Western Europe

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 20—There is strong evidence that the American people are prepared to give military backing to the new movement toward unity among Western European nations.

A coast - to - coast poll by the Institute shows that more than six out of every ten American voters would approve a military alliance between their country and the sixteen nations participating in the Marshall Plan.

This will come as important news to European statesmen who have lead the burgeoning movement for a union of Western European powers in the face of Russian threats. To date it has been an open question whether public opinion in this country would support a pledge of American military assistance in case one of the European nations were attacked.

Nation-wide sentiment on this issue was tested in the following manner:

"Do you think the United States and all the Western European countries participating in the Marshall Plan should join together in a permanent military alliance—that is, agree to come to each other's defense immediately if any one of them is attacked?"

The answers:

| | |
|---|---|
| Military alliance | 65% |
| No military alliance | 21 |
| No opinion | 14 |

The idea of a close political and economic union of the countries of western Europe dates back many years, indeed many generations. In recent times Winston Churchill has often advocated a United States of Europe, a scheme which he reiterated this month at the Congress of Europe at the Hague.

Last year General de Gaulle of France proposed a military alliance among England, France and the United States, declaring that success of such a venture would depend on United States military support.

Several months later Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Minister, made his famous suggestion for a Western European Union, which bore fruit last March in the Brussels pact between England, and France and the so-called Benelux countries — Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Polls conducted by overseas affiliates of the Gallup Poll show widespread popular acceptance of the unity movement in Europe.

English voters who had heard of Mr. Bevin's proposal favor the union in the proportion of 11 to one, according to a survey conducted by the British Institute of Public Opinion. Similar polls by the Netherlands and French Institutes of Public Opinion showed Dutch voters approving the idea by more than three to one, and French voters by more than four to one.

What today's survey of American sentiment indicates is that people here will support even greater strides toward European consolidation than the union already established. Voters are interested in building a bulwark against further Soviet aggression.

Apparently the stronger that bulwark is, the better Americans like it. Approval of an alliance with sixteen European countries is more widespread than it is for the same kind of an alliance with just England and France. An Institute poll last February showed only 51 per cent voting for that proposal and even fewer approving a pact with either France or England alone.

Politically speaking, isolationism has disappeared as far as mutual treaties against aggression are concerned. The following table shows only slight differences of views between members of major parties:

| | Alliance | No Alliance | No Opin. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Republicans | 66% | 22% | 12% |
| Democrats | 68 | 16 | 16 |
| Independents | 57 | 29 | 14 |

In this case, as with other issues voter opinion is ahead of the leaders. Thus far, President Truman has merely voiced the "determination" of this country to help the "free countries of Europe to protect themselves." Subsequently, Secretary of State Marshall reported that the government is studying some form of military lend lease to the Western European Union of five countries.

Gallup Poll

Public's Approval Seen For Defense Alliance With Western Europe

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 20—There is strong evidence that the American people are prepared to give military backing to the new movement toward unity among Western European nations.

A coast - to - coast poll by the Institute shows that more than six out of every ten American voters would approve a military alliance between their country and the sixteen nations participating in the Marshall Plan.

This will come as important news to European statesmen who have lead the burgeoning movement for a union of Western European powers in the face of Russian threats. To date it has been an open question whether public opinion in this country would support a pledge of American military assistance in case one of the European nations were attacked.

Nation-wide sentiment on this issue was tested in the following manner:

"Do you think the United States and all the Western European countries participating in the Marshall Plan should join together in a permanent military alliance—that is, agree to come to each other's defense immediately if any one of them is attacked?"

The answers:

| | |
|---|---|
| Military alliance | 65% |
| No military alliance | 21 |
| No opinion | 14 |

The idea of a close political and economic union of the countries of western Europe dates back many years, indeed many generations. In recent times Winston Churchill has often advocated a United States of Europe, a scheme which he reiterated this month at the Congress of Europe at the Hague.

Last year General de Gaulle of France proposed a military alliance among England, France and the United States, declaring that success of such a venture would depend on United States military support.

Several months later Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Minister, made his famous suggestion for a Western European Union, which bore fruit last March in the Brussels pact between England, and France and the so-called Benelux countries — Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Polls conducted by overseas affiliates of the Gallup Poll show widespread popular acceptance of the unity movement in Europe.

English voters who had heard of Mr. Bevin's proposal favor the union in the proportion of 11 to one, according to a survey conducted by the British Institute of Public Opinion. Similar polls by the Netherlands and French Institutes of Public Opinion showed Dutch voters approving the idea by more than three to one, and French voters by more than four to one.

What today's survey of American sentiment indicates is that people here will support even greater strides toward European consolidation than the union already established. Voters are interested in building a bulwark against further Soviet aggression.

Apparently the stronger that bulwark is, the better Americans like it. Approval of an alliance with sixteen European countries is more widespread than it is for the same kind of an alliance with just England and France. An Institute poll last February showed only 51 per cent voting for that proposal and even fewer approving a pact with either France or England alone.

Politically speaking, isolationism has disappeared as far as mutual treaties against aggression are concerned. The following table shows only slight differences of views between members of major parties:

| | Alliance | No Alliance | No Opin. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Republicans | 66% | 22% | 12% |
| Democrats | 68 | 16 | 16 |
| Independents | 57 | 29 | 14 |

In this case, as with other issues voter opinion is ahead of the leaders. Thus far, President Truman has merely voiced the "determination" of this country to help the "free countries of Europe to protect themselves." Subsequently, Secretary of State Marshall reported that the government is studying some form of military lend lease to the Western European Union of five countries.

Jaycees Plan To Nominate New Officers Tonight

FROSTBURG — The Frostburg Chamber of Commerce will hold a special meeting Friday evening at 8 o'clock, in the social hall of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church to nominate officers to serve for the ensuing year and to discuss final plans for the "Miss Frostburg" contest.

The contest will be held under auspices of the Frostburg Jaycees to pick a candidate to compete for the title of "Miss Maryland" in a statewide contest August 2 at Fort Hill auditorium, Cumberland.

The only entrant announced so far in the "Miss Frostburg" contest is Miss Jane Bowen, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Deffenbaugh, Mt. Savage, and a member of the senior class of Frostburg State Teachers College. Miss Bowen, five feet, seven inches tall, has brown hair and blue-grey eyes.

A graduate of Beall High School, class of 1944, she attended Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia, before entering State Teacher's College. While a student at Beall High School she took part in the May Queen coronation exercises two years as attendant to the Queen.

FARRADY VAULT-- Shown above is the Farrady family vault in Allegany Cemetery, Frostburg The vault was erected in honor of John and Hugh Farrady, Frostburg brothers who were killed in World War I. Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, will hold its 25th annual Memorial Day service at the vault May 30.

Farrady Post Plans Memorial Day Services At Frostburg Cemeteries

FROSTBURG—Th 25th annual Memorial Day service of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion will be held at the Farrady Vault in Allegany Cemetery Sunday, May 30, at 3 p. m., with John Robb, Cumberland attorney and a veteran of World War II, as the principal speaker and Ralph M. Race, Navy veteran of World War II, as master of ceremonies. The invocation will be offered by Rev. John Cameron Taylor, pastor of First Presbyterian and the benediction by Rev. Walter D. Mehrling, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church and the chaplain of Farrady Pose. Joseph Evans will read Lincoln's Gettysburg address and sacred music will be given by the Arion Band and The Maryland Folk Singers of Frostburg State Teachers College, under the direction of Prof. Maurice Matteson.

In addition to the service in Allegany Cemetery, the firing squad and honor guard, together with the post chaplain and buglers, will visit all local cemeteries and hold brief services. There will also be a brief service at 2 p. m. in front of the honor roll at the corner of West Main and Water Streets, which will be attended by the drum and bugle corps of Farrady Post. Speakers for this service will be announced later.

The committee in charge of the services includes Earl Miller, chairman; J. Olin Spiker, Alfred Drew, Charles Merbaugh, Charles Cole, Paul Layman, Ralph M. Race, Roy Shriner, Hugh Watson, Thomas LaVelle and William Festerman. This committee is urging the lot owners of Allegany Cemetery as well as all lot owners to have the highways and lots of the cemetery in good condition with all rubbish removed from the property for the Memorial Day services.

Since the passing of the last members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who held Memorial Services in Allegany Cemetery from 1865 to 1919, the work of honoring the war dead of this community was taken up by the Veterans of World War I of the local American Legion post. The services in Allegany Cemetery have since 1920 been held at the vault constructed for the repose of the bodies of two brothers, John and Hugh Farrady, who were killed in battle in France and in whose honor the Frostburg Legion post was named. The vault was built by their parents.

John Farrady, born in Frostburg February 12, 1887, was killed in the Meuse-Argonne Forest, France, October 15, 1918, while serving as a private with Company C., 168th Infantry of the famous Rainbow Division. His brother, Hugh, who was born in Frostburg August 1, 1889, was killed in action in the Second Battle of the Marne in France July 22, 1918, while serving as a private in Company D, 38th Division of the third Division, U. S. Regulars. The bodies were returned to this country and laid to rest in the Farrady Vault October 15, 1919.

The bodies of their father, John Farrady, Sr., who died December 10, 1935 and their mother, who died October 25, 1943, were also placed in the vault.

Emery Drivers Continue Strike After Meeting

Union Says Company Would Fire 3 Men

A strike of Emery Motor Coach Lines employes which began over six disputed issues and was continued over the company's threat to discharge three union members entered its 17th day following a meeting of the employes last night which ended without action, union officials said.

John M. Elliott, international union representative, called here on the seventh day of the strike to negotiate with the company, said yesterday that on the second day of his visit, the six disputed issues which apparently caused the strike were settled.

However, Elliott said R. L. Emery, company president, informed the union after the dispute was settled that he would permit all of the employes to return to work "with the exception of three."

The three over whom the dispute now continues, Elliott said, are Willis Sams, Bernard Michaels and Theodore Hill. He added that he could not sanction the return of the men with these three being discharged.

Arbitration Suggested

At last night's meeting, held in Allegany Trades Council Hall, Edward H. McKee, one of the drivers and a member of the union, requested that the dispute over the trio be submitted to arbitration, if Emery would agree.

Elliott, who presided at the meeting, informed the union member that such a motion would have to be made at a full meeting of Local 110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL, which also includes drivers on the Potomac Edison Company line.

Elliott pointed out to McKee that the regular meeting of the union local will not be held until the first Monday in June and said that to hurry the action, McKee could contact the president and request a special meeting.

McKee withdrew his motion, but the meeting ended without McKee indicating if he would petition the president for a special meeting, Elliott said.

Six Disputed Points

The disputed points which the union says set off the strike early May 5 were listed as follows:

1—Refusal of the company to permit one of the drivers on the local line to qualify on charter bus runs.

2—Company action in bringing a driver from the Martinsburg, W. Va., division of the company here to operate a chartered bus.

3—Company demands that drivers check oil, water, tire pressure and gasoline. The union maintains that such work should be done by the maintenance department.

4—A 62-cent hourly rate being paid one of the maintenance department employes when the contract calls for $1.10 an hour.

5—The suspension of one of the drivers for three days, a month after an accident occurred and was reported.

6—Refusal of the company to arbitrate with union representatives the disputed points.

Elliott said that agreement was reached on the above disputes but Emery insisted that the trio be discharged. The international union representative said Emery blamed the strike on Sams and insisted that he would not take the three back.

Emery could not be contacted for comment.

Organized Labor

about these situations, just as everyone else has, but after what I have seen, I tell you all publicly that my voice shall be raised in protest until something is done. These conditions must be made known to every man and woman in Allegany County, and I intend to keep shouting until some one listens."

All Unions Represented

W. J. Jones, representing the Boilermakers, urged united action on all organized labor toward a complete revamping of the whole relief set up. Richard C. Simmons, Laborers Local No. 616 AFL, said his organization will support any united action for more funds and better management of the relief set-up.

George Lucas, president of the Building Trades, A. E. Johnson, president of the Rubber Workers, J. T. Defibaugh, business agent for Retail Clerks Union, AFL, were among those who spoke for more state relief funds and for revision of the law.

The Brewery Workers, Cleanese Textile Union, Bus Drivers, and several other labor organizations were represented, and all pledged their interest and support.

Mrs. Eleanor Westerfield, executive secretary of the Allegany County Welfare Board here, explained the amounts available to aged people on relief under present appropriations. She declared she is aware her department and workers are criticized and that mistakes are sometimes made, but the greatest problem is to get more funds from the legislature and to amend the relief laws to make them more workable.

Will Go To Annapolis

It was finally agreed by labor leaders present that several of them will go to Annapolis on May 25, when the special session of the Legislature is to be held, and make known the true conditions of reliefers in this county. It was also agreed that advance work would be undertaken so far as possible, in contacting individual legislators and outlining the needs here.

Several of the labor leaders present assured Brant and his committee that "labor will carry the ball" at Annapolis, and if the job isn't done then, organized labor in Allegany County will continue to work for legislation which will give the aged of the county a decent living.

Telephone Employe Entertains Students

Graham B. Callahan, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, Washington, D. C., gave a demonstration and talk on the phenomena and use of ultra high frequency radio waves at a student assembly in Fort Hill High School yesterday.

The discussion dealt with microwave electronics, and Callahan demonstrated how very short radio waves, which travel in a beam-like light, can be twisted, reflected and curved.

Using a small transmitter, Callahan sent out a wave with a frequency of 10 billion cycles per second which have a wave length of about 1¼ inches. The wave will easily pass through a thick telephone directory, Callahan said, but demonstrated how it can be stopped by a thin piece of metal.

Microwaves were first used in radar, Callahan said, but he explained how they are now being used to transmit telephone messages and radio and television broadcasts.

Victor D. Heisey, principal, introduced Howard M. Smith, manager of the local exchange, who in turn presented Callahan.

Army Center Here Notes Enlistments

Capt. Laurence Bairstow in charge of the Army Recruiting Center of the Baltimore area announced yesterday that five new enlistments were approved during the 24-hour period.

The men enlisted were: Francis W. Smith, Kirby, W. Va.; Lawrence D. Cummings and Glenn A. Rinker, both of Kitzmiller; Everett M. Grimm, Jr., Oldtown, and William A. Lewis, Springfield, W. # Fire Damages Stock Of Gasoline Station

Approximately $100 worth of damage resulted late last night when fire broke out in the office of a service station at the corner of Henderson Avenue and Charles Street.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started on some shelving about 10 inches above the floor of the office. The building itself was not damaged. Firemen were unable to determine the cause of the blaze. Central and East Side Fire Companies answered the blaze at 11:30 p. m.

One Kennedy Brother Released From Jail

James Kennedy, Corriganville, was released last night from the City Jail after questioning. Kennedy, together with another brother, was apprehended earlier in the week when they had stolen license plates in their possession, police said. The other brother, Donald Kennedy, was taken to the County Jail on Tuesday.

Traffic Marooned By Bridge Mishap

LONACONING — Vehicles were marooned on the Island in Lonaconing Wednesday when a truck blocked the only highway bridge from the Island section to the town.

The bridge was broken down and the truck toppled sideways into the small creek Wednesday afternoon.

Two Receive $10 Fines In Court

Frank Metz, 404 Goethe Street, was fined $10 yesterday afternoon in Police Court on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. Jack Stanley Brant, 306 Laing Avenue, was fined $10 and costs for parking without lights, and Jack Jones, Detroit, paid the same amount for driving with defective brakes.

Fast Side Firemen Summoned To Blaze

East Side firemen were called to the R. Brotemarkel residence, 509 Dilley Street, last night to extinguish a blaze which started from smouldering rags. The fire marred the wall, but little or no more damage was believed caused.

Mrs. Wall will leave here this morning to attend the funeral.

JOHN CRABTREE

John Crabtree, 71, a native of Oldtown, died late Wednesday night at his home, 43 Offutt Street.

Mr. Crabtree was a son of the late Joseph and Lydia Moreland Crabtree. His widow, the former Miss Tracie Thomas, preceded him in death.

Surviving are three sons, Irvin, Stanley and Eugene Crabtree, and a daughter, Mrs. Clementine Whalley, all of this city; two brothers, Dennis Crabtree, Oldtown, and Elwood Crabtree, Oldtown Road; two sisters, Mrs. Orlena Taylor, Oldtown, and Mrs. Susan Edwards, this city, and five grandchildren.

Civic Group

ernal groups. A membership of 21 has been tentatively suggested in case the suggestion meets wide approval, he added.

Will Tour Route 40

A committee composed of Benjamin M. Kamens, Byron Kight, of the Junior Association of Commerce; Ralph Race, Frostburg; C. A. Cohill, Jr., Hancock; James R. Kendall, assistant secretary of the C. of C., and G. Bates Chaires, representing the State Roads Commission, has been named to assist in the project of protecting points of interest on the highways of this area.

The date of June 9 has been tentatively set for the group to make a tour of Route 40 from Hancock to Frostburg to recommend areas which should be protected against structures or obstructions which would mar the beauty of the highway.

The directors also passed a resolution of respect upon the death of Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, who for many years was one of the few women in Cumberland who maintained a membership in the Chamber. The resolution recognized Mrs. Henderson as one of the most outstanding women in the community.

Annual Meeting Planned

Directors of the Chamber will be elected at the annual meeting to be held July 27. Annual reports of all committee activities will be presented at that meeting, Smith said.

Charles F. Helmrich, chairman of the membership committee, announced the annual membership campaign will open about the first of June.

The Mercantile Bureau reported that polls in the election of directors of the Bureau will close Monday and that voting has been heavy.

The directors also unanimously approved the recommendation by the City Planning Commission for a complete survey of traffic by the State Roads Commission as a basis for improvements in traffic handling here.

Old Recreation

Mrs. Harry S. Anderson, who has been nominated by the Park Board as playground supervisor for the coming season, was introduced to the group.

Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B.P.O. Elks, became the 19th member organization when it was admitted to the group last night.

The next meeting of the association will be held June 3.

Ranking Party

Since during his tenure as State Central Committee head he worked for the New York Governor, his successor was asked if "that policy would continue."

Begins After Convention

Hoff replied that "I am not working for an individual candidate before the convention. That work will begin after the National Convention."

The other key state party post to change hands was that of National Committee Woman. Miss Bertha Adkins, Salisbury, member of a prominent Republican family on the Eastern Shore, was named to succeed Mrs. Lula Powell of Baltimore.

An undercurrent of disappointment regarding Mrs. Powell's elimination was noticed among some delegates, but it did not reach open discussion.

Just before the convention was ready to adjourn around 4:30 p. m. a woman seated on the galleries of the crowded convention room sharply pointed out that Mrs. Powell had not been introduced at all to the delegates.

Judge D. Lindley Sloan, Cumberland elected permanent chairman of the convention, hastily rectified the omission. There was scattered applause.

Miss Adkins, 42, who has a Masters Degree from Columbia University's Teachers College, has never before held a political post, she said.

She said she had been away from home for 12 years before 1942, on the staff of Western Maryland College and at Bradford College in Massachusetts.

Felt Recognition Due

Her election, she added, came because the first district, which for the first time in many years has a Republican Congressman, felt entitled to "some recognition" in party affairs.

The National Delegates were selected in district caucuses before the convention opened formally at about one p. m. There were two from each district. There were also eight Delegates at Large, among them former Baltimore Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin.

Under this setup, the Delegates at large would each have a half-vote at the National Convention. There are eight alternates for them.

The major address was delivered in the afternoon by House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass) who said, the Republicans have stopped the "trend in government toward centralization with regimentation and controls over business."

The "current" toward "efficiency, economy, and solvency in government" initiated by the GOP-controlled Congress, Martin said, "will move faster after next January, when a Republican President goes into the White House to cooperate with a Republican Congress."

Martin was introduced by Judge Sloan, who said the Republican Congress had followed and would follow "the clear mandate of the people." It had done so with respect to tax relief even though "the man in the White House had made a fool of himself by saying twice, you can't have it."

This was in reference to President Truman's two vetoes of Republican-sponsored tax reduction measures. The cut finally became law over Mr. Truman's veto.

Sloan emphasized that his address could not be regarded as a keynote speech, that this would be done by the party leaders at the National conclave.

Talks For MacArthur

In an impromptu speech received largely in silence, Baltimore Attorney William F. Broening, Jr., delivered an oration in praise of General Douglas MacArthur and pleaded that the general's presidential aspirations should be "considered" at the convention in Philadelphia.

Sloan hastily commented after the speech — apparently the only unscheduled occurrence at the session —that since the Maryland delegation was uninstructed the remarks must be as "personal."

It was the only stirring from MacArthur supporters in the GOP camp. They earlier had claimed that they had been "steamrollered" during a third-district caucus meeting which had been held without their six delegates.

Their threats to protest the matter on the floor were not carried out, however.

Paul M. Fletcher, Cumberland, assistant state's attorney and Allegany County Republican chairman, who is vice chairman of the State Central Committee, presided at the committee meeting after Tait's resignation and until his successor was chosen. Other Allegany county delegates at the convention were Robert (Lefty) Grove, Lonaconing; William Steward, Frostburg; Tally Hanna, Westernport; Victor M. Hebb, C. E. Stutzman and John L. Estes, all of Cumberland.

Commerce Group Favors Fund To Draw Industries

Unanimous approval of a proposal of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz calling upon the Mayor and Council to appropriate a fund to be used to encourage new industries to locate in Cumberland was voted last night by the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Harold W. Smith, secretary, said the directors termed the problem of attracting new industries to Cumberland a "community project" and indicated hearty approval of the suggestion.

Buchholtz said he plans to suggest that a sum he set roughly at $10,000 be used for such purposes as publicity, and travel expense in the event out-of-town firms wished to send representatives to survey Cumberland as a possible location for their industries.

For many years, the Chamber of Commerce has taken the lead in attempting to attract new industries to the Cumberland area. Members, however, feel the Chamber of Commerce cannot continue to assume the full responsibility but that such promotion should have a community-wide basis.

The co-operation of the Mayor and Council, labor leaders, business and professional groups, the Chamber of Commerce and the rank and file of the citizens is needed before such a program can be successful, it was pointed out.

Emery Drivers Continue Strike After Meeting

Union Says Company Would Fire 3 Men

A strike of Emery Motor Coach Lines employes which began over six disputed issues and was continued over the company's threat to discharge three union members entered its 17th day following a meeting of the employes last night which ended without action, union officials said.

John M. Elliott, international union representative, called here on the seventh day of the strike to negotiate with the company, said yesterday that on the second day of his visit, the six disputed issues which apparently caused the strike were settled.

However, Elliott said R. L. Emery, company president, informed the union after the dispute was settled that he would permit all of the employes to return to work "with the exception of three."

The three over whom the dispute now continues, Elliott said, are Willis Sams, Bernard Michaels and Theodore Hill. He added that he could not sanction the return of the men with these three being discharged.

Arbitration Suggested

At last night's meeting, held in Allegany Trades Council Hall, Edward H. McKee, one of the drivers and a member of the union, requested that the dispute over the trio be submitted to arbitration, if Emery would agree.

Elliott, who presided at the meeting, informed the union member that such a motion would have to be made at a full meeting of Local 110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL, which also includes drivers on the Potomac Edison Company line.

Elliott pointed out to McKee that the regular meeting of the union local will not be held until the first Monday in June and said that to hurry the action, McKee could contact the president and request a special meeting.

McKee withdrew his motion, but the meeting ended without McKee indicating if he would petition the president for a special meeting, Elliott said.

Six Disputed Points

The disputed points which the union says set off the strike early May 5 were listed as follows:

1—Refusal of the company to permit one of the drivers on the local line to qualify on charter bus runs.

2—Company action in bringing a driver from the Martinsburg, W. Va., division of the company here to operate a chartered bus.

3—Company demands that drivers check oil, water, tire pressure and gasoline. The union maintains that such work should be done by the maintenance department.

4—A 62-cent hourly rate being paid one of the maintenance department employes when the contract calls for $1.10 an hour.

5—The suspension of one of the drivers for three days, a month after an accident occurred and was reported.

6—Refusal of the company to arbitrate with union representatives the disputed points.

Elliott said that agreement was reached on the above disputes but Emery insisted that the trio be discharged. The international union representative said Emery blamed the strike on Sams and insisted that he would not take the three back.

Emery could not be contacted for comment.

Organized Labor

about these situations, just as everyone else has, but after what I have seen, I tell you all publicly that my voice shall be raised in protest until something is done. These conditions must be made known to every man and woman in Allegany County, and I intend to keep shouting until some one listens."

All Unions Represented

W. J. Jones, representing the Boilermakers, urged united action on all organized labor toward a complete revamping of the whole relief set up. Richard C. Simmons, Laborers Local No. 616 AFL, said his organization will support any united action for more funds and better management of the relief set-up.

George Lucas, president of the Building Trades, A. E. Johnson, president of the Rubber Workers, J. T. Delibaugh, business agent for Retail Clerks Union, AFL, were among those who spoke for more state relief funds and for revision of the law.

The Brewery Workers, Cleanese Textile Union, Bus Drivers, and several other labor organizations were represented, and all pledged their interest and support.

Mrs. Eleanor Westerfeld, executive secretary of the Allegany County Welfare Board here, explained the amounts available to aged people on relief under present appropriations. She declared she is aware her department and workers are criticized and that mistakes are sometimes made, but the greatest problem is to get more funds from the legislature and to amend the relief laws to make them more workable.

Will Go To Annapolis

It was finally agreed by labor leaders present that several of them will go to Annapolis on May 25, when the special session of the Legislature is to be held, and make known the true conditions of reliefers in this county. It was also agreed that advance work would be undertaken so far as possible, in contacting individual legislators and outlining the needs here.

Several of the labor leaders present assured Brant and his committee that "labor will carry the ball" at Annapolis, and if the job isn't done then, organized labor in Allegany County will continue to work for legislation which will give the aged of the county a decent living.

Telephone Employe Entertains Students

Graham B. Callahan, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, Washington, D. C., gave a demonstration and talk on the phenomena and use of ultra high frequency radio waves at a student assembly in Fort Hill High School yesterday.

The discussion dealt with microwave electronics, and Callahan demonstrated how very short radio waves, which travel in a beam-like light, can be twisted, reflected and curved.

Using a small transmitter, Callahan sent out a wave with a frequency of 10 billion cycles per second which have a wave length of about 1¼ inches. The wave will easily pass through a thick telephone directory, Callahan said, but demonstrated how it can be stopped by a thin piece of metal.

Microwaves were first used in radar, Callahan said, but he explained how they are now being used to transmit telephone messages and radio and television broadcasts.

Victor D. Heisey, principal, introduced Howard M. Smith, manager of the local exchange, who in turn presented Callahan.

The date of June 9 has been tentatively set for the group to make a tour of Route 40 from Hancock to Frostburg to recommend areas which should be protected against structures or obstructions which would mar the beauty of the highway.

The next meeting of the association will be held June 3.

Ranking Party

Since during his tenure as State Central Committee head he worked for the New York Governor, his successor was asked if "that policy would continue."

Begins After Convention

Hoff replied that "I am not working for an individual candidate before the convention. That work will begin after the National Convention."

The other key state party post to change hands was that of National Committee Woman. Miss Bertha Adkins, Salisbury, member of a prominent Republican family on the Eastern Shore, was named to succeed Mrs. Lula Powell of Baltimore.

An undercurrent of disappointment regarding Mrs. Powell's elimination was noticed among some delegates, but it did not reach open discussion.

Just before the convention was ready to adjourn around 4:30 p. m. a woman seated on the galleries of the crowded convention room sharply pointed out that Mrs. Powell had not been introduced at all to the delegates.

Judge D. Lindley Sloan, Cumberland elected permanent chairman of the convention, hastily rectified the omission. There was scattered applause.

Miss Adkins, 42, who has a Masters Degree from Columbia University's Teachers College, has never before held a political post, she said.

She said she had been away from home for 12 years before 1942, on the staff of Western Maryland College and at Bradford College in Massachusetts.

Felt Recognition Due

Her election, she added, came because the first district, which for the first time in many years has a Republican Congressman, felt entitled to "some recognition" in party affairs.

The National Delegates were selected in district caucuses before the convention opened formally at about one p. m. There were two from each district. There were also eight Delegates at Large, among them former Baltimore Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin.

Under this setup, the Delegates at large would each have a half-vote at the National Convention. There are eight alternates for them.

The major address was delivered in the afternoon by House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass) who said, the Republicans have stopped the "trend in government toward centralization with regimentation and controls over business."

The "current" toward "efficiency, economy, and solvency in government" initiated by the GOP-controlled Congress, Martin said, "will move faster after next January, when a Republican President goes into the White House to cooperate with a Republican Congress."

Martin was introduced by Judge Sloan, who said the Republican Congress had followed and would follow "the clear mandate of the people." It had done so with respect to tax relief even though "the man in the White House had made a fool of himself by saying twice, you can't have it."

This was in reference to President Truman's two vetoes of Republican-sponsored tax reduction measures. The cut finally became law over Mr. Truman's veto.

Sloan emphasized that his address could not be regarded as a keynote speech, that this would be done by the party leaders at the National conclave.

Talks For MacArthur

In an impromptu speech received largely in silence, Baltimore Attorney William F. Broening, Jr., delivered an oration in praise of General Douglas MacArthur and pleaded that the general's presidential aspirations should be "considered" at the convention in Philadelphia.

Sloan hastily commented after the speech — apparently the only unscheduled occurrence at the session —that since the Maryland delegation was uninstructed the remarks must be as "personal."

It was the only stirring from MacArthur supporters in the GOP camp. They earlier had claimed that they had been "steamrollered" during a third-district caucus meeting which had been held without their six delegates.

Their threats to protest the matter on the floor were not carried out, however.

Paul M. Fletcher, Cumberland, assistant state's attorney and Allegany County Republican chairman, who is vice chairman of the State Central Committee, presided at the committee meeting after Tait's resignation and until his successor was chosen. Other Allegany county delegates at the convention were Robert (Lefty) Grove, Lonaconing; William Steward, Frostburg; Tally Hanna, Westernport; Victor M. Hebb, C. E. Stutzman and John L. Estes, all of Cumberland.

Commerce Group Favors Fund To Draw Industries

Unanimous approval of a proposal of Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz calling upon the Mayor and Council to appropriate a fund to be used to encourage new industries to locate in Cumberland was voted last night by the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Harold W. Smith, secretary, said the directors termed the problem of attracting new industries to Cumberland a "community project" and indicated hearty approval of the suggestion.

Buchholtz said he plans to suggest that a sum be set roughly at $10,000 be used for such purposes as publicity, and travel expense in the event out-of-town firms wished to send representatives to survey Cumberland as a possible location for their industries.

For many years, the Chamber of Commerce has taken the lead in attempting to attract new industries to the Cumberland area. Members, however, feel the Chamber of Commerce cannot continue to assume the full responsibility but that such promotion should have a community-wide basis.

The co-operation of the Mayor and Council, labor leaders, business and professional groups, the Chamber of Commerce and the rank and file of the citizens is needed before such a program can be successful, it was pointed out.

Paddleford Heads Reserve Officers

Meats-In-A-Can Star In Many Dishes

When you're planning the meat course do you take into consideration all the canned meat choices waiting to simplify your shopping and home cooking jobs. With over 30 kinds of standard canned meats available . . . making use of all varieties of meats, a host of spices and different processing formulas . . . you'll find a product for every meat need.

Most homemakers are familiar with one or two canned meat products . . . probably luncheon loaves or corned beef hash. But there are such delicacies as canned ham, corned beef, chili con carne, Vienna sausage, deviled meats, sliced dried beef, frankfurters, tongue, liver products, braised meats, stews, or meat and spaghetti.

All of these meats passed rugged tests before they came to your grocer's shelves. Every product was first developed in a laboratory to establish the formula, the method of packing and processing and keeping quality. The United States Department of Agriculture also had to give its approval to the product. Even when production gets under way, constant supervision and control is given in the plants to maintain high stadards of quality. Every can of meat that goes into interstate commerce bears the government stamp of approval, "United States Inspected and Passed by the Department of Agriculture."

These quality products have the same complete protein, the same B vitamins and essential minerals of home prepared meats.

You'll find canned meats ready to be called on for every meal. They may be served cold in appetizers, in sandwiches, salads, or in cold meat platters. They may be served hot with a variety of foods in prepared casseroles or served "as is" baked, fried or broiled. Luncheon loaf is excellent diced and added to scalloped potatoes or macaroni au gratin . . . or ground and used as a stuffing for green peppers. Tongue may be cut in narrow strips and added to tossed vegetable salads, or served hot with a mushroom sauce. Potted or deviled meats vary the fillings for sandwiches or hot patties. Meat stews take a new look when heated in a casserole and then topped with baking powder biscuit dough and baked in a hot oven.

For a special main dish treat try corned beef hash patties. Here's the recipe:

Corned Beef Hash Patties

2 tablespoons fat
½ cup thinly sliced onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 No. 2 can peas
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 can corned beef hash

Melt 1 tablespoon fat in sauce pan; brown onions lightly. Sprinkle flour over onions and combine thoroughly. Drain liquid from peas; combine with milk. Add salt and milk-pea liquid to onions and flour. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce has thickened. Add 1 cup peas, stirring gently. Open can of hash at both ends. Push hash out on a board. Slice in four portions. Brown in remaining 1 tablespoon fat in a frying pan. Serve corned beef patties with pea sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Synthetic Vitamin A

NEW YORK (AP) — Man has learned to make vitamin A synthetically, instead of getting it from fish liver oil. Each of three manufacturers has a different process. Vitamin A is essential for growth and good vision, and is an aid in protecting humans against various diseases, including the common cold. Some phyicians prescribe huge doses of the vitamin at the first sign of a cold—up to 200,000 units the first day, and half that amount the following day.

One of the greatest benefits from cheap, abundant vitamin A may be in world health, particularly for populations in the tropics or Far East. Deficiency of vitamin A is more common among such populations.

DiMaggio Stars As Yanks Wallop White Sox, 13-2

Joe Hits Two Homers, Triple, Double, Single

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP)—Jolting Joe DiMaggio had a field day today as the New York Yankees plowed under the Chicago White Sox, 13-2.

The Yankee Clipper led his mates to their lopsided triumph by bashing home six runs on two homers, a triple, double and a single in six trips to the plate against five Chicago pitchers.

DiMaggio began clouting in the first inning when he slammed a three-run homer off starter Orval Grove. He cracked his second homer in the fifth with the sacks empty and whacked a two-run triple to highlight a four-run sixth inning rally. He doubled in the ninth after Johnny Lindell's two-run four-bagger. He was held to a single in the third and flew deep to left in the eighth.

All told, the Yanks collected 22 hits while the Sox were held to seven by righthander Vic Raschi, who collected his third win. Box:

Cardinals Trim Brooklyn, 13-4

Musial Belts Homer, Two Doubles, Single

BROOKLYN, May 20. (AP)—Stan Musial continued to pickle Brooklyn pitching today as the St. Louis Cardinals romped to a 13-4 victory over the Dodgers.

Stan Musial

Musial, who banged out five hits Wednesday night against the Brooks, collected four today — a homer, two doubles and a single — as the Red Birds rapped three Dodgers pitchers for 14 bingles.

The win was the league-leading Cardinals' sixth straight and their fourth in as many meetings over the Dodgers.

For four innings the game was a pitcher's duel between Howie Pollet of the Cards and Joe Hatten of the Dodgers. Then in the fifth, with the score tied at 1-1, the Cards jumped on Hatten for six runs.

The big blow of the uprising was catcher Del Rice's double with the bases loaded that cleared the sacks. The Cards added three more off Casey in the sixth and another in the seventh when Musial homered over the rightfield screen. The Cards picked up two more in the ninth on two singles, a walk and fly out. Box:

DAVIS' HOME RUN ENABLES CRUSADERS TO DEFEAT AMVETS

Russell Davis' home run with two aboard in the 7th inning enabled Joe's Crusaders to come from behind and defeat the Amvets yesterday by the score of 4-2 in a City Softball League game at Community Park.

Willis drew a pass to open the final inning. Banks bunted and both runners were safe on a bad throw to second. Then Davis teed off on one of Whiteman's pitches, driving the ball to deep left for a circuit clout.

Both of the runs made by the Amvets were homers by Danny Drew. Doyle George also rapped out two hits for the losers.

Carter Banks and Whiteman each yielded five hits. The victory gave the Crusaders a record of three wins and three losses. The defeat was the second for the Amvets who have won five games. Score:

Moose Will Drill

A practice session will be held by the Loyal Order of Moose team of the Interstate Baseball League Saturday at 10 a. m. at Stitcher Field.

LONG DISALLOWS MOOSE PROTEST

President John J. Long of the Interstate Baseball League last night disallowed the recent protest filed by the Loyal Order of Moose in its twilight game with Fort Cumberland Post No 13, American Legion.

The Moose team contended that the game was scheduled for 4:30 and did not get under way until 5:30 because the Legion was unable to field a team until the latter hour.

An umpire, however, testified that the Moose team had only eight players in uniform at 4:30 and therefore couldn't field a full team.

Nine innings were played despite the late start and the Legion team won by the decisive score of 12-2.

Long announced his decision in letters to the managers of both teams.

Skip Alexander Leads Qualifiers In PGA Tourney

Ties Record With 134, Matches Start Today

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

ST LOUIS, May 20 (AP) — Big Stewart (Skip) Alexander, playing in his first Professional Golfers Association championship, won the qualifying medal today with a record-equalling 36-hole score of 134.

The 29-year-old husky from Lexington, N. C., shattered par by seven strokes as he compiled an amazing 64, lowest score of the tournament, and a record for the Norwood Hills Countys Club course, to go with his opening round of 70.

The two-round feat equalled the PGA qualifying record which Jim Ferrier set at Portland, Ore., in 1946. It also put the bespectacled North Carolinian one stroke ahead of Toney Penna, the Cincinnati veteran, who had a 65.

Right behind Penna, slamming Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Jimmy Demaret, the gaudily-garbed Ojai, Calif., crooner, tied for third place at 136. Each had a pair of 68's over the rolling, 6,467-yard par 71 course.

The first-day leaders, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., who had 66's yesterday, failed to maintain the hot pace.

Ferrier, the defending champion, qualified automatically for match play and didn't even go out today. Two 18 - hole rounds begin the match phase of the tournament tomorrow. The remaining matches will be at 36 holes.

In all, 15 players out of the original field of 135 bettered par for the two rounds and two others equalled the 142 figure.

Stanley Scores At Charles Town

Mr. X Wagers $5,000 On Winner To Show

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 20. (AP)—E. P. Price's Stanley defeated seven other sprinters to win the General Charles R. Fox Purse, feature of today's card at the Charles Town Race Track.

Stanley, a five year old claimed from H. R. Cohen for $7,500 during the recent Pimlico meeting, was clocked in 1:16 1-5 for the six furlongs plus 120 feet distance.

The Virginia-owned horse crossed the finish lines five lengths ahead of Casset. Gay Wildy was third.

The Mysterious "Mr. X," who has been betting large amounts on favorites to run third during the meeting, dropped in $5,000 on Stanley to show. The across-the-board prices on the winner were $2.60, $2.80 and $2.20.

Track officials said it was only because Casset and Gay Wildy were long shots that the track escaped a minus pool.

The daily double of Polly's Pet and Teddy Smart, winners of the first and second races, respectively, paid $65 for $2.

Frostburg And Amvets Play Saturday At 4:30

DiMaggio Stars As Yanks Wallop White Sox, 13-2

Joe Hits Two Homers, Triple, Double, Single

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP)—Jolting Joe DiMaggio had a field day today as the New York Yankees plowed under the Chicago White Sox, 13-2.

The Yankee Clipper led his mates to their lopsided triumph by bashing home six runs on two homers, a triple, double and a single in six trips to the plate against five Chicago pitchers.

DiMaggio began clouting in the first inning when he slammed a three-run homer off starter Orval Grove. He cracked his second homer in the fifth with the sacks empty and whacked a two-run triple to highlight a four-run sixth inning rally. He doubled in the ninth after Johnny Lindell's two-run four-bagger. He was held to a single in the third and flew deep to left in the eighth.

All told, the Yanks collected 22 hits while the Sox were held to seven by righthander Vic Raschi, who collected his third win. Box:

COLLISION AIDS CUBS

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (INS) —The Chicago Cubs defeated the Phillies 5 to 3 today thanks to a first-inning collision which gave the Cubs three runs.

When Bill Nicholson lifted a short fly to left in the first frame with two runners on base, Eddie Miller and Johnny Blatnik ran into each other while chasing the ball.

Nicholson got a freak triple out of it, and before the inning was over, the Cubs had three runs and enough to give them the margin of triumph. Box:

Cardinals Trim Brooklyn, 13-4

Musial Belts Homer, Two Doubles, Single

BROOKLYN, May 20. (AP)—Stan Musial continued to pickle Brooklyn pitching today as the St. Louis Cardinals romped to a 13-4 victory over the Dodgers.

Stan Musial

Musial, who banged out five hits Wednesday night against the Brooks, collected four today — a homer, two doubles and a single — as the Red Birds rapped three Dodgers pitchers for 14 bingles.

The win was the league-leading Cardinals' sixth straight and their fourth in as many meetings over the Dodgers.

For four innings the game was a pitcher's duel between Howie Pollet of the Cards and Joe Hatten of the Dodgers. Then ih the fifth, with the score tied at 1-1, the Cards jumped on Hatten for six runs.

The big blow of the uprising was catcher Del Rice's double with the bases loaded that cleared the sacks. The Cards added three more off Casey in the sixth and another in the seventh when Musial homered over the rightfield screen. The Cards picked up two more in the ninth on two singles, a walk and fly out. Box:

DAVIS' HOME RUN ENABLES CRUSADERS TO DEFEAT AMVETS

Russell Davis' home run with two aboard in the 7th inning enabled Joe's Crusaders to come from behind and defeat the Amvets yesterday by the score of 4-2 in a City Softball League game at Community Park.

Willis drew a pass to open the final inning. Banks bunted and both runners were safe on a bad throw to second. Then Davis teed off on one of Whiteman's pitches, driving the ball to deep left for a circuit clout.

Both of the runs made by the Amvets were homers by Danny Drew. Doyle George also rapped out two hits for the losers.

Carter Banks and Whiteman each yielded five hits. The victory gave the Crusaders a record of three wins and three losses. The defeat was the second for the Amvets who have won five games. Score:

Moose Will Drill

A practice session will be held by the Loyal Order of Moose team of the Interstate Baseball League Saturday at 10 a. m. at Stitcher Field.

LONG DISALLOWS MOOSE PROTEST

President John J. Long of the Interstate Baseball League last night disallowed the recent protest filed by the Loyal Order of Moose in its twilight game with Fort Cumberland Post No 13, American Legion.

The Moose team contended that the game was scheduled for 4:30 and did not get under way until 5:30 because the Legion was unable to field a team until the latter hour.

An umpire, however, testified that the Moose team had only eight players in uniform at 4:30 and therefore couldn't field a full team.

Nine innings were played despite the late start and the Legion team won by the decisive score of 12-2.

Long announced his decision in letters to the managers of both teams.

Skip Alexander Leads Qualifiers In PGA Tourney

Ties Record With 134, Matches Start Today

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

ST LOUIS, May 20 (AP) — Big Stewart (Skip) Alexander, playing in his first Professional Golfers Association championship, won the qualifying medal today with a record-equalling 36-hole score of 134.

The 29-year-old husky from Lexington, N. C., shattered par by seven strokes as he compiled an amazing 64, lowest score of the tournament, and a record for the Norwood Hills Countys Club course, to go with his opening round of 70.

The two-round feat equalled the PGA qualifying record which Jim Ferrier set at Portland, Ore., in 1946. It also put the bespectacled North Carolinian one stroke ahead of Toney Penna, the Cincinnati veteran, who had a 65.

Right behind Penna, slamming Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Jimmy Demaret, the gaudily-garbed Ojai, Calif., crooner, tied for third place at 136. Each had a pair of 68's over the rolling, 6,467-yard par 71 course.

The first-day leaders, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Bob Hamilton of Landover, Md., who had 66's yesterday, failed to maintain the hot pace.

Ferrier, the defending champion, qualified automatically for match play and didn't even go out today. Two 18 - hole rounds begin the match phase of the tournament tomorrow. The remaining matches will be at 36 holes.

In all, 15 players out of the original field of 135 bettered par for the two rounds and two others equalled the 142 figure.

Stanley Scores At Charles Town

Mr. X Wagers $5,000 On Winner To Show

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 20. (AP)—E. P. Price's Stanley defeated seven other sprinters to win the General Charles R. Fox Purse, feature of today's card at the Charles Town Race Track.

Stanley, a five year old claimed from H. R. Cohen for $7,500 during the recent Pimlico meeting, was clocked in 1:16 1-5 for the six furlongs plus 120 feet distance.

The Virginia-owned horse crossed the finish lines five lengths ahead of Casset. Gay Wildy was third.

The Mysterious "Mr. X," who has been betting large amounts on favorites to run third during the meeting, dropped in $5,000 on Stanley to show. The across-the-board prices on the winner were $2.60, $2.80 and $2.20.

Track officials said it was only because Casset and Gay Wildy were long shots that the track escaped a minus pool.

The daily double of Polly's Pet and Teddy Smart, winners of the first and second races, respectively, paid $65 for $2.

Frostburg And Amvets Play Saturday At 4:30

It's back!! The tire that sets the pace in the low price field!!!

"IT RUNS AND RUNS AND RUNS"
The MARATHON by GOODYEAR
ONLY $11.95 plus tax 6.00x16
Marathon — the famous money saving tire is back in the Goodyear line — and a better "buy" than ever! Back with the economy, long mileage and safety — the extra value for your dollars that made Marathon the favorite of millions of motorists before the war . . . back with more and stronger cords in the rugged tire body for even greater protection against tire failure. Look at these features . . .
LONG WEAR — New specially treated cords and newly compounded rubber make Marathon the tire that "runs and runs and runs".
NON-SKID SAFETY — Those famous Goodyear diamond blocks really grip the road. You get safer, quicker stops — especially on wet, skiddy roads.
"COMPACTING TREAD" — Inflation forces the sidewalls out, compacts the tread. This reduces tread wear, punctures, bruises and breaks.
For a really sensational "buy" in tires, see us for Marathons today! And remember "new tubes save tires".

It's back!! The tire that sets the pace in the low price field!!!

"IT RUNS AND RUNS AND RUNS"
The MARATHON by GOODYEAR
ONLY $11.95 plus tax 6.00xT6
Marathon — the famous money saving tire is back in the Goodyear line — and a better "buy" than ever! Back with the economy, long mileage and safety — the extra value for your dollars that made Marathon the favorite of millions of motorists before the war . . . back with more and stronger cords in the rugged tire body for even greater protection against tire failure. Look at these features . . .
LONG WEAR — New specially treated cords and newly compounded rubber make Marathon the tire that "runs and runs and runs".
NON-SKID SAFETY — Those famous Goodyear diamond blocks really grip the road. You get safer, quicker stops — especially on wet, skiddy roads.
"COMPACTING TREAD" — Inflation forces the sidewalls out, compacts the tread. This reduces tread wear, punctures, bruises and breaks.

Silk Worms Feed On Birch Leaves

MOSCOW — (AP)—Soviet experimenters have proven that silkworms can be fed on birch leaves. "Evening Moscow" says the experiments "have great significance for the Soviet Union's silk industry." If the leaves of the birch are sprayed with a weak mixture of sulphuric acid, zinc and brass vitriol, the caterpillar's development is said to be considerably advanced.

Nile Source Checked

JOHANNESBURG — (AP) — Toiling under daily temperatures of 100 degrees, with no shade and little water, scientists of the University of California are working in the barren desert on the southern border of Abyssinia. They are checking the theory that Lake Rudolph was the original source of the river Nile before a violent upheaval dropped the lake several hundred feet.

All digging has to be done hurriedly immediately after sunrise before the desert becomes a blazing furnace. But the results are worth it, the scientists say. They have recovered fossils of primitive pigs, elephants, rhinoceros and antelope and, most important of all, the remains of a turtle 4½ feet wide and 7 feet long which lived 25,000,000 years ago.

They have also proved that paleolithic man lived on the shores of Lake Rudolph in ancient times, when it was twice its present size.

There are about 3,000,000 miles of road in the United States.

Soil's Influence On Cows Checked

EAST LANSING, Mich. — (AP) — Does a cow fed lush crops from fertile soil produce more and better milk and beef than a cow that eats crops grown on soil of poor fertility? Obviously so, farmers and agricultural specialists have long asserted.

Dairy specialists at the Michigan State College Agricultural Experiment Station aren't satisfied with the obvious answer. A long-range controlled experiment has been set up on a demonstration farm in Kalamazoo County, Mich. A soil improvement program was set up on one third of the fields. The rest of the farm was left in its poor state of fertility.

Crops from the improved soil are fed to one group of cows. Another group gets crops from the depleted soil. Calves are put back in the experiment to find the effect of the feeding on other generations. It is expected to be eight or 10 years before definite conclusions can be reached.

Not Eggzactly Eggonomical

FIRTH, Neb.—(AP)—The old vaudeville query—"Why does a chicken cross the road?"—is being asked with good cause by Truck Driver Chris Tekolste of Firth. The chicken started across a highway near here. A car swerved and collided with Tekolste's truck, loaded with eggs.

Twenty-seven cases of eggs bounced off the truck, making a 9,720-egg omelet on the highway The chicken, unscathed, reached her nest located about 15 feet from the highway. There were five eggs in the nest.

The Chief Has A Date

PINE BLUFF, Ark — (AP) — Fire Chief George Alford finds remembering anniversaries simple. Here's why:

April 10 is the date he joined the fire department here in 1905, was married in 1920 and promoted to fire chief in 1929.

Car Gets Tanked Up

GERING, Neb. (AP) — A parade here, featuring an M-26 tank, was impressive. But no one was more impressed with the military might on display than O. N. Flaten.

The tank maneuvered too close to Flaten's car. The caterpillar treads hooked the back bumper, hoisted the car five feet in the air and bounced it off another car. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $100. The tank wasn't damaged.

WIFE PRESERVERS

To restore a bright, fresh look to old rugs and carpets, add a package of dye the color of the rug to a gallon of hot, soapy water and scrub the rug. Of course this is advised only for rugs of one color.

To stretch your dollar, look for labels which describe the can or package contents. If you aren't in the habit of reading labels you may be surprised at all the helpful information you can obtain from them.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Great Debate

Let us sidestep the arguments and the issues of the recent Great Debate and reflect on Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen strictly as radio performers. Their recent celebrated tussle, conducted over 900 radio stations, was a curiously mild affair and, when considered entirely apart from the merits of the case, rather disappointing.

John Crosby

Both candidates, I'm told, were repeating what they'd said many, many times before and in Mr. Stassen's case it sounded that way. In fact, Mr. Stassen's original argument sounded not only rehearsed but memorized to such extent that the meaning was beginning to get a little dim. The former Minnesota governor speaks a shade too fast, clings to a single note with the tenacity of Cole Porter in "Night and Day," slurs his words, and runs words together. The voice is pleasant enough but hardly challenging and though he exudes sincerity, neither his words nor his delivery ring with that passionate conviction which a good radio politician should be able to summon up for any cause, no matter how trivial. All this is a little surprising since Mr. Stassen in person has a commanding presence which lends great authority to his speeches.

And, incidentally, Mr. Stassen may well have lost the votes of all English teachers as well as those of a diminishing group of hidebound writers by his phrase, "to effectively oppose."

As for Governor Dewey, he has improved mightily since I first heard him campaign for District Attorney of New York County. He is more relaxed and mellower; he no longer snaps at each word as if it were Lepke Buchalter's neck and he has given up that sibilant whisper which once gave the impression the whole world was conspiring against him. He still marshals his arguments like a lawyer in front of a jury—presenting a case, as it were, rather than a point of view on a highly controversial subject.

Though it's not entirely fair to judge them as competing baritones, I must admit rather hesitantly that the Dewey voice is richer and possesses much more tone color than that of Stassen. As a political orator, by the way, Dewey is a great triple-adverb man, if that's one of your enthusiasms. "Unalterably, unswervingly, wholeheartedly," he boomed on one occasion. I don't know how he missed "unequivocally." It belongs in there some place.

The newspapers worked pretty hard to compare this debate with those of Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas in 1858. The similarity is slight. Loncoln and Douglas were unalterably—Ah, there Mr. Dewey!—opposed on a basic principle of government, states' rights versus the power of the Federal government. On the Communist question, Dewey and Stassen, it seems to me, occupy pretty much the same ground and differ only on method, though that difference, I hasten to add, is large.

Getting away from the controversy again, there was another big difference which will weigh heavily on the ears of the voters when the campaign gets hotter. In the hour-long debate,there was not a single provocative phrase, no haunting, upsetting sentences, no prose of any distinction whatsoever.

Early returns indicate there will be no Roosevelt, no Churchill, and certainly no Lincoln or Douglas in the coming Presidential campaign. The contest may be bitter, the issues will certainly be vital, but it's my guess the coming struggle for the White House will be largely fought—and there are some who will welcome the change—in pedestrian prose, by public speakers, not orators.

WIFE PRESERVERS

To restore a bright, fresh look to old rugs and carpets, add a package of dye the color of the rug to a gallon of hot, soapy water and scrub the rug. Of course this is advised only for rugs of one color.

To stretch your dollar, look for labels which describe the can or package contents. If you aren't in the habit of reading labels you may be surprised at all the helpful information you can obtain from them.

RADIO IN REVIEW

The Great Debate

Let us sidestep the arguments and the issues of the recent Great Debate and reflect on Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E. Stassen strictly as radio performers. Their recent celebrated tussle, conducted over 900 radio stations, was a curiously mild affair and, when considered entirely apart from the merits of the case, rather disappointing.

John Crosby

Both candidates, I'm told, were repeating what they'd said many, many times before and in Mr. Stassen's case it sounded that way. In fact, Mr. Stassen's original argument sounded not only rehearsed but memorized to such extent that the meaning was beginning to get a little dim. The former Minnesota governor speaks a shade too fast, clings to a single note with the tenacity of Cole Porter in "Night and Day," slurs his words, and runs words together. The voice is pleasant enough but hardly challenging and though he exudes sincerity, neither his words nor his delivery ring with that passionate conviction which a good radio politician should be able to summon up for any cause, no matter how trivial. All this is a little surprising since Mr. Stassen in person has a commanding presence which lends great authority to his speeches.

And, incidentally, Mr. Stassen may well have lost the votes of all English teachers as well as those of a diminishing group of hidebound writers by his phrase, "to effectively oppose."

As for Governor Dewey, he has improved mightily since I first heard him campaign for District Attorney of New York County. He is more relaxed and mellower; he no longer snaps at each word as if it were Lepke Buchalter's neck and he has given up that sibilant whisper which once gave the impression the whole world was conspiring against him. He still marshals his arguments like a lawyer in front of a jury—presenting a case, as it were, rather than a point of view on a highly controversial subject.

Though it's not entirely fair to judge them as competing baritones, I must admit rather hesitantly that the Dewey voice is richer and possesses much more tone color than that of Stassen. As a political orator, by the way, Dewey is a great triple-adverb man, if that's one of your enthusiasms. "Unalterably, unswervingly, wholeheartedly," he boomed on one occasion. I don't know how he missed "unequivocally." It belongs in there some place.

The newspapers worked pretty hard to compare this debate with those of Abraham Lincoln and Stephen Douglas in 1858. The similarity is slight. Loncoln and Douglas were unalterably—Ah, there Mr. Dewey!—opposed on a basic principle of government, states' rights versus the power of the Federal government. On the Communist question, Dewey and Stassen, it seems to me, occupy pretty much the same ground and differ only on method, though that difference, I hasten to add, is large.

Getting away from the controversy again, there was another big difference which will weigh heavily on the ears of the voters when the campaign gets hotter. In the hour-long debate,there was not a single provocative phrase, no haunting, upsetting sentences, no prose of any distinction whatsoever.

Early returns indicate there will be no Roosevelt, no Churchill, and certainly no Lincoln or Douglas in the coming Presidential campaign. The contest may be bitter, the issues will certainly be vital, but it's my guess the coming struggle for the White House will be largely fought—and there are some who will welcome the change—in pedestrian prose, by public speakers, not orators.

VFW District Posts To Attend Conclave

District posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars are planning for a large representation at the annual Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment at Hagerstown, June 25-27.

VFW posts of Cumberland, McCoole, Oldtown, Mt. Savage, Hagerstown and Frostburg had representatives at a district meeting at the Friendsville Post Sunday. District Commander George W. Banzhof of Henry Hart Post No. 1411 presided.

State Commander Charles B. Buscher, Silver Springs, Department Junior Vice Commander George Ridenour, Hagerstown; Frank Bliss, Silver Springs, Lt. Col. John C. Golden, Roy Everstine, and Thomas K. Whalley were among the speakers.

Bill Would Give State Troopers Wage Increase

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—A bill to give state police troopers a flat $20 a month wage increase is among at least 59 measures to be introduced at the special session of the General Assembly opening Tuesday.

Action taken by the interim Legislative Council, meeting here yesterday for the last time prior to the session, brought to 59 the number of bills, and resolutions to be presented to the lawmakers. Indications are that still others will be drawn up for introduction before the session opens.

Remonstrances Filed Against Beer Permits

A remonstrance has been filed with the Allegany County Liquor Control Board by a group of Flintstone residents against issuance of a beer license to the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company.

D. Lindley Sloan, attorney for the remonstrants, states in his petition that the Fire Hall is near a public school, that dances held regularly in the hall attract many patrons under 21 years of age, a health clinic is held on the premises at certain intervals and that Flintstone has had no beer or liquor license in the past 60 years.

Sloan stated signers of the petition live in the neighborhood of the Fire Hall. He added a traffic hazard would be created by persons using the Fire Hall.

Another factor in the situation is that Flintstone has no local police protection, according to the petitioners. Names on the petition take up two and a half pages.

Another remonstrance has been filed by residents of the Allegany Grove section against issuance of a beer license to Charles G. Poisal, operator of the Grove Recreation establishment.

They claim property values in that section would be lowered by issuance of the license. Two and a half pages of names are attached to the petition.

The board also reports that a beer license has been granted William C. Straw, operator of the Silver Lanes bowling alleys in Cresaptown.

Md. Traffic Heavier

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—Traffic on Maryland roads during the first four months of 1948 was six per cent heavier than last year, the State Roads Commission reported today.

The survey included stations checked by 18 photo-electric counters and 108 points where vehicles are tabulated manually.

Driver Found Guilty In Auto Accident

Carl Harvey Fansel, Route 3, Cumberland, was fined $21.45 yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court where he was charged with reckless driving, following a two-car crash in the 600 block Baltimore Avenue late Saturday night.

A failing to stop charge was dismissed by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew. Oliver Lepley, Route 4, Christie Road, driver of the other car in the crash, was charged with reckless driving, but was dismissed.

Virgil John Frost, Midlothian, a truck driver for the Howell Coal Company, forfeited $2.45 on a charge of permitting hazardous material to drop from his truck.

In police court, Raymond Williams, Bowling Green, was fined $5 for careless driving while a similar charge against Brady S. Vetters, Moorefield, W. Va., was dismissed. They were arrested after a collision at Green and Lee Streets Sunday.

Husband Guilty Of Hitting Wife

Kenneth Gray, 514 Linden Street, was given a suspended sentence yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court on an asault charge resulting from "domestic difficulties."

Gray, who entered a not guilty plea, was arrested on a warrant obtained by his wife, Mrs. Doris Gray. He was given the 90-day suspended sentence by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

The object of this suit is to procure a degree of divorce divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII; the bill states the parties were married March 14, 1941, that no children were born of the marriage; that the defendant deserted the plaintiff without just cause or reason in August, 1945, and that said desertion has continued uninterruptedly since said date, is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County, Maryland, for more than two years next before the filing of her bill of complaint, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and his present address and whereabouts are unknown to the plaintiff.

Try Ice Cream "Stretchers" For Dessert Treat

The all-time favorite dessert of Americans, young and old, is ice cream. It's a perfect dish to top off almost any meal and one that's sure to please the whole family.

Remember that ice cream is just as versatile as it is popular, so try one of the infinite variations in serving that are possible with it.

Some variations are real assets to the food budget too because of the way they stretch the ice cream. Did you ever serve whipped gelatin with ice cream? If not you've missed a treat. Just mix cherry gelatin according to the directions on the package and let it set. When it's quite firm, whip with a fork and put in the bottom of sherbet glasses. Now fill the rest of the glasses with vanilla ice cream. Top with cherry preserves.

Orange Parfait

An Orange Parfait is just as simple to make and equally tasty. You'll need orange gelatin for this one. When it's firm, cut it into little cubes. Now put alternate layers of vanilla ice cream and cubed orange gelatin into glasses and when they're almost full, top with a generous spoonful or two of orange marmalade.

Ice Cream And Cake

For another variation, why not enjoy a revival of the old-fashioned custom of serving cake and ice cream together? Just take a slice of sponge cake or angel food and place a scoop of ice cream on top of it. Now add a spoonful of preserves to the ice cream for a real treat.

Another idea in vogue is to split a large sponge cake cross-wise. Cover the bottom half with ice cream and strawberry or raspberry preserves. Now replace the top half and cover with ice cream. Slice and serve at once.

Stock Market Advances But Fails To Regain Ground Lost On Tuesday

NEW YORK, May 20. (AP)—The stock market advanced on a broad scale today but failed to regain all the ground lost in Tuesday's break.

The final score showed numerous gains of fractions to around two points and more. Turnover increased to 2,470,000 shares from Wednesday's 1,850,000.

Trading was usually broad. Of the 1,130 individual issues which appeared on the tape, 662 advanced while 253 declined.

Some gainers: Sinclair Oil 28, Standard Oil (NJ) 80¼, Pacific Western 60¾, Mission Corporation 69½ (up 3½), Schenley 34⅜, National Distillers 21⅜, American Smelting 62½, Kennecott Copper 57¾, Central of New Jersey 30¾, Studebaker 28¼, General Motors 59⅜ and Chrysler 60⅞.

Among the few trimmed were Douglas Aircraft 61½, International Harvester 96¾, Chesapeake and Ohio 39⅞, and Transcontinental and Western Air 17.

A substantial demand for railroad bonds sent the market ahead.

The market wasn't quite as active as yesterday, however, with the volume at $4,950,000, against $5,205,000.

United States government bonds were fairly active in over-the-counter dealings and prices went ahead about a thirty-second.

Try Ice Cream "Stretchers" For Dessert Treat

The all-time favorite dessert of Americans, young and old, is ice cream. It's a perfect dish to top off almost any meal and one that's sure to please the whole family.

Remember that ice cream is just as versatile as it is popular, so try one of the infinite variations in serving that are possible with it.

Some variations are real assets to the food budget too because of the way they stretch the ice cream. Did you ever serve whipped gelatin with ice cream? If not you've missed a treat. Just mix cherry gelatin according to the directions on the package and let it set. When it's quite firm, whip with a fork and put in the bottom of sherbet glasses. Now fill the rest of the glasses with vanilla ice cream. Top with cherry preserves.

Orange Parfait

An Orange Parfait is just as simple to make and equally tasty. You'll need orange gelatin for this one. When it's firm, cut it into little cubes. Now put alternate layers of vanilla ice cream and cubed orange gelatin into glasses and when they're almost full, top with a generous spoonful or two of orange marmalade.

Ice Cream And Cake

For another variation, why not enjoy a revival of the old-fashioned custom of serving cake and ice cream together? Just take a slice of sponge cake or angel food and place a scoop of ice cream on top of it. Now add a spoonful of preserves to the ice cream for a real treat.

Another idea in vogue is to split a large sponge cake cross-wise. Cover the bottom half with ice cream and strawberry or raspberry preserves. Now replace the top half and cover with ice cream. Slice and serve at once.

Stock Market Advances But Fails To Regain Ground Lost On Tuesday

NEW YORK, May 20. (AP)—The stock market advanced on a broad scale today but failed to regain all the ground lost in Tuesday's break.

The final score showed numerous gains of fractions to around two points and more. Turnover increased to 2,470,000 shares from Wednesday's 1,850,000.

Trading was usually broad. Of the 1,130 individual issues which appeared on the tape, 662 advanced while 253 declined.

Some gainers: Sinclair Oil 28, Standard Oil (NJ) 80¼, Pacific Western 60¾, Mission Corporation 69½ (up 3½), Schenley 34⅜, National Distillers 21⅜, American Smelting 62½, Kennecott Copper 57⅜, Central of New Jersey 30⅜, Studebaker 28¼, General Motors 59⅜ and Chrysler 60⅞.

Among the few trimmed were Douglas Aircraft 61½, International Harvester 96¾, Chesapeake and Ohio 39⅞, and Transcontinental and Western Air 17.

A substantial demand for railroad bonds sent the market ahead.

The market wasn't quite as active as yesterday, however, with the volume at $4,950,000, against $5,205,000.

United States government bonds were fairly active in over-the-counter dealings and prices went ahead about a thirty-second.

Organized Labor Endorses Plan For More Relief Funds

Conditions Of Aged Termed Deplorable

Representatives of organized labor in Allegany County rallied last night to the cause of old aged persons and others on public relief rolls here and elsewhere in Maryland, and pledged their united efforts in a campaign to have the state's Public Assistance Act revised and more funds appropriated for direct relief.

The meeting was held in the Red Men's Hall with Irven C. Brant as chairman, and was attended largely by invited representatives of organized labor and fraternal organizations. Brant explained that several meetings have been held in an effort to get "something done about the deplorable conditions of aged people and needy people on relief," and to support J. Milton Patterson, state welfare director, in his efforts to have the special session of General Assembly appropriate more funds.

A number of testimonials from old age people on relief, together with actual photographs of their homes, living conditions and of the needy themselves were exhibited by L. E. Geiger, 126 Karns Avenue, a representative of an insurance company, who, along with other insurance men, has conducted an investigation.

The pictures show old people, some as much as 80 years of age, living in one and two room shacks, or in one or two room flats, with practically no furniture except bare necessities. The facial expressions of these people show signs of depression, fear and hunger, Geiger told his audience. He declared, "These are not posed pictures—they are random shots."

Geiger and Brant claim these people are suffering from malnutrition, and explained that one man, who is six feet in height, weighs only 114 pounds. They said his case was not an isolated one, but typical.

Score Of Testimonials

In the testimonials signed by these recipients of relief, the Allegany County Welfare Board came in for some criticism, and the aged people, described by some present as "among our best hard working citizens in their days," claim they have been humiliated by the case workers who call at their homes.

All charge they have insufficient funds for food and cannot continue to live for long on these "short rations," and a "starvation diet."

The group interested in this situation, largely spokesmen and representatives of the AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods, and Labor Unity Conferences, attacked the Welfare Board here, the General Assembly of Maryland, Governor Lane, the County Commissioners, and "the whole deplorable situation generally."

F. Patrick Allender, representing the Building Trades Council, said he had occasion recently to make a personal investigation of those county relief conditions and finds them worse than deplorable. Allender declared, "I've heard a little

Union's Dispute Goes To NLRB

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—Two unions seeking to represent Maryland's 4,000 telephone operators will take their dispute to the National Labor Relations Board next week.

NLRB officials arranged a meeting next Tuesday with representatives of Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union and the Communications Workers of America.

Most of the operators are members of the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, which recently allied itself with the CIO Telephone Workers Organizing Committee.

But the Communications Workers of America, an outgrowth of the old National Federation of Telephone Workers, has challenged MTTU's right to represent the workers in collective bargaining.

NLRB officials said if all those involved can agree on a "consent election" it will not be necessary to hold a formal hearing.

No Decision Reached At Bond Conference

No decision was reached at a conference yesterday afternoon of city officials with Notley A. Goudy, a representative of The Home Indemnity Company, Baltimore, the firm bonding Charles F. Burke, Jr., former city tax collector.

The conference, attended by Mayor Thomas S. Post, Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, was called to discuss procedure to be followed in paying the city funds allegedly embezzled from the tax office.

Buchholtz said after the meeting that another conference will be held at a later date.

Burke was convicted of embezzling $8,334.78 over a three - year period by judges of the Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday at the conclusion of a three-day trial.

NEW POLICEMEN-- Two new policemen were added to the Cumberland Police force this week. The two men, pictured above, are Leo E. P. Law (left) who started to work Monday, and Charles E. Cubbage (right) who started this morning at 1 o'clock. Both are World War II veterans. According to reports, more men will be added to the force at different intervals.

Ranking Party Offices Shuffled During State Republican Conclave

Sloan Is Named Permanent Chairman

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—Two ranking party offices changed hands today and a slate of organization national convention delegates was elected at a one-day state convention of Maryland's Republicans.

There were no surprises, no debates, and none but routine resolutions as the 152 delegates transacted the business mapped out well in advance by National Committeeman Jacob France, chief of GOP organization in the state.

Harris, Doub Named Alternates-At-Large

Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney for Allegany County, and George C. Doub, former resident of Cumberland, now practicing law in Baltimore, and Maryland advisor for Harold E. Stassen, presidential aspirant, have been named alternates-at-large to the National Republican Convention to be held in Philadelphia next month. Neal C. Fraley, Garrett County, will be a delegate.

State Senator Stanford Hoff, Westminister, the newly elected chairman of the State Central Committee, said the prime task before him now is to "establish party harmony throughout the state." In regard to his preference, among the number of Republican candidates seeking the GOP presidential nomination, the new Central Committee head said: "I don't even know whether I have a preference, at this time."

The delegation to the national convention goes without instruction regarding the presidential candidate to support. Four of the 12 district delegates questioned said privately they personally liked Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

But by the large, the watchword was that "we have a whole handful of strong candidates to pick from and we'll pick the likeliest at Philadelphia."

State Senator Stanford Hoff, Westminster, Carroll County, was elected chairman of the state central committee—a move predicted long ago.

Into retirement—though not, as he stressed, as an active party worker—went Galen Tait, who held the chairmanship for many years and who was to be a strong Dewey supporter.

S. W. Kelly Held For Homicide In Beachley Death

Court Denies His Not Guilty Plea

SOMERSET, Pa.—Charged with the fatal bludgeoning of Devon S. Beachley, Brothersvalley Township, Pa., Samuel W. Kelly, 34, near Berlin, yesterday was ordered held for action of the Somerset County grand jury on a homicide charge, according to Pennsylvania State Police.

Kelly, who was arrested last Sunday on a charge of inflicting the fatal injuries on Beachley in a tavern fight, entered a plea of not guilty yesterday morning when he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Charles J. Harrison, Jr.

Following testimony of investigating officers, however, Kelly was ordered returned to jail to await action of the grand jury on a homicide charge. No bond was set, police said.

According to testimony, Kelly is accused of wielding an oak plank which struck down the 31-year-old Beachley during a fight near the Wellie Tavern.

Investigating authorities said Kelly and two brothers, James William and Matthew Kelly, were attacking a 21-year-old youth when Beachley intervened.

James Kelly was given a hearing on a disorderly conduct charge Wednesday as a result of the fatal fight and was committed to jail in default of an $18.55 fine after pleading guilty to the charge.

Samuel Kelly was arrested at his home shortly after Beachley died in Somerset Hospital about five minutes after he was admitted.

Kelly, according to authorities, and his two brothers were fighting with the youth before Beachley interfered, as the result of an old dispute in which Matthew Kelly was arrested and given a jail sentence.

Mine Fire Damage Is Estimated At $2,500

Damage was set at $2,500 today as mining officials began checking the debris of the gutted frame wheel house of the Hampshire Coal Mine, owned by Campbell Coal Company, which burned Thursday night near Barton.

George Crowe, mine foreman, said he believes the blaze was of incendiary origin and indicated that he would request an investigation of the blaze by county officials.

Condition Is Unchanged

The condition of Associate Judge George Henderson, who was injured in an automobile crash Sunday night, was reported "about the same" last night in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown. Attaches added that Judge Henderson seemed to be a little more comfortable last night, however.

Civic Group Named To Study Need For Fund Appeal Review Board Here

The Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce announced last night that seven local civic leaders have been asked to serve on a committee to consider the advisability of an Appeal Review Board for the solicitation of funds in this city by national organizations.

They are Mayor Thomas S. Post, Edmund S. Burke, J. T. Defibaugh, Thomas F. Conlon, Charles S. Catherman, Jr., Max W. Bastian and C. William Baer.

The directors, at their last meeting, suggested that a study be undertaken as to the best way to solve the problem of screening the ever increasing number of national organizations which are conducting fund drives.

Harold W. Smith, executive secretary pointed out that only national drives would be considered since the Community Chest serves as a clearing house for local fund appeals.

He said the directors have recommended that such a committee should be on a broad basis to represent all civic, labor and fra-

Speakers Stress Need For More Trained Teachers

Enrollment Of 300 Urged At Frostburg

Maryland will need 650 new teachers each year because of increasing school enrollments and the proposed reduction in size of classes, and Frostburg State Teachers College must have a teacher-training enrollment of at least 300 each year to help supply the need, Dr. James E. Spitznas said last night.

Dr. Spitznas, director of instruction of the State Board of Education, was one of the speakrs at the "Public Relations Day" event held at the college. Approximately 300 persons from Allegany and Garrett Counties attended.

(After the meeting, however, Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, said the State Board of Education has urged a teacher-training enrollment at the college of between 350 and 500 students each year to meet the demand for teachers.

Recalls Recommendations

(She pointed out that the total enrollment at the college this year is 230, of which only 115 are training for the teaching profession.)

Dr. Spitznas recalled recommendations made recently by Miss Compton, which call for a new library, men's residence, auditorium and gymnasium, science building, new campus school and a larger campus.

Another speaker was Dr. Ralph McDonald, executive secretary of the department of higher education of the National Education Association.

Dr. McDonald said a recent survey of teachers' colleges throughout the nation revealed that only 11,500 will be graduated this year as qualified elementary school teachers, whereas 150,000 are needed.

He said statictics show that there are now half a million more pupils in elementary schools than in 1939 and 1940, with fewer elementary teachers, and that classrooms all over the country are overcrowded because of the lack of teachers.

"Conditions in secondary schools are not so discouraging, but the teacher shortage in elementary schools is tragic," he declared.

Dr. McDonald stated there is no more fundamental need at present than to increase facilities of the nation's teachers' colleges.

Favor Expansion

He urged that every effort be made to arouse the American people to recognition of the fact that they are allowing the public school system to deteriorate.

Other speakers, all of whom favored the expansion of the Frostburg college, were W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland attorney; Miss Catherine Thomas, president of the college Alumni Association; Postmaster Michael J. Byrnes of Frostburg; and William H. Kroll, a student at the college.

F. E. Rathbun, Garrett County superintendent of schools, read a letter from State Senator Lawrence A. Fraley of Oakland, in which Fraley stated he would work for any legislation to increase the facilities of the college.

"This institution is the only one providing higher education opportunities for young men and women of Garrett County. Therefore our interest is mutual with Allegany and other Western Maryland counties in having the college remain in Frostburg," Fraley's letter said.

Maurice J. Matteson, chairman of the committee which arranged the event, presided. Miss Compton gave introductory remarks.

RIU Petitions For Shop Crafts

The Railroad Industrial Union yesterday petitioned the United States Mediation Board in Washington for an election to determine the bargaining rights of power house, shop laborers and electrical workers of the Western Maryland Railway.

Elmer E. Davis, this city, RIU president, said the union submitted the application cards signed by about 128 of the 213 workers.

Another 20 employes, including four shop laborers employed at the iron and ore piers at Baltimore and 16 electrical workers may be included in the bargaining unit when the election is held, Davis explained.

The RIU, which now represents road crews of the railway, began a drive early this year to enroll all crafts into the RIU.

Charters have already been issued for locals in Baltimore, Hagerstown and Cumberland, Md., and Dunbar, Pa., and a fifth charter will be instituted in Elkins, W. Va., May 30, Davis said.

Three Bids Received For Park Concession

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that three bids have been received for operating the soft drink and food concession at Constitution Park Casino.

The sealed bids, one of which was submitted by Anton Anthony, will be opened by the Park Board at 10 o'clock this morning.

Anthony has operated the concession since June, 1940. His lease agreement with the city expires May 31.

The Weather

There's a slow but sure return to the good ol' summer time weather, the weatherman says, but showers can be expected at most anytime, but certainly not today, with a promise of fair and warmer. The thermometer went down to a low of 40 degrees last night and by 8 o'clock it still had come up only eight degrees. The high for yesterday was recorded at 70 degrees and at 10 o'clock last night, the reading was 60, but expected to hit around 50 during the night. Not near so cold from here on in, unless those cold north winds start up again, the weatherman promises.

Westvaco Offers 5 Cent Interim Wage Increase

Luke Union To Hold Mass Meeting Tonight

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP) — The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, today offered an interim wage increase of five cents an hour to hourly paid employes or to negotiate a general renewal of the contract which expires in August.

The interim increase would run pending negotiations in August if the union approved it.

Company officials and representatives of the CIO United Paper-Workers of America discussed wages most of the day. The union then adjourned the session until Monday in order to report the proposals to the union locals.

The company has plants at Covington, Va., Luke, Md., and Williamsburg, Pa.

The union demanded a 25-cent an hour across the board increase in February, under provisions of the present contract permitting an interim revision of wages by mutual consent. It also asked a fund of one percent of the total payroll for adjustment of rates which it said were out of line.

The company rejected the demand at that time and again today.

Discussions brought out that various other companies in the paper industry have recently granted wage increases. The company said they were less than half what was asked of it, and that it knew of none unless accompanied by general negotiation of a contract to last at least a year.

The company then offered to go ahead with a general negotiation. The union at first refused. Then, when the company made its alternative offer of an interim increase, the union requested adjournment in order to report to its membership.

Officials of Luke Local 676, United Paper Workers of America, CIO, reported last night that mass meetings of the membership will be held tonight and tomorrow to discuss the wage negotiations.

The meetings will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the Red Men's Hall, Westernport, and Saturday at 10 a. m. at the same place, according to Mrs. Hazel Haywood, Westernport, union secretary.

Officials of the local who attended the meeting in Washington are expected to return home by noon today.

Kelly Union Asks 7 Paid Holidays

Contract negotiations between Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be resumed Monday at 10 a. m. at the Kelly plant, A. E. Johnson, union president, said yesterday.

Slated for discussion at the meeting are union proposals on overtime pay and paid holidays.

The union is asking time and one-half for Saturdays "as such." At present workers get premium pay for Saturdays only if total hours exceed 40.

Paid Holidays—the union is asking that the union picnic be recognized as a paid holiday.

In the present contract, the company recognizes the following paid holidays, New Year's Day, Decoration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

Several rubber locals now are paid for the day on which an annual picnic is held, the union said.

Celanese Worker Burned At Work

William Ranck, 20 Harrison Street, a worker at the Celanese plant, was burned severely yesterday while at work, when a heater kicked out while he was returning a hose to its position. He was treated at Memorial Hospital for burns of the face, neck, shoulders, cheeks and chest.

Frank Martz, 24, Corriganville, was admitted to the same hospital after his foot, was caught in a roller while working at the Lock Joint Pipe Company.

Mary Moore, 50, 37 Wempe Drive, was treated for injuries sustained when she fell from a ladder, through a window, while working at her home. She was treated for lacerations to her right arm.

A 35-year-old woman identified as Reba Wallace, 77 North Mechanic Street, was admitted to the same hospital early yesterday morning after she reportedly fell while getting out of a taxi cab.

Rubber Union May End Ballot Count Today

Officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers of America, CIO, announced yesterday that the counting of ballots in the annual election of officers may be completed today.

Nominees for president of the 2,500 member Kelly local are A. E. Johnson, incumbent, and Ralph C. Beard and Roy E. Davy, both former presidents.

Fred Hillebrecht Case Scheduled For Today

Arrested earlier in the week on a charge of maintaining a gaming device, Fred Hillebrecht, 24 Bedford Street, will be tried in Police Court this morning.

According to police reports, Hillebrecht was at the Maccabee clubrooms on Bedford Street, when City Police seized the slot machines in the club.

BIRTHS

Allegany Hospital reported the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Van Meter, Rawlings, last night.

PRINTER RETIRES-- Pius Hayes Boley (above), 72, who has been setting type for newspapers since he was 14, is going to retire Saturday after working for 58 years. He began his career in McKeesport, Pa., and after working on several publications came to Cumberland where he was employed by the old Cumberland Daily News. He began working on the Cumberland News when it was first published and continued with the Times and Alleganian Company until now. He was named after Pope Pius IX and President Rutherford B. Hayes.

State Director Cites Work Of Parole System

Stresses Worth Of Supervised Release

Referring to the Maryland parole system as a "sensible method" of restoring convicts to a useful place in society, F. Murray Benson told the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday that conditional release might be granted in all cases to assure a planned program of supervision and rehabilitation of criminals while the state still has jurisdiction over their actions.

Benson, who has been director of the State of Maryland probation system since 1944, following two years as city solicitor of Baltimore, was introduced by Thomas B. Finan, Kiwanis program chairman.

The speaker contrasted changes in penal methods from the days when manacles and torture were used in prisons, with the present.

Prisoners are now given opportunities to increase their education and to learn new jobs so that they may be returned to society better able to cope with its problems, Benson said.

Cites Rehabilitation

Pointing out that deficiencies in character rather than in mentality are often to blame for criminal actions, the state director said there is a definite attempt toward "institutional rehabilitation."

However, he explained that such rehabilitation is not natural because the prisoners must follow set rules of activities while he is in the institution. This does not prepare him for the free choices he must make when he is released, Benson added.

In this connection Benson commented that the nation's increasing dependency on paternalistic government rather than on individual freedom of thought and action is complicating the problem of parole.

Under state law, he said, a convict who has served one-third of his sentence may be considered for parole, except for those sentenced to life imprisonment, who are eligible for parole consideration at the end of 15 years.

The choice, Benson said, lies between "supervised release" of a convict before the end of his sentence, when a parole officer can aid the man in finding employment and rehabilitating himself, or release of the prisoner at the end of his sentence with no preparation for returning to society.

"No man can 'pay a debt to society' until he contributes in some useful way to society, and he can't do that in jail," Benson remarked.

He pointed out that one benefit of the paroling of convicts is that the parole officer knows the community and can enlist the support of local organizations in rehabilitating convicts.

Personnel Increased

From five parole officers and 500 cases, Benson now directs 13 supervising officers, four senior officers and one field officer, with 1,400 cases.

Other guests at yesterday's luncheon meeting at Central YMCA included James Cavanaugh, one of Benson's assistants J. Hubert Black, Hagerstown, senior parole officer for Western Maryland; Alton C. Whitmore, Frederick, parole officer in the Western Maryland office in Hagerstown; and David Steele, Cumberland, parole officer for Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Three new members, introduced by John J. Robinson, Kiwanis vice president, were welcomed into the club. They are Dr. George M.

Old Recreation Ordinance May Be Rescinded

Planning Group Prepares Rules

Mayor Thomas S. Post and Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz indicated last night that the ordinance under which a seven - member City Recreation Board was appointed in March, 1947 will be rescinded to avoid conflict with the newly established Recreation Planning Committee.

Although board members later resigned as a result of dissension regarding the appointment of a city recreation director, the ordinance, passed February 24, 1947, is still on the books.

The matter came up at the first meeting last night in City Hall of the Recreation Planning Committee, which was appointed 10 days ago by the Mayor and Council.

Clair R. Mease is the only member of the defunct recreation board who is serving on the new 15-member committee.

Explains Function

Buchholtz opened last night's meeting with an explanation of the function of the group, which will prepare recommendations to be submitted to the Mayor and Council with regard to development of all types of recreation facilities in the city.

The committee was appointed after a $150,000 recreation bond issue was approved by Cumberland voters at the municipal election in March. The funds are to be earmarked for acquisition of additional land where necessary and improvement of existing facilities.

Buchholtz pointed out that the committee will consider all types of recreation, and suggested that Cumberland adults and children be polled with regard to the types of recreation they desire.

He stressed the two-to-one vote by which the recreation bond issue was approved, stating "it shows the people are recreation-minded."

Buchholtz estimated the committee should be able to submit its report in three to six months.

George H. Tederick, who was named acting secretary, presided as the committee drew up a list of tentative rules for ratification at the first regular meeting, scheduled next Thursday, May 27, at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Appointment of a permanent chairman, vice chairman and secretary will be made at that time. Arrangements will also be made for the showing of a color film on recreation, "Playtown U.S A."

Meanwhile, Mayor Post said two persons will be appointed in place of J. Suter Kegg and C. V. Burns, who have notified the Mayor and Council they will be unable to serve on the committee. Appointments will be made before next Thursday's meeting, the mayor said.

Rules Are Listed

Various rules, suggested by members of the committee and given tentative approval, are as follows:

1. Members who are absent from two consecutive meetings without a reasonable excuse shall be dropped, and appointments made to fill their places.

2. Two-thirds of the full committee, or 10 persons, shall constitute a quorum. A majority vote of the quorum shall be needed in making decisions. However, unanimous vote of the full 15-member committee shall be necessary to reverse any previous proposals voted by the group. Proxy votes will be accepted in such cases.

3. In the event a vacancy exists in any of the three offices, the committee shall fill the vacancy

Mother Of Injured Student Is Hurt In Fall; Both Are "Good"

Thomas Harrison, 24, Ridgeley High School senior, was reported improving in Memorial Hospital last night and the family hoped the report of "good" was an indication of the future.

Misfortune has been besieging the family now for at least two months. It began when their Ridgeley, W. Va., home was destroyed by fire in late March.

Then Harrison fell from a loading platform last week and suffered a brain concussion. He was admitted to the hospital where his condition has been daily reported critical until yesterday, when attaches said he "has shown great improvement and his condition is good."

The family misfortune was aggravated Wednesday when Mrs. Charles E. Harrison, the student's mother, fell and suffered a fractured collar bone. She also was admitted to Memorial Hospital and last night attaches reported her condition "good."

Harrison once before was injured in an automobile accident and as a result missed several years of school. However, when his physical condition permitted he returned.

Whitworth, Kimble To Consider Only 'Emergency Bills'

Oppose Controversial Issues For Assembly

The Chairman of the Allegany County Delegation and Senator Robert B. Kimble said yesterday they will decline to introduce any legislation "that is not an extreme emergency measure" at the special session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegation chairman, declared he and "other members of the Delegation with whom I have had an opportunity to talk" believe that it is a "better policy to not consider the introduction of local legislation at this time."

Senator Kimble reiterated Whitworth's statement and added he has expressed that opinion to members of the Maryland Legislative Council at recent meetings held in preparation for the special session scheduled to convene next Tuesday at the request of Governor Lane.

Ministers Interested

Whitworth said his statement stemmed from a recent meeting with a member of the Ministerial Association of Allegany County when it was called to his attention that "there may be some contemplation by members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly of Maryland to introduce some bills of a local nature on various subjects that are controversial throughout the county."

The Ministerial Association's interest was aroused, Whitman explained, "by a proposed bill that would legalize lotteries throughout the state when sponsored by church groups or charitable organizations."

Senator Kimble declared last night that from indirect information received by the Legislative Council at a meeting Wednesday the bill "probably will not be introduced.

Of the approximately 75 bills submitted to the Legislative Council for its support, Senator Kimble said, the group will approve only the Administration Salary Bill and legislation permitting counties and incorporated communities to set up fire prevention codes.

Of the 75 bills submitted to the Legislative Council, Kimble said a large majority pertain to gambling of one type or another in various counties in the state. Allegany County is not included, Senator Kimble explained.

Need Referendum

The bills stand a slim chance of becoming law at the special session, Kimble declared, adding that he is basing his opinion on an indirect message from Governor Lane received yesterday which indicated the Governor "will not sign any gambling bill passed at the special session unless it carries a referendum."

Whitworth said, "It is impossible to draw and study good legislation within the three or four days that the special session is expected to last, wherein there would be no opportunity for hearings for the general public, either proponents or opponents, on any subjects and therefore we believe it is better policy to not consider the introduction of local legislation at this time, especially since we know of no special emergency in the county that necessitates immediate action and that cannot wait until the regular session next January, 1949, at which time ample opportunity will be given to all people in the county to express their opinions about all contemplated bills."

Blue Ridge Bus Drivers Walk Off Jobs Suddenly

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 20 (AP) —The Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL) announced a work stoppage effective at 8 p. m. tonight throughout the Eastern Division of the Blue Ridge Bus Lines.

The company provides Hagerstown's only bus contact with Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Cumberland and Frederick. The union said buses en route at 8 p. m. would continue as per schedule to their destinations.

Meanwhile, William E. Giffin, president of Local 1335, said a continuous meeting of the union began here simultaneous with the walkout deadline. At midnight, union officials said 75 men had already gone off their jobs and that 175 drivers and maintenance men would be involved eventually.

Giffin said the organization's dispute with the company involved the firing of an employe on May 2, on the grounds that he had allegedly filed incorrect reports. The union called this a contract violation, since the driver was notified of the reported discrepancies 19 days after their occurence, instead of within 15 days as provided by agreement between the union and the company.

Giffin said there was no dispute over wages, hours, or working conditions involved in the walkout.

The company made no comment, other than that they had received no notification of the work stoppage.

G. E. Shinholt, ticket agent in the Cumberland office, was unaware of the strike at 12:30 a. m. but five minutes after contacting Hagerstown reported that the Eastern Division of Blue Ridge was on strike.

All buses that left terminals before 8 p. m. (EST) will continue on to their destination, Shinholt said he was informed, and added a bus going from Washington to Pittsburgh was due here at 12:55 a. m. (EST) and one from Pittsburgh to Washington was scheduled to arrive in Cumberland at 2:25 a. m.

Shinholt said the bus presumably left Pittsburgh after the 8 p. m. deadline, but was unable to explain why. He declared, however, that the Hagerstown office advised him the bus was running on time.

Organized Labor Endorses Plan For More Relief Funds

Conditions Of Aged Termed Deplorable

Representatives of organized labor in Allegany County rallied last night to the cause of old aged persons and others on public relief rolls here and elsewhere in Maryland, and pledged their united efforts in a campaign to have the state's Public Assistance Act revised and more funds appropriated for direct relief.

The meeting was held in the Red Men's Hall with Irven C. Brant as chairman, and was attended largely by invited representatives of organized labor and fraternal organizations. Brant explained that several meetings have been held in an effort to get "something done about the deplorable conditions of aged people and needy people on relief," and to support J. Milton Patterson, state welfare director, in his efforts to have the special session of General Assembly appropriate more funds.

A number of testimonials from old age people on relief, together with actual photographs of their homes, living conditions and of the needy themselves were exhibited by L. E. Geiger, 126 Karns Avenue, a representative of an insurance company, who, along with other insurance men, has conducted an investigation.

The pictures show old people, some as much as 80 years of age, living in one and two room shacks, or in one or two room flats, with practically no furniture except bare necessities. The facial expressions of these people show signs of depression, fear and hunger, Geiger told his audience. He declared, "These are not posed pictures—they are random shots."

Geiger and Brant claim these people are suffering from malnutrition, and explained that one man, who is six feet in height, weighs only 114 pounds. They said his case was not an isolated one, but typical.

Score Of Testimonials

In the testimonials signed by these recipients of relief, the Allegany County Welfare Board came in for some criticism, and the aged people, described by some present as "among our best hard working citizens in their days," claim they have been humiliated by the case workers who call at their homes.

All charge they have insufficient funds for food and cannot continue to live for long on these "short rations," and a "starvation diet."

The group interested in this situation, largely spokesmen and representatives of the AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods, and Labor Unity Conferences, attacked the Welfare Board here, the General Assembly of Maryland, Governor Lane, the County Commissioners, and "the whole deplorable situation generally."

F. Patrick Allender, representing the Building Trades Council, said he had occasion recently to make a personal investigation of those county relief conditions and finds them worse than deplorable. Allender declared, "I've heard a little

Union's Dispute Goes To NLRB

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—Two unions seeking to represent Maryland's 4,000 telephone operators will take their dispute to the National Labor Relations Board next week.

NLRB officials arranged a meeting next Tuesday with representatives of Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union and the Communications Workers of America.

Most of the operators are members of the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, which recently allied itself with the CIO Telephone Workers Organizing Committee.

But the Communications Workers of America, an outgrowth of the old National Federation of Telephone Workers, has challenged MTTU's right to represent the workers in collective bargaining.

NLRB officials said if all those involved can agree on a "consent election" it will not be necessary to hold a formal hearing.

No Decision Reached At Bond Conference

No decision was reached at a conference yesterday afternoon of city officials with Notley A. Goudy, a representative of The Home Indemnity Company, Baltimore, the firm bonding Charles F. Burke, Jr., former city tax collector.

The conference, attended by Mayor Thomas S. Post, Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, was called to discuss procedure to be followed in paying the city funds allegedly embezzled from the tax office.

Buchholtz said after the meeting that another conference will be held at a later date.

Burke was convicted of embezzling $8,334.78 over a three - year period by judges of the Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday at the conclusion of a three-day trial.

NEW POLICEMEN-- Two new policemen were added to the Cumberland Police force this week. The two men, pictured above, are Leo E. P. Law (left) who started to work Monday, and Charles E. Cubbage (right) who started this morning at 1 o'clock. Both are World War II veterans. According to reports, more men will be added to the force at different intervals.

Ranking Party Offices Shuffled During State Republican Conclave

Sloan Is Named Permanent Chairman

BALTIMORE, May 20 (AP)—Two ranking party offices changed hands today and a slate of organization national convention delegates was elected at a one-day state convention of Maryland's Republicans.

There were no surprises, no debates, and none but routine resolutions as the 152 delegates transacted the business mapped out well in advance by National Committeeman Jacob France, chief of GOP organization in the state.

Harris, Doub Named Alternates-At-Large

Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney for Allegany County, and George C. Doub, former resident of Cumberland, now practicing law in Baltimore, and Maryland advisor for Harold E. Stassen, presidential aspirant, have been named alternates-at-large to the National Republican Convention to be held in Philadelphia next month. Neal C. Fraley, Garrett County, will be a delegate.

State Senator Stanford Hoff, Westminister, the newly elected chairman of the State Central Committee, said the prime task before him now is to "establish party harmony throughout the state." In regard to his preference, among the number of Republican candidates seeking the GOP presidential nomination, the new Central Committee head said: "I don't even know whether I have a preference, at this time."

The delegation to the national convention goes without instruction regarding the presidential candidate to support. Four of the 12 district delegates questioned said privately they personally liked Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

But by the large, the watchword was that "we have a whole handful of strong candidates to pick from and we'll pick the likeliest at Philadelphia."

State Senator Stanford Hoff, Westminster, Carroll County, was elected chairman of the state central committee—a move predicted long ago.

Into retirement—though not, as he stressed, as an active party worker—went Galen Tait, who held the chairmanship for many years and who was to be a strong Dewey supporter.

B. E. DeBolt was named delegate to the International Typographical Union convention and Frazier was named alternate.

In the international election, the Cumberland local favored candidates in the following order:

Court Denies His Not Guilty Plea

SOMERSET, Pa.—Charged with the fatal bludgeoning of Devon S. Beachley, Brothersvalley Township, Pa., Samuel W. Kelly, 34, near Berlin, yesterday was ordered held for action of the Somerset County grand jury on a homicide charge, according to Pennsylvania State Police.

Kelly, who was arrested last Sunday on a charge of inflicting the fatal injuries on Beachley in a tavern fight, entered a plea of not guilty yesterday morning when he was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Charles J. Harrison, Jr.

Following testimony of investigating officers, however, Kelly was ordered returned to jail to await action of the grand jury on a homicide charge. No bond was set, police said.

According to testimony, Kelly is accused of wielding an oak plank which struck down the 31-year-old Beachley during a fight near the Wellie Tavern.

Investigating authorities said Kelly and two brothers, James William and Matthew Kelly, were attacking a 21-year-old youth when Beachley intervened.

James Kelly was given a hearing on a disorderly conduct charge Wednesday as a result of the fatal fight and was committed to jail in default of an $18.55 fine after pleading guilty to the charge.

Samuel Kelly was arrested at his home shortly after Beachley died in Somerset Hospital about five minutes after he was admitted.

Kelly, according to authorities, and his two brothers were fighting with the youth before Beachley interfered, as the result of an old dispute in which Matthew Kelly was arrested and given a jail sentence.

Mine Fire Damage Is Estimated At $2,500

Damage was set at $2,500 today as mining officials began checking the debris of the gutted frame wheel house of the Hampshire Coal Mine, owned by Campbell Coal Company, which burned Thursday night near Barton.

George Crowe, mine foreman, said he believes the blaze was of incendiary origin and indicated that he would request an investigation of the blaze by county officials.

Condition Is Unchanged

The condition of Associate Judge George Henderson, who was injured in an automobile crash Sunday night, was reported "about the same" last night in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown. Attaches added that Judge Henderson seemed to be a little more comfortable last night, however.

Civic Group Named To Study Need For Fund Appeal Review Board Here

The Board of Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce announced last night that seven local civic leaders have been asked to serve on a committee to consider the advisability of an Appeal Review Board for the solicitation of funds in this city by national organizations.

They are Mayor Thomas S. Post, Edmund S. Burke, J. T. Deffibaugh, Thomas F. Conlon, Charles S. Catherman, Jr., Max W. Bastian and C. William Baer.

The directors, at their last meeting, suggested that a study be undertaken as to the best way to solve the problem of screening the ever increasing number of national organizations which are conducting fund drives.

Harold W. Smith, executive secretary pointed out that only national drives would be considered since the Community Chest serves as a clearing house for local fund appeals.

He said the directors have recommended that such a committee should be on a broad basis to represent all civic, labor and frat-

Enrollment Of 300 Urged At Frostburg

Maryland will need 650 new teachers each year because of increasing school enrollments and the proposed reduction in size of classes, and Frostburg State Teachers College must have a teacher-training enrollment of at least 300 each year to help supply the need, Dr. James E. Spitznas said last night.

Dr. Spitznas, director of instruction of the State Board of Education, was one of the speakrs at the "Public Relations Day" event held at the college. Approximately 300 persons from Allegany and Garrett Counties attended.

(After the meeting, however, Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, said the State Board of Education has urged a teacher-training enrollment at the college of between 350 and 500 students each year to meet the demand for teachers.

Recalls Recommendations

(She pointed out that the total enrollment at the college this year is 230, of which only 115 are training for the teaching profession.)

Dr. Spitznas recalled recommendations made recently by Miss Compton, which call for a new library, men's residence, auditorium and gymnasium, science building, new campus school and a larger campus.

Another speaker was Dr. Ralph McDonald, executive secretary of the department of higher education of the National Education Association.

Dr. McDonald said a recent survey of teachers' colleges throughout the nation revealed that only 11,500 will be graduated this year as qualified elementary school teachers, whereas 150,000 are needed.

He said statictics show that there are now half a million more pupils in elementary schools than in 1939 and 1940, with fewer elementary teachers, and that classrooms all over the country are overcrowded because of the lack of teachers.

"Conditions in secondary schools are not so discouraging, but the teacher shortage in elementary schools is tragic," he declared.

Dr. McDonald stated there is no more fundamental need at present than to increase facilities of the nation's teachers' colleges.

Favor Expansion

He urged that every effort be made to arouse the American people to recognition of the fact that they are allowing the public school system to deteriorate.

Other speakers, all of whom favored the expansion of the Frostburg college, were W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland attorney; Miss Catherine Thomas, president of the college Alumni Association; Postmaster Michael J. Byrnes of Frostburg; and William H. Kroll, a student at the college.

F. E. Rathbun, Garrett County superintendent of schools, read a letter from State Senator Lawrence A. Fraley of Oakland, in which Fraley stated he would work for any legislation to increase the facilities of the college.

"This institution is the only one providing higher education opportunities for young men and women of Garrett County. Therefore our interest is mutual with Allegany and other Western Maryland counties in having the college remain in Frostburg," Fraley's letter said.

Maurice J. Matteson, chairman of the committee which arranged the event, presided. Miss Compton gave introductory remarks.

RIU Petitions For Shop Crafts

The Railroad Industrial Union yesterday petitioned the United States Mediation Board in Washington for an election to determine the bargaining rights of power house, shop laborers and electrical workers of the Western Maryland Railway.

Elmer E. Davis, this city, RIU president, said the union submitted the application cards signed by about 128 of the 213 workers.

Another 20 employes, including four shop laborers employed at the iron and ore piers at Baltimore and 16 electrical workers may be included in the bargaining unit when the election is held, Davis explained.

The RIU, which now represents road crews of the railway, began a drive early this year to enroll all crafts into the RIU.

Charters have already been issued for locals in Baltimore, Hagerstown and Cumberland, Md., and Dunbar, Pa., and a fifth charter will be instituted in Elkins, W. Va., May 30, Davis said.

Three Bids Received For Park Concession

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that three bids have been received for operating the soft drink and food concession at Constitution Park Casino.

The sealed bids, one of which was submitted by Anton Anthony, will be opened by the Park Board at 10 o'clock this morning.

Anthony has operated the concession since June, 1940. His lease agreement with the city expires May 31.

The Weather

There's a slow but sure return to the good ol' summer time weather, the weatherman says, but showers can be expected at most anytime, but certainly not today, with a promise of fair and warmer. The thermometer went down to a low of 40 degrees last night and by 8 o'clock it still had come up only eight degrees. The high for yesterday was recorded at 70 degrees and at 10 o'clock last night, the reading was 60, but expected to hit around 50 during the night. Not near so cold from here on in, unless those cold north winds start up again, the weatherman promises.

Westvaco Offers 5 Cent Interim Wage Increase

Luke Union To Hold Mass Meeting Tonight

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP) — The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, today offered an interim wage increase of five cents an hour to hourly paid employes or to negotiate a general renewal of the contract which expires in August.

The interim increase would run pending negotiations in August if the union approved it.

Company officials and representatives of the CIO United Paper-Workers of America discussed wages most of the day. The union then adjourned the session until Monday in order to report the proposals to the union locals.

The company has plants at Covington, Va., Luke, Md., and Williamsburg, Pa.

The union demanded a 25-cent an hour across the board increase in February, under provisions of the present contract permitting an interim revision of wages by mutual consent. It also asked a fund of one percent of the total payroll for adjustment of rates which it said were out of line.

The company rejected the demand at that time and again today.

Discussions brought out that various other companies in the paper industry have recently granted wage increases. The company said they were less than half what was asked of it, and that it knew of none unless accompanied by general negotiation of a contract to last at least a year.

The company then offered to go ahead with a general negotiation. The union at first refused. Then, when the company made its alternative offer of an interim increase, the union requested adjournment in order to report to its membership.

Officials of Luke Local 676, United Paper Workers of America, CIO, reported last night that mass meetings of the membership will be held tonight and tomorrow to discuss the wage negotiations.

The meetings will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the Red Men's Hall, Westernport, and Saturday at 10 a. m. at the same place, according to Mrs. Hazel Haywood, Westernport, union secretary.

Officials of the local who attended the meeting in Washington are expected to return home by noon today.

Kelly Union Asks 7 Paid Holidays

Contract negotiations between Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be resumed Monday at 10 a. m. at the Kell; plant, A. E. Johnson, union president, said yesterday.

Slated for discussion at the meeting are union proposals on overtime pay and paid holidays.

The union is asking time and one-half for Saturdays "as such." At present workers get premium pay for Saturdays only if total hours exceed 40.

Paid Holidays—the union is asking that the union picnic be recognized as a paid holiday.

In the present contract, the company recognizes the following paid holidays, New Year's Day, Decoration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

Several rubber locals now are paid for the day on which an annual picnic is held, the union said.

Celanese Worker Burned At Work

William Ranck, 20 Harrison Street, a worker at the Celanese plant, was burned severely yesterday while at work, when a heater kicked out while he was returning a hose to its position. He was treated at Memorial Hospital for burns of the face, neck, shoulders, cheeks and chest.

Frank Martz, 24, Corriganville, was admitted to the same hospital after his foot, was caught in a roller while working at the Lock Joint Pipe Company.

Mary Moore, 50, 37 Wempe Drive, was treated for injuries sustained when she fell from a ladder, through a window, while working at her home. She was treated for lacerations to her right arm.

A 35-year-old woman identified as Reba Wallace, 77 North Mechanic Street, was admitted to the same hospital early yesterday morning after she reportedly fell while getting out of a taxi cab.

Rubber Union May End Ballot Count Today

Officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers of America, CIO, announced yesterday that the counting of ballots in the annual election of officers may be completed today.

Nominees for president of the 2,500 member Kelly local are A. E. Johnson, incumbent, and Ralph C. Beard and Roy E. Davy, both former presidents.

He began his career in McKeesport, Pa., and after working on several publications came to Cumberland where he was employed by the old Cumberland Daily News. He began working on the Cumberland News when it was first published and continued with the Times and Alleganian Company until now. He was named after Pope Pius IX and President Rutherford B. Hayes.

State Director Cites Work Of Parole System

Stresses Worth Of Supervised Release

Referring to the Maryland parole system as a "sensible method" of restoring convicts to a useful place in society, F. Murray Benson told the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday that conditional release might be granted in all cases to assure a planned program of supervision and rehabilitation of criminals while the state still has jurisdiction over their actions.

Benson, who has been director of the State of Maryland probation system since 1944, following two years as city solicitor of Baltimore, was introduced by Thomas B. Finan, Kiwanis program chairman.

The speaker contrasted changes in penal methods from the days when manacles and torture were used in prisons, with the present.

Prisoners are now given opportunities to increase their education and to learn new jobs so that they may be returned to society better able to cope with its problems, Benson said.

Cites Rehabilitation

Pointing out that deficiencies in character rather than in mentality are often to blame for criminal actions, the state director said there is a definite attempt toward "institutional rehabilitation."

However, he explained that such rehabilitation is not natural because the prisoners must follow set rules of activities while he is in the institution. This does not prepare him for the free choices he must make when he is released, Benson added.

In this connection Benson commented that the nation's increasing dependency on paternalistic government rather than on individual freedom of thought and action is complicating the problem of parole.

Under state law, he said, a convict who has served one-third of his sentence may be considered for parole, except for those sentenced to life imprisonment, who are eligible for parole consideration at the end of 15 years.

The choice, Benson said, lies between "supervised release" of a convict before the end of his sentence, when a parole officer can aid the man in finding employment and rehabilitating himself, or release of the prisoner at the end of his sentence with no preparation for returning to society.

"No man can 'pay a debt to society' until he contributes in some useful way to society, and he can't do that in jail," Benson remarked.

He pointed out that one benefit of the paroling of convicts is that the parole officer knows the community and can enlist the support of local organizations in rehabilitating convicts.

Personnel Increased

From five parole officers and 500 cases, Benson now directs 13 supervising officers, four senior officers and one field officer, with 1,400 cases.

Other guests at yesterday's luncheon meeting at Central YMCA included James Cavanaugh, one of Benson's assistants J. Hubert Black, Hagerstown, senior parole officer for Western Maryland; Alton C. Whitmore, Frederick, parole officer in the Western Maryland office in Hagerstown; and David Steele, Cumberland, parole officer for Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Three new members, introduced by John J. Robinson, Kiwanis vice president, were welcomed into the club. They are Dr. George M.

Planning Group Prepares Rules

Mayor Thomas S. Post and Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz indicated last night that the ordinance under which a seven - member City Recreation Board was appointed in March, 1947 will be rescinded to avoid conflict with the newly established Recreation Planning Committee.

Although board members later resigned as a result of dissension regarding the appointment of a city recreation director, the ordinance, passed February 24, 1947, is still on the books.

The matter came up at the first meeting last night in City Hall of the Recreation Planning Committee, which was appointed 10 days ago by the Mayor and Council.

Clair R. Mease is the only member of the defunct recreation board who is serving on the new 15-member committee.

Explains Function

Buchholtz opened last night's meeting with an explanation of the function of the group, which will prepare recommendations to be submitted to the Mayor and Council with regard to development of all types of recreation facilities in the city.

The committee was appointed after a $150,000 recreation bond issue was approved by Cumberland voters at the municipal election in March. The funds are to be earmarked for acquisition of additional land where necessary and improvement of existing facilities.

Buchholtz pointed out that the committee will consider all types of recreation, and suggested that Cumberland adults and children be polled with regard to the types of recreation they desire.

He stressed the two-to-one vote by which the recreation bond issue was approved, stating "it shows the people are recreation-minded."

Buchholtz estimated the committee should be able to submit its report in three to six months.

George H. Tederick, who was named acting secretary, presided as the committee drew up a list of tentative rules for ratification at the first regular meeting, scheduled next Thursday, May 27, at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Appointment of a permanent chairman, vice chairman and secretary will be made at that time. Arrangements will also be made for the showing of a color film on recreation, "Playtown U.S.A."

Meanwhile, Mayor Post said two persons will be appointed in place of J. Suter Kegg and C. V. Burns, who have notified the Mayor and Council they will be unable to serve on the committee. Appointments will be made before next Thursday's meeting, the mayor said.

Rules Are Listed

Various rules, suggested by members of the committee and given tentative approval, are as follows:

1. Members who are absent from two consecutive meetings without a reasonable excuse shall be dropped, and appointments made to fill their places.

2. Two-thirds of the full committee, or 10 persons, shall constitute a quorum. A majority vote of the quorum shall be needed in making decisions. However, unanimous vote of the full 15-member committee shall be necessary to reverse any previous proposals voted by the group. Proxy votes will be accepted in such cases.

3. In the event a vacancy exists in any of the three offices, the committee shall fill the vacancy

Mother Of Injured Student Is Hurt In Fall; Both Are "Good"

Thomas Harrison, 24, Ridgeley High School senior, was reported improving in Memorial Hospital last night and the family hoped the report of "good" was an indication of the future.

Misfortune has been besieging the family now for at least two months. It began when their Ridgeley, W. Va., home was destroyed by fire in late March.

Then Harrison fell from a loading platform last week and suffered a brain concussion. He was admitted to the hospital where his condition has been daily reported critical until yesterday, when attaches said he "has shown great improvement and his condition is good."

The family misfortune was aggravated Wednesday when Mrs. Charles E. Harrison, the student's mother, fell and suffered a fractured collar bone. She also was admitted to Memorial Hospital and last night attaches reported her condition "good."

Harrison once before was injured in an automobile accident and as a result missed several years of school. However, when his physical condition permitted he returned.

Whitworth, Kimble To Consider Only 'Emergency Bills'

Oppose Controversial Issues For Assembly

The Chairman of the Allegany County Delegation and Senator Robert B. Kimble said yesterday they will decline to introduce any legislation "that is not an extreme emergency measure" at the special session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegation chairman, declared he and "other members of the Delegation with whom I have had an opportunity to talk" believe that it is a "better policy to not consider the introduction of local legislation at this time."

Senator Kimble reiterated Whitworth's statement and added he has expressed that opinion to members of the Maryland Legislative Council at recent meetings held in preparation for the special session scheduled to convene next Tuesday at the request of Governor Lane.

Ministers Interested

Whitworth said his statement stemmed from a recent meeting with a member of the Ministerial Association of Allegany County when it was called to his attention that "there may be some contemplation by members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly of Maryland to introduce some bills of a local nature on various subjects that are controversial throughout the county."

The Ministerial Association's interest was aroused, Whitman explained, "by a proposed bill that would legalize lotteries throughout the state when sponsored by church groups or charitable organizations."

Senator Kimble declared last night that from indirect information received by the Legislative Council at a meeting Wednesday the bill "probably will not be introduced.

Of the approximately 75 bills submitted to the Legislative Council for its support, Senator Kimble said, the group will approve only the Administration Salary Bill and legislation permitting counties and incorporated communities to set up fire prevention codes.

Of the 75 bills submitted to the Legislative Council, Kimble said a large majority pertain to gambling of one type or another in various counties in the state. Allegany County is not included, Senator Kimble explained.

Need Referendum

The bills stand a slim chance of becoming law at the special session, Kimble declared, adding that he is basing his opinion on an indirect message from Governor Lane received yesterday which indicated the Governor "will not sign any gambling bill passed at the special session unless it carries a referendum."

Whitworth said, "It is impossible to draw and study good legislation within the three or four days that the special session is expected to last, wherein there would be no opportunity for hearings for the general public, either proponents or opponents, on any subjects and therefore we believe it is better policy to not consider the introduction of local legislation at this time, especially since we know of no special emergency in the county that necessitates immediate action and that cannot wait until the regular session next January, 1949, at which time ample opportunity will be given to all people in the county to express their opinions about all contemplated bills."

Blue Ridge Bus Drivers Walk Off Jobs Suddenly

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 20 (AP)—The Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL) announced a work stoppage effective at 8 p. m. tonight throughout the Eastern Division of the Blue Ridge Bus Lines.

The company provides Hagerstown's only bus contact with Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Cumberland and Frederick. The union said buses en route at 8 p. m. would continue as per schedule to their destinations.

Meanwhile, William E. Giffin, president of Local 1335, said a continuous meeting of the union began here simultaneous with the walkout deadline. At midnight, union officials said 75 men had already gone off their jobs and that 175 drivers and maintenance men would be involved eventually.

Giffin said the organization's dispute with the company involved the firing of an employe on May 2, on the grounds that he had allegedly filed incorrect reports. The union called this a contract violation, since the driver was notified of the reported discrepancies 19 days after their occurence, instead of within 15 days as provided by agreement between the union and the company.

Giffin said there was no dispute over wages, hours, or working conditions involved in the walkout.

The company made no comment, other than that they had received no notification of the work stoppage.

G. E. Shinholt, ticket agent in the Cumberland office, was unaware of the strike at 12:30 a. m. but five minutes after contacting Hagerstown reported that the Eastern Division of Blue Ridge was on strike.

All buses that left terminals before 8 p. m. (EST) will continue on to their destination, Shinholt said he was informed, and added a bus going from Washington to Pittsburgh was due here at 12:55 a. m. (EST) and one from Pittsburgh to Washington was scheduled to arrive in Cumberland at 2:25 a. m.

Shinholt said the bus presumably left Pittsburgh after the 8 p. m. deadline, but was unable to explain why. He declared, however, that the Hagerstown office advised him the bus was running on time.
